Notable is the list of Presidents who have sought to make Washington worthy of the Nation's greatness, and Mr. Coolidge now takes his place in that roll: John Adams, recommending liberality in the first message ever sent to Congress in this city; Jefferson, encouraging the planning and building; Lincoln, completing the Capitol in the midst of the civil war; Grant, riding out at 5 in the morning with Alexander R. Shepherd to inspect the public works, and setting out the first trees, now grown into a mighty forest. Rome wasn't built in a day—nor in 127 years, either.

SEARCH OF THE SEA FOR PLANE STARTED; FOG SHROUDS COAST

Nungesser and Coli May Be Wrecked; Hope Is Maintained.

REPORTS OF SEEING MACHINE NUMEROUS

None of Rumors Confirmed, and Nightfall Brings Fear Men Are in Trouble.

THRONGS WAIT IN VAIN FOR DEFINITE MESSAGE

Bad Weather Prevails; Ice Patrol Boat Modoc Fails to Find Any Trace.

New York, May 9 (By A. P.).—With the French transatlantic plane more than 8 hours overdue at 11 o'clock tonight, preparations were under way for a search of the north Atlantic.

There had been no authenticated report up to that hour indicating the success or fate of the aviators.

An unusually heavy fog shrouded the coast from sundown, making the landing of the fliers difficult and their location from any shore-point doubtful.

St. Johns, N. B., May 9 (By A. P.). The Red Head wireless station, 6 miles from here, reported tonight it had been advised, unofficially, that the French transatlantic plane had been sighted by ships off St. Pierre Miquelon. There was no confirmation from other sources.

The two French airmen, who pitted their war-steeled nerves against the murky terrors of the Atlantic in the storm, were somewhere "on the trail" between Paris and New York late today, in their trim stripped craft, the "White Bird," as the 40-hour period gasoline supply ended without definite word as to the fliers' whereabouts.

Whether the aviators, Capts. Charles Nungesser, pilot, and Francois Coli, navigator, were still in the air, floating on the ocean, or wrecked upon high waves or Newfoundland wasteland, no one early this evening could say.

Great excitement pulsed through waiting crowds, assembled at the New York water front and standing on tugs in the harbor, when report after report told of the progress of a plane between Rockland, Maine, and Gloucester, Mass.

Hopes Are Blasted.

But before dark hopes from that direction died when the navy yard at Boston messaged its belief the plane was a coast guard craft, and New York, tucked beneath a blanket of murky fog, continued its reception preparations literally in the dark.

Speculation, indeed, due to the total absence of positive sighting, was the "news" of the day. Reports ranged widely from rumors of seeing the plane off Newfoundland to spotting its glistening body over Portland, Maine, and Boston, Mass.

No ship, however, in the regular lanes, had reported its whirring motors on this side of the Atlantic; no encouraging news came from the ice patrol boat, Modoc, scouting northward off the "beaten tracks" of shipping lanes, and wireless operators, shipping men and coast watchers from Halifax to Montauk point strained eyes and ears for hours, without avail.

Bad Weather Prevails.

The tenseness of the wait for news of the men who sought to make the first westward crossing of the Atlantic by air, and to beat whatever Americans are entered in the long-waited $25,000 Orteig prize nonstop competition, kept Paris and New York in a constant cable communication as rumors and reports went flashing back and forth.

Seek Record for France.

The flight, which was an effort to achieve the record for France of the nonstop westward crossing of the Atlantic, was commenced with little precedence to work on, the only eastward nonstop flight having been made over a much shorter distance. That was achieved by Capt. John Alcock and Lieut. Arthur W. Brown in June, 1919, when they flew from Newfoundland to Clifden, Ireland, 1,980 miles, in 16 hours and 12 minutes, a distance approximately half the Paris-New York flight.

Capts. Nungesser and Coli took off from the flying field at Le Bourget, near Paris, Sunday morning at 5:18 o'clock (11:18 a. m. Eastern Standard time), with Nungesser as the pilot and

Bellanca Plane to Hop Off For Paris if Its Rival Fails

Chamberlin Machine Ready to Start Transatlantic Attempt at 1 A. M. Tomorrow—Good Weather Expected by That Time.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, May 9.—Declared entirely fit, after its final test flight, the Bellanca monoplane Columbia stood ready at Roosevelt field, Long Island, tonight awaiting the signal from G. M. Bellanca to hop off to Paris.

Clarence Chamberlain and Lloyd Bertaud, his navigator, anxiously waited for the word to go. Bellanca said tonight if definite information came by 1 a. m. Wednesday that Capt. Charles Nungesser had failed, he would order his plane to make the transatlantic dash.

Shortly before 5 p. m. today Chamberlain and Bertaud took their last test flight in the Bellanca plane.

After coming down they reported to Bellanca that everything was in perfect shape mechanically for the hop. Immediately Bellanca announced that the tentative starting time had been advanced from 4 a. m. to 1 a. m. Wednesday. All is contingent, however, on the success of the Nungesser flight. Bellanca declared he would consider Nungesser's flight a success if he came within 500 miles of New York city.

"All we are praying for right now," he said, "is favorable weather conditions. With good weather we have high hopes of success."

If weather conditions are not favorable Wednesday, a start in the early hours of Thursday or Friday will be attempted, it was announced.

OTHER FLIERS RESCUED FROM ATLANTIC IN PAST

LOCATELLI ALSO SAVED

By HAROLD HADLEY, Former Aviator.

New York, May 9.—Precedent gives rise to hopes that Capts. Charles Nungesser and Francois Coli, pilot and navigator, respectively, of the White Bird, thought by aviation experts to be afloat tonight on the north Atlantic, will be rescued. Their plight—for they must have landed since their fuel supply was exhausted hours ago, is not unlike that of the late Harry G. Hawker in 1919, and in later years, of Lieut. Antonio Locatelli. These pilots were lost in the northern Atlantic wastes for days—heavy seas buffeted their frail crafts—ships not as sturdy as the White Bird, yet they were rescued.

A Very pistol signal, a green rocket shot into the night, saved Locatelli and his three companions. Nungesser carries no rockets; he scorned them so that his plane should carry a minimum of weight.

Luck, more than anything else, was the factor that saved Hawker. Determined to fly from Newfoundland to Europe, Hawker and Lieut. Comdr. McKenzie Grieve took off on May 18, 1919. Their plane covered 1,075 miles, the motor coughed and died and they landed in the sea 850 miles off the north Irish coast. The water line was clogged.

Six days passed, and no news came from the aviators. Then, on May 25, the little Danish steamer Mary passed the Butt of Lewis, northernmost points of the Hebrides, and signaled that the fliers were aboard.

Hawker's ship, with linen wings and wooden frame, had kept afloat, though it was shreded by angry waves that at times swept completely over it. Hawker and his companion were suffering from hunger and thirst; but otherwise were none the worse for their experience.

PINEDO FORCED DOWN TWICE WITH PLANE

Boston - Philadelphia Flight Blocked and He Ends Day at New York.

New York, May 9 (By A. P.).—Commander Francesco de Pinedo, Italian flier, took off from Norwalk, Conn., late today for Philadelphia, made a forced landing in the East river at the foot of 162d street, the Bronx. He had planned to land at the Brooklyn navy yard if unable to go on to Philadelphia tonight.

Norwalk, Conn., May 9 (By A. P.). Commander De Pinedo, Italian four-continent flier, who was forced down here because of heavy fog this morning, again took the air late this afternoon and continued his trip from Boston to for Philadelphia.

The fog had lifted and the Italian airman decided to make his objective tonight. He took off from the Norwalk Yacht club at Wilson's plant. Mayor Thomas Robins and a delegation of 200 Italians were present to give him a sendoff.

Judgeship Rumored For Mrs. Willebrandt

(By the Associated Press.)

There were indications yesterday that Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney General, is among those under consideration by President Coolidge for appointment as the Federal judge in the Northern district of California.

Other names brought forward for the place include Walter Perry Johnson and Franklin E. Griffin, of San Francisco, both members of the State superior court. If appointed, Mrs. Willebrandt would be the first woman to be named as a Federal judge.

800 ADDITIONAL MARINES TO BE SENT TO NICARAGUA

Will Be Used as Protection Against Banditry; Asked By Both Sides.

CONSTABULARY PLANNED

(By the Associated Press.)

Orders preparatory to the sending of 800 additional marines and nine more marine airplanes to Nicaragua for police purposes were disclosed yesterday at the State and Navy Departments. At the same time it was announced at the State Department that this step had been agreed upon by the liberal and conservative leaders in Nicaragua as a precaution to insure preservation of peace and suppression of banditry until a national constabulary can be organized.

The Navy Department said the additional marines would be gathered from various posts and held available for transportation to Nicaragua as soon as Rear Admiral Latimer, commanding the naval forces there, indicates to what points they are to be sent. For the moment the marines are under standby orders.

A State Department announcement disclosed the purpose of the movement. It read:

"The sending of additional marine forces by the navy at Admiral Latimer's request does not indicate any new situation or unforeseen complications in Nicaragua. By arrangement with both sides in the conflict which is terminating, Admiral Latimer has assumed certain obligations to preserve order and place various areas pending the organization of the national constabulary in accordance with the agreement.

It was said at the State Department that Gen. Moncada, liberal commander in chief, had called the attention of Henry L. Stimson, personal representative of President Coolidge in Nicaragua, to the possibility of outbreaks of lawlessness after his troops had been disarmed and disbanded. His warning applied to the areas now occupied by the liberal forces.

$3,000,000 IS SOUGHT IN DELINQUENT TAXES

No Centralized Accounts of Property Owners' Indebtedness, Taliaferro Finds.

Commissioner Sidney F. Taliaferro called a conference of District officials yesterday to try to devise means of collecting $3,000,000 of delinquent taxes, some of them in arrears for many years. He appointed a committee consisting of Assessor William P. Richards, Tax Collector Chatham Towers and Secretary Daniel E. Garges, of the board of commissioners, to report to him as to the exact situation and whether any method can be devised to collect.

Among other things, the commissioner found that there is no centralized bookkeeping of the sums owed the District by property owners. Towers has the accounts for real and personal taxes, but special assessments are divided between the offices of Garges and Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, who also attended the conference.

The commissioner expressed the view that a more businesslike procedure would be to have all the accounts against taxpayers centralized in one set of books. He said that if he went to the bookkeeper of a department store he could get a statement of all he owed in all departments, and that it ought to be so in the transaction of public business.

Earth shocks of pronounced intensity were recorded yesterday by the Georgetown university seismograph. They began at 3:11 p. m. and continued one hour. Director Tondorf estimated the center of disturbance at about 2,500 miles from Washington.

DEATH TOLL GROWS AS NEW TORNADOES STRIKE SIX STATES

CRIES OF WOUNDED HEARD IN DARKNESS

70 LIVES SNUFFED OUT IN ARKANSAS DISTRICTS

Many Still in Debris, is Fear; Communication With Many Sections Cut Off.

(By the Associated Press.)

The death list in tornadoes and storms, which have been sweeping the middle West since Saturday, stood at approximately 170 last night, with more than 1,000 injured, and property loss of millions of dollars.

Approximately 40 persons were killed and 100 injured when a tornado moved through the business area of Poplar Bluff, Mo., late yesterday, while more than 70 persons were killed and some 300 injured in a series of twisters that shot across Arkansas from the central southern portion to the northwestern tip. In addition, reports trickling in over damaged lines of communication of the storm-swept territory, added to the mounting list of dead and injured.

The Monday afternoon total of 100 or more dead was added to a casualty total of 55 killed Saturday night, Sunday and early yesterday in Texas, Kansas, Missouri and other States.

Two separate tornadoes, which swept through northwestern Texas early Monday, caused 32 deaths at Nevada, Garland, Wolfe City and Kellogg, injured 50 and caused a property damage of $1,000,000.

A dozen were killed and 30 injured Sunday night when tornadoes hit several central and southern central Missouri counties, while ten were killed and thousands made homeless when the first of the twisters struck four Kansas counties Saturday night.

Poplar Bluff Is Stricken.

Poplar Bluff, Mo., May 9 (By A. P.).—Approximately 40 persons were killed and 100 injured in a tornado which swept through the business section here late today.

The tornado destroyed virtually every building in an area four blocks wide and four blocks long. Not a single store was left undamaged. Property damage was estimated well over $1,000,000. The city was in darkness tonight and the cries of injured men, women and children could be heard from all parts of the devastated section.

The tornado hit like a bullet from a gun. Buildings of large size were crumpled as though they were paper and trees were pulled from the earth and hurled into the air.

Pitiful scenes were enacted on the streets. The injured and homeless, with no place to turn, were climbing through the wreckage while a downpour of rain gave no sign of a letup.

School Children Victims.

One of the most sorrowful sights was the destruction of the East Side school. Many children were injured and several were reported killed. Virtually every building in the business section was leveled, but apparently most of the residence section was spared. Main and Broadway streets, parallel principal thoroughfares, caught the brunt of the twister. Fire started in Harris hotel soon after the tornado struck and for a time threatened the entire business section.

The Ducker hotel, a four-story brick structure, was laid in ruins. Almost miraculously, two theaters with large matinee crowds were not struck by the tornado.

Frantic pleas went out tonight for succor. Physicians were recruited at Dexter and were brought here by special train.

P. H. Byrnes, executive secretary of the St. Louis chapter of the American Red Cross, and four internes from hospitals there left there for Popular Bluff in a coach attached to the Missouri Pacific train leaving here shortly before midnight. The American Legion began patrolling streets, which were almost impenetrable because of the tangled wreckage.

The building of the Poplar Bluff Daily Republican was demolished. The Associated Press telegraph operator escaped after the roof had caved in and the walls collapsed.

Capital, Pride of Nation, Coolidge Urges on Planners

Executive Sends Letter to Conference in Session Here. Factories Not Going to Be Tolerated in City, Graham Tells Delegates.

A National Capital of which all Americans might be proud and which would be a suitable expression of America's ideals and achievements, is the hope of President Calvin Coolidge.

The President voiced his interest in Washington yesterday in a letter read at the opening session of the National Conference on City Planning at the Wardman Park hotel. The letter, which was addressed to Dr. John Nolen, chairman of the conference, said, in part:

"Meeting here after nine years, I hope your conference will appreciate the progress made toward assuring for Washington the benefits of all developments in the art of city planning. The work done and planned is aimed to make our National Capital a city of which all our citizens may be proud and a suitable expression of our ideals and achievements.

"I have been especially interested in the application of far-sighted and comprehensive planning to the administration of the nation's business. Your efforts to secure the application of this principle to the development of our rapidly growning towns and cities are deserving of utmost success.

"I am sure your deliberations will bring about an exchange of ideas and of experience which will be of mutual benefit. And, I hope you will carry

Extra Holiday to Continue Month Longer, to October, Coolidge Orders.

WAS URGED BY A. F. OF L.

Half holidays on Saturdays for government employes will begin June 4 and will continue a month longer this summer than heretofore, according to an order issued by President Coolidge yesterday. The President accepted the suggestion of the American Federation of Labor that the half-holiday season begin June 1 and continue until October 1, instead of extending from June 15 to September 15, as heretofore.

The first half holiday under this plan will come June 4, the 1st falling on Wednesday.

William Green, president of the federation, called on the President last week in an effort to have the half-holiday season extended. He pointed out that private employers are becoming more liberal in the shortening of hours during the summer.

Many employers, it was pointed out, grant the half holiday on Saturday throughout the year. Government business feels the summer slack, it is said, and the extra month will in no wise work against efficiency. Now the precedent has been established, it is believed that the holidays will extend from June 1 to October 1 every year.

DOHENY FIRM LOSES U. S. INTEREST SUIT

Ordered to Pay Government on Principal Awarded in Elk Hills Case.

Los Angeles, May 9 (A. P.).—The Pan-American Petroleum Corporation and the Pan-American Petroleum & Transport Co. were ordered in Federal court today to pay the government interest upon the value of all petroleum produced from naval reservation No. 2, which recently was ordered returned to the government.

The amounts of interest due are to be computed by auditors and submitted as a portoin of the final decree later to be made. The principal sum involved is $9,889,229.51 in the case of the transport company, and $1,556,861.17 for the petroleum company.

Federal Judge McCormick, in announcing his decision, declared that the interest upon the amount due is to be computed only until March, 1924. He pointed out that following the appointment of receivers for the reserve which is known as the Elk Hills oil field, the government made no attempt to prevent further deliveries of oil and petroleum products to the transport company.

PAUL KELLY ON TRIAL IN KILLING OF ACTOR

Ten Women and Two Men Are Chosen Tentatively for the Jury.

FIST FIGHT WAS FATAL

Los Angeles, May 9 (By A. P.).—Paul Kelly, a young screen actor, whose roles have been the romantic ones of a juvenile, today faced Judge Charles Burnell in superior court here, charged with murder.

Indicted as the result of a fist fight with Ray Raymond, musical comedy actor, who died in a hospital after the battle over Raymond's wife, Dorothy Mackaye, actress, young Kelly strode into court late today to start another battle, a legal one, for his life.

With the preliminaries out of the way, the hunt for a jury began and challenge followed challenge as the State and the defense each discarded men and women and filled the box with others.

Over against the wall and within the rail sat Dorothy Mackaye, whose dead husband had upbraided her for her friendship for Kelly. The actress, accustomed to the gaze of audiences from across the footlights, was obviously nervous at the steady glances of the courtroom throug.

Clad in black, she hurried to her place, her piercing black, almond-shaped eyes darting about, a slight smile now and then parting her lips.

Quietly and almost apologetically Mrs. Lottie Cedarbloom slipped through the courtroom door just before the case was called and picked her way to a chair. She was the mother of the dead man, Ray Raymond, come from the East, she declared, to see justice done.

When court adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning ten women and two men jurors had been tentatively passed. Four peremptory challenges each remain to be exercised by defenses and prosecution when the process of elimination is continued.

FIRE IN SHIP AT SEA; FLAMES CONTROLLED

Another Ship Stands by Comus, Off Florida; Blaze in Hold.

New York, May 9 (By A. P.).—Fire, which had broken out in the No. 2 hold of the steamer Comus of the Southern Pacific Steamship Co., off the coast of Florida, has apparently been brought under control, a message received by the Independent Wireless Co. tonight stated.

The message, which came from the Clyde liner Cherokee, added that the steamer Eloceano, also of the Southern Pacific Line, was standing by the Comus.

The Comus sailed from New York last Saturday and is due in New Orleans next Friday. She carried her regular quota of passengers and a cargo of general freight.

The ship is an oil burner, of 4,760 tons, and is commanded by Capt. Harry T. Boyd.

Dublin, Ireland, May 9 (By A. P.). Suit has been brought against Mrs. Beulah Croker, widow of Richard Croker, for $40,000 by Daniel O'Mahoney Leary, the biggest bookmaker in Ireland. He sues to recover this amount on betting commissions executed in her behalf prior to 1924.

Four Children Burn To Death on Farm

PAIR FOUND GUILTY BY JURY OF KILLING WOMAN'S HUSBAND

Verdict Is Murder in the First Degree; Death Is Mandatory.

HER HEAD JERKS UP; HE STARES QUEERLY

Both Soon Regain Control of Selves, However, and Sit Erect and Proud.

CROWDS CHEER JURORS; WOMEN ARE OVERCOME

Formal Sentence Postponed Until Monday and Both Are Led Back to Cells.

New York, May 9 (By A. P.).—Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder and Henry Judd Gray, her corset salesman paramour, are to pay with their lives for the crime that snatched them from obscurity and made them internationally known.

Deliberating less than two hours, a jury today convicted them of the murder of Mrs. Snyder's husband, Albert Snyder, magazine art editor. Death sentence is mandatory for first degree murder, but the formality of sentence was postponed until next Monday morning.

Cheers greeted the verdict when it was flashed to the crowd outside Long Island City's supreme court. Inside the court the verdict was received in silence. Neither defendant exhibited any great emotion, and seemed to be either too dazed to fully comprehend its portent or only hearing what they had expected.

Her Head Jerks Perceptibly.

When, after the usual formalities, the foreman uttered his "both guilty of murder in the first degree," Mrs. Snyder's blonde head, professionally dressed for the occasion by a hairdresser, jerked perceptibly. Her eyes, roving like those of one fainting, fixed upon the square shoulders of her erstwhile lover. Then she stiffened, her head came back into position, and thus, erect and proud, she sat while the jury was polled.

But Gray, whose plea of dominance by the superior mind of Mrs. Snyder had led some to believe him less the stoic than the woman who insinuated murder into his head, made no more fuss about the matter than she.

Gray's face was slightly flushed as he entered the courtroom behind the jurors. It retained that flush as he heard his fate.

Weak Eyes Peer Out.

But his weak eyes peered queerly through his spectacles, and one hand went, almost as if by reaction, to his legs, where one set of electrodes are fastened by the verdict. Then he, too, pulled himself together and sat rigidly erect without turning for a glimpse of Mrs. Snyder, who sat behind him.

They were led one at a time before the bench and their pedigrees taken. Then both were led to the obscurity of their separate cells.

Counsel for both deferred announcement of their intentions as regards appeals. Justice Townsend Scudder thanked the jurors, and they left their seats, to be swept bruisingly along in the stream of humanity outside. There they were greeted by cheers and flashlights, as photographers pressed around them.

The courtroom was jammed long before the verdict was announced.

Before the case was given to the jury at 5:29 this evening four women had been carried from the room in a dead faint and, dozens were beseeching in fading voices to be permitted to pass through the doors that had been locked when Justice Scudder began his 75-minute charge.

She Is Called Serpent Woman.

All that was held before the spectators as a promise of something worthwhile were the summations and the charge. But the crowd came early, and notables were jammed into corners with nondescripts, and the scent of the furs of actresses was added to the generally fetid air.

William Millard, of Gray's counsel, told in an hour and a half how Gray had been snared by the "glistening coils of that serpent woman, that fiend in human guise, Mrs. Snyder." He pictured Gray a man of weak character, held in psychic dominance by a woman "with a flaming passion inside her and a greed that would stop not even at murder." She even, he asserted, plotted to poison Gray after she had procured the murder of her husband. He declared Gray was without a motive for the crime and alleged that Mrs. Snyder did the actual killing. He indicated a

WORKERS FOR CHILD HEALTH HEAR TALKS ON YOUTH WELFARE

Environment and Heredity Cited as Factors by Juvenile Biologist.

EXPERT SAYS SCIENCE SHOULD CONTROL ACTS

Hoover's Address by Proxy Reviews Work to Perfect Nation's Childhood.

Environment and heredity were cited as all-determining factors in the life of a child, by Dr. Vernon Kellogg, secretary of the National Research council, who last night addressed the fourth annual meeting of the American Child Health association, in the United States Chamber of Commerce building. Dr. Kellogg urged the organization to include in its plans for child welfare that of extending the range of scientific knowledge of child biology.

Emotions and philanthropic sentiment should be the stimulus to interest and action, Dr. Kellogg stated, but they should be controlled by a scientific attitude and scientific study. Scientific training is required, he declared, both in the natural and social sciences, in order to continue boldly along this line. Dr. Kellogg pointed out that heredity and environment must be reckoned with if the child is to be properly studied and developed.

"We must protect ourselves," Dr. Kellogg said, "in trying to find out these things, from being carried off our feet by the extreme claims of the convinced hereditists on the one side and by the extreme claims of the convinced environmentalists and educationists on the other. With only heredity or only environment no child would ever come to anything. Both heridity and environment are absolutely essential to the development of any child."

Dr. Thomas D. Wood presided at the evening session of the association, which was attended by approximately 500 persons. John Anderson, director of the Institute of Child Welfare, of the University of Minnesota, spoke briefly on "the Community and the Child," and the subject of education in health was talked on by Dr. W. W. Peter, formerly of the school of public health education, of Yale, who has just returned from China, where he was in charge of a health committee studying native conditions.

Future Aims Given.

Secretary Herbert Hoover, president of the organization, gave a speech by proxy and sent a telegram of welcome to delegates. President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, and Dr. Philip Van Ingen, secretary of the association, were among those who spoke. This was in the day session.

Secretary Hoover's address, read by Dr. Thomas D. Wood, a vice president of the organization, reviewed the work of that body and its attempt to "bring into reality the highest approach to normal and perfect childhood to which a nation has yet aspired." Expressing the hope that the American Child Health association "may fully qualify as a selfless medium of exchange through which can flow a constant stream of sound and essential data for the use of all organizations engaged in the study and protection of child life," the Secretary pointed out that marked progress in all phases of such study and protection has been made during the last year.

In his telegram from the South, where he is engaged in Mississippi flood relief work, Secretary Hoover told of his regret at not being able to open the meeting. He welcomed members and allied associations which "meet with us on a common problem." Concluding, he emphasized that child welfare work is the "most fundamental of national problems," and that those engaged upon its solution "are serving a great purpose."

Green Hits Child Labor.

President Green, in his address, called attention to the child labor question, and deplored the loss of the Federal child labor law through decision of the Supreme Court. He stated that "the nation can not possess healthy children in a full and complete degree and at the same time permit industry to employ children. Dr. Samuel J. Crumbine, who followed Mr. Green, explained other phases of work being carried out by the Child Health association and, in conclusion, hoped that "a time will come when health knowledge will be so widely interpreted to the people that there shall be no longer a productive field of operation for the organization."

A general summary of conditions leading to the formation of child welfare groups and the story of the amazing growth of such associations in the United States and Europe were furnished by Dr. Van Ingen, who, besides being secretary of the American Child Health association, is clinical professor of diseases of children at Columbia university. Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the children's bureau of the Department of Labor, presided at the afternoon session and introduced the speakers. Addresses also were made by Bailey B. Burritt, general director of the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor; Maybelle S. Welsh, associate director of the East Harlem Nursing and Health Demonstration, and Edna N. White, director of the Merrill-Palmer school. Evening sessions are being held in the United States Chamber of Commerce building, where an exhibition in connection with the meetings is being displayed under the auspices of the Departments of Agriculture, Interior and Labor, and the United States public health service.

INQUIRY IN BAKER DEATH TO CENTER AROUND TRIO

SACK LIKE BOOTLEGGERS'

Investigation of the mysterious murder of 9-year-old Albert Baker, of Fredericksburg, Va., whose body was discovered May 2 floating in the Rappahannock river, will center today around three persons—negroes living within a stone's throw of the boy's home.

Detective Sergeant Ira M. Keck, of the Metropolitan police force, who aided Fredericksburg police in their investigation last week, was asked to return to the Virginia city today to aid in questioning the negroes.

After communicating with Fredericksburg authorities yesterday, Keck expressed confidence that the mystery surrounding the Baker boy's disappearance and his death would be solved, adding hopefully, "I believe investigators are now on the right track."

The theory held by Keck and others working on the case is that the Baker boy was killed, perhaps accidentally, by a person who later disposed of the body to hide the death.

The boy disappeared the afternoon of February 22, while he was with playmates within sight of his home. When last seen alive he was standing in the street looking into an alley in which three negroes were standing at an automobile.

Police have one real clew to work on. It is the small piece of burlap which the boy's body was tied in and thrown into the river. As a matter of fact, this piece of burlap and the cord used to tie the ends together with, are the only workable clews the investigators have. After careful investigation the police believed the bag would not be of much value as a clew. Later developments, however, make this piece of burlap of real value to the police.

It is known that investigators plan to carry their investigation this week to Quantico, Va., near the United States marine base. Other pieces of burlap, similar to that used in the Baker murder, have been used at Quantico—by bootleggers, to cover half-gallon jars of corn liquor.

Several men living in Fredericksburg, all of whom are bootleggers, are known to have used pieces of burlap similar to that held by the police, in their bootlegging operations. These men will be requestioned in an effort to run out their statements, made last week, that they had not seen the Baker boy the day of his disappearance.

BURGLARS, BEATING ATTORNEY, SOUGHT

Adriaans Struck With Hammer on Finding Men Breaking Into Store.

Aroused by the brutality of two young white men who attacked and beat J. H. Adriaans, 68-year-old crippled lawyer, into unconsciousness in the hallway of his apartment at 337 Pennsylvania avenue northwest early yesterday, police are exerting every effort to bring about their arrest.

Adriaans discovered the men attempting to break into Naiman's furnishing store on the first floor of 337 Pennsylvania avenue. When the men discovered his presence they seized his hands and struck him twice over the head with a hammer.

Adriaans was forced to face the wall in the hallway and hold his hands above his head. The men searched his pockets and finding nothing struck him over the head several times and fled. Adriaans, after lying unconscious for several hours, crept to his rooms and remained there until daylight, fearing another attack.

He was taken to Casualty hospital suffering from severe lacerations and contusions on the head and shock. His condition is believed to be not serious. Police found a brace, bit and a bloody hammer in the hallway.

POLICEMEN CLEARED IN FATAL SHOOTING OF MAN IN RUM CAR

DEYOE AND SCHOTTES REINSTATED ON FORCE

Policemen G. C. Deyoe and William A. Schotter were absolved of blame in the fatal shooting of William Dement, 29 years old, alleged rum runner, of 1359 Spring road northwest, by a coroner's jury in the District morgue yesterday. The verdict held that Dement came to his death as the result of a gunshot wound, which pierced his brain, fired "by a police officer in the line of duty."

The shooting occurred the night of April 13 in the Southeast section during a liquor chase. Dement was driving the liquor car, and after being shot, the vehicle careened into a house at Fifteenth and G streets, tearing away a portion of the front porch. He died Friday night in Casualty hospital.

"They shot that boy right through the head. It was cold-blooded murder," Austin Jarboe, 303 Twelfth street southwest, who was riding with Dement in the liquor car, testified. The police version, however, held that Deyoe and Schotter were firing at the tires of the pursued car, and never in the direction of the two occupants.

The police car, containing Sergt. George Little, commander of the police liquor squad; Patrolmen Deyoe and Theodore O. Montgomery and Revenue Agent Schultz, were parked on the Marlboro road at Sixty-first street southeast, awaiting rum cars, the police version of the story held, when a car, recognized as a liquor vehicle sped by. Schultz drove the car in pursuit, the police declaring that at times their speed was as high as 80 miles an hour. Immediately the rum car began to belch a smoke screen.

Schotter Joins Chase.

At Branch road Schotter, on motorcycle, joined in the chase. Shots were fired at the fleeing car by Schotter and Deyoe, and finally when the car turned into Fifteenth street from Pennsylvania avenue the car swerved and plowed into the house. Deyoe and Sergt. Little captured Jarboe as he was running from the wrecked car, police say, and Deyoe admitted striking Jarboe.

Jarboe, however, told a different story. Visibly affected by the death of his companion, Jarboe spoke in a trembling voice and his words flowed amazingly fast. More than once his eyes filled with tears as he denounced the policemen.

"They started shooting at us as soon as they saw us on the road," he said. "They didn't know whether we were congressmen or who we were." He then followed the same route of the chase, and when the cars, in his version, entered Fifteenth street he said the police car was alongside. "Then they shot him, right through the head," he declared. "It was murder."

Although closely questioned, not one of the policemen admitted seeing any shots fired from the liquor car. They steadfastly held that the only reason the shots were fired was to puncture the tires and gasoline tank.

Coroner J. Ramsey Nevitt accepted the new police report of the affair and the inquest began at 11:30 o'clock. Dr. Nevitt postponed the inquest Saturday after deciding the police investigation and report were incomplete.

Detectives Charles J. P. Weber and Carlton Talley, of headquarters, and Assistant District Attorney Walter M. Shea testified talking to Dement and Jarboe after the shooting. At the Sixth precinct, the three said, Jarboe admitted operating the smoke screen and running 30 cases of corn liquor in the car, but gave several versions of the shooting, one time declaring the police shot deliberately, and at other times declaring a richocheting bullet hit Dement.

The policemen were suspended following the death, but were restored as the result of the verdict.

Dance Given by Curley Club and Cecilians

An entertainment and dance were given last night in Carroll hall under auspices of the Curley club and the Cecilian circle. Dramatic presentations were under the direction of John Donnelly, of the Curley club. Prof. R. Resta was in charge of the Cecilian circle, a musical organization.

The entertainment consisted of songs by Tim Regan, Charlie Plunkett, Anton Wilmet, Gertrude Whiting, Leonard Davis, the Capital trio and the Cecilian circle. A "Petit Musical Revue" was presented by Mrs. Braman's pupils. The Dugan sisters danced.

FATHER SURRENDERS HIS SON TO POLICE

Two Youths Arrested in Holdup of Auto Salesman After One Confesses.

Following confession to his father of his complicity in the holdup of Edward Williams, Washington automobile salesman, last Tuesday, Ernest Rife, 16 years old, was turned over to the police of Montgomery county by his father, Elmer Rife, of Takoma Park, Md. Horace E. Davis, 20 years old, of Woodside, Md., later was arrested at the residence of relatives in Takoma Park and lodged in the Rockville jail.

According to Rife's statement, he and Davis inveigled Williams, a salesman for the Peerless Motor Co., in Washington, to drive them out into Montgomery county on the pretext of showing the car to their parents. When they neared White Oak they held him up at the point of a pistol and took $3 from him, then tying him up and leaving him, left in the automobile. The two boys drove nearly to St. Louis in the car and did not return until Saturday night. After questioning by his father the Rife boy admitted his connection with the holdup and implicated Davis.

The car was recovered by police at the place at which young Rife declared they had left it. Young Rife was released in $1,000 bond.

away a definite interest in the City of Washington and an enthusiastic determination to aid in the accomplishment of whatever may be necessary to make it worthy of our country."

E. C. Graham, of the Board of Trade, told the delegates at a luncheon yesterday that the population of Washington gradually was moving toward the million mark. He urged them not to take seriously the talk that plans are being made to erect factory buildings in the city.

"We in Washington," he said, "are not in favor of any kind of industry here. We are not economically situated for it, so do not waste your time about it."

All that the people here want, Graham said, is a well-balanced city with such commercial activity as is necessary in a city of 500,000 population, which now is moving toward a million.

Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty, who recited the history of Washington's development, said that it was extremely unfortunate that the act of 1893, providing for a comprehensive highway plan, did not make provision for the preservation of park sites in large areas that since have been built up by realtors.

James L. Greenleaf, vice chairman of the fine arts commission, said that while the practical results are important in city planning, the planners should not sacrifice certain ideals in favor of them. He recalled the damage that would have been done had a "practical suggestion" been carried out here recently in regard to Lafayette park. This suggestion was that, in order to speed up traffic, a street be cut through the middle of the park.

Others who spoke at the luncheon were Frederic A. Delano, of the committee of 100 which is working for the beautification of Washington; Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of public buildings and public parks; Mrs. Philip Sydney Smith, of the Twentieth Century club; W. L. Bragg, representing the Virginia planning commission, and Irvin Owings, of the Maryland park and planning commission. All of these speakers voiced a welcome to the delegates.

Gordon Whitnall, director of the city plan commission of Los Angeles, Calif., told the delegates at the afternoon session that Greater Los Angeles, which includes Long Beach, Pasadena and 38 other communities, will have reached the saturation point in population when it has 12,000,000 persons—this because of the shortage of water.

No more water is to be had from the north, he said, while to the west and the south is the Pacific ocean. To the east, he said, is the Colorado river, and plans are now being made to bring water to Los Angeles from it. The Colorado acqueduct, he said, would supply about three and a quarter times as much water as present supply, and no more. Thus, he said, unless some means can be found for using the ocean water, the Los Angeles district will have to restrict its population after the 12,000,000-mark is reached. Greater Los Angeles, he said, now has a population of 2,000,000, and should have 12,000,000 in 60 years.

Night Session Is Held.

President Nolen, who talked on "Twenty Years of Progress in City Planning," and Lewis Mumford, whose topic was "The Next Twenty Years in City Planning," were the chief speakers at last night's session of the conference.

President Nolen declared that the McMillan plan for the National Capital, drafted in 1901, was the first comprehensive bit of city planning in the United States. Today, he said, 140 cities have comprehensive plans for development.

Mr. Mumford would not venture into the realm of "dream cities" or "wonder cities" of 20 years hence, but he did express some definite ideas as to the trend that city planning is taking.

Americans, he said, have finally awakened to the fact that size is not all-important to a city. Chicago and New York, he said, belong to what might be termed the "dinosaur age" in city planning.

The ideal city of the future, he said, would be one where there is a sufficiency of sunlight and air, where there is the most enjoyment and exurberance of life. The problem of housing the workers in large cities, he said, would be solved by establishing satellite cities around it.

Development of the National Capital and its environs will be the topic discussed at tonight's session. The speakers will be Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, Lieut. Col. J. Franklin Bell, Frederic A. Delano, Edward H. Bennett, Milton B. Medary, jr., Frederick Law Olmsted, Charles W. Eliot 2d and J. C. Nichols.

300 Planning Delegates Will Tour Capital Today

Three hundred delegates to the national conference on city planning will be shown Washington and informed of its future development plans this afternoon as guests of National Capital park and planning commissioners, who have arranged an automobile tour in ten buses furnished through the courtesy of the Washington Railway & Electric Co.

The tour will begin at 3 o'clock following a luncheon at the Willard hotel of delegates. Residents interested in plans for future beautification are invited to follow the caravan.

Starting at the Willard hotel, the tour will extend south through the Ellipse, past the Pan-American building to the Naval hospital; then south through Potomac park, rounding Hains point, and north skirting the Mall to Pennsylvania avenue. From there it will run past the Capitol and out Benning road across the Anacostia river.

Returning along Benning road to Bladensburg road, the buses will go north past Mount Hamilton, site of the projected national arboretum, then west to the United States Soldiers home, and north again to the Fort Slocum tract. Here the route lies west past Fort Stevens, south along Sixteenth street to Park road, north again through Rock Creek park to Rittenhouse street and south to the Palisades of the Potomac.

MALL BUILDING PLANS TO BE DISCUSSED TODAY

Experts Will Take Up Two Projected Programs at Treasury Meeting.

MELLON TO GET ADVICE

Discussion of two plans for locating new Federal buildings in the triangle north of the Mall, one arranging them as separate structures, the other linking them in a single structure forming a boundary for the triangle, will begin at a conference this morning at 10 o'clock in the Treasury building.

Representatives of the Treasury Department commission of fine arts, National Capital park and planning commission, public buildings commission and the Institute of Architects will consider various features of the plans and possible substitute arrangements.

Widening of the intersection of Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, involving possible relocation of the projected Department of Justice building from Fifteenth, Fourteenth, D streets and Pennsylvania avenue, to another part of the triangle or elsewhere, will be studied also.

Should conferees arrive at a decision it will be submitted to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who will receive recommendations in lieu of a decision. The attitude of the public buildings commission to the second, or "Louvre plan," is not yet known, Senator Smoot, of Utah, its chairman, being out of the city. It will be considered on his return the latter part of the week.

Reports that the special committee of Treasury, fine arts, and public National Capital park and planning commission representatives appointed to study the triangle building plan with a view toward preventing future traffic congestion, had augmented its report favoring relocation of the Justice building with approval of the Louvre plan, were not confirmed by Treasury officials last night.

A preliminary conference was held regarding the plans yesterday, but action was deferred until today. Edward H. Bennett, Chicago, architectural consultant to Secretary Mellon, arrived yesterday and will be in attendance at all conferences until a definite plan is laid.

U. S. PRINTERS TO GET NINE-DAY FURLOUGHS

Shortage of Work to Be Thus Met by 1,000 Between Now and July 1.

One thousand printers at the government printing office are to be furloughed for nine days between now and July 1 because of the shortage of work. The plan was worked out in order that none of the employes would have to be dismissed.

Under the plan each employe is to take a three days' furlough during each of the three fifteen-day periods before July 1. It will mean a total loss in wages of $75 a man, while the aggregate loss will be in the neighborhood of $75,000. By the same token this will be a saving to the government.

The condition in the printing office is said to be similar to that encountered frequently at this season of the year, not only by the printing officee but the bureau of engraving and printing. The furlough plan is said to have met with the approval of the printers.

H. W. WEBER, PRINTING OFFICE OFFICIAL, DIES

Superintendent Collapses as He Plants Flower Bulbs at His Home.

RITES TO BE TOMORROW

Henry W. Weber, 58 years old, superintendent of printing in the government printing office, 1004 Rhode Island avenue northeast, collapsed while planting flower bulbs in the garden of his home last evening and died a few moments later. He suffered from high blood pressure, which caused an internal hemorrhage.

Mr. Weber returned from work in the best of spirits. With his wife, Mrs. Josephine Cecil Weber, he went into the garden after dinner and began to plant the flowers. As he worked he talked cheerfully of a rehearsal of his orchestra, "the Rebew," which he organized twenty years ago, that he was planning to attend. Suddenly he toppled into his wife's arms.

Besides his wife, Mr. Weber is survived by two sons, William J. and Edward L. Weber, and a daughter, Mrs. Ethel M. Walter, all of this city. He was born December 7, 1868, in Morris, Ind., and came here approximately 30 years ago. He had been the only conductor of the orchestra he organized.

He was past grand master of Federal City lodge and a charter member of Dorcas Rebecca lodge, Odd Fellows; a member of Myron M. Parker lodge, Masons; Bethlehem chapter, Order of the Eastern Star; a member of Columbia Typographical Union, No. 101, and a charter member of the Kellar Memorial Lutheran church. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 o'clock at the home, with the Rev. S. T. Nicholas, pastor of the Kellar church, officiating. Federal lodge will also conduct services. Burial will be in Fort Lincoln cemetery.

POLICE HOLD MAN ON MAYHEM CHARGE

Flaherty Rearrested When Colored Man Dies From Gasoline Burns.

Martin V. Flaherty, 26 years old, 1125 Eighth street northeast, is being held without bond by police of the Ninth precinct pending an inquest today into the death of James Monroe, colored, 38 years old, 1114 Bladensburg road northeast, who, before he died in Casualty hospital yesterday afternoon, told police that Flaherty had poured gasoline on his clothing and set fire to them Thursday.

Flaherty was arrested at his home Thursday and charged with mayhem following Monroe's charges. He was released in $2,000 bond. Yesterday after police learned of Monroe's death they again took Flaherty into custody.

Flaherty told police that several small articles had been stolen from his garage during the past several weeks. Thursday afternoon, Flaherty asserted, according to police, he saw Monroe loitering around the garage. He ordered him away and when Monroe failed to comply with the command he threw a lighted gasoline torch at him, Flaherty said. The gasoline spilled on Monroe's clothing and became ignited, according to Flaherty.

Monroe told police, they said, that Flaherty knocked him down, poured gasoline over him and then set fire to his clothing.

Man Injured by Automobile.

While crossing the street last night in front of 347 Cedar street northwest, Charles Hill, 57 years old, of 812 Whittier street northwest, was knocked down by an automobile driven by Alexander McKenzie, 57 years old, of 6946 Piney Branch road northwest. Hill's legs were injured.

TELEPHONE COMPANY CLAIMS $30,000,000 AS ITS VALUATION

Produces Expert Witnesses at Resumption of Hearings on Rate Making.

Bachman Asserts Utility Earned $157,900 in Excess of 7 Per Cent Return.

Experts struggled with intricate questions of value yesterday when hearings in the telephone case were resumed before the public utilities commission.

The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. produced expert witnesses to support its claim to a rate-making valuation of its property in excess of $30,000,000. B. M. Bachman, accountant for the commission, introduced evidence in support of his valuation of $20,430,000. He asserts that the company earned $157,900 in excess of a 7 per cent return on that investment.

Value of land is one of the large items on which Bachman and the company's experts differ. William F. Sloan, of Chicago, a consulting engineer, who supported the company's case said that in his opinion the company was entitled to add to the appraised value of land an overhead item representing services of engineers in determining where land should be bought for telephone uses.

Equipment Value.

Lieut. Col. J. Franklin Bell, engineer commissioner, and his assistant, Maj. W. E. R. Covell, took issue with Sloan on value of used equipment. It began with the question of poles. The life of poles, for purposes of the valuation hearing, had been considered to be fifteen years.

Maj. Covell took up the inclusion of overhead items, such as part of compensation of engineers, in the value of permanent or long life equipment. He asked Sloan if that was not considering such overhead as charged to capital account and when the engineer assented Covell asked if, as an engineer, he thought it proper to charge the same item to both operation and capital account. The answer was negative, and when Sloan, in reply to a question by George P. Hoover, of company's counsel, said he knew of no items that had been so charged doubly on the company's books, Covell referred to $600,000 named as expense of acquiring business during the last two years.

Sloan was followed to the witness stand by Charles A. Robinson, chief engineer for the company. The hearing will be resumed today in the offices of the commission, room 102, District building.

Colonial Dames Open Three-Day Council

The National Society of the Colonial Dames opened their biennial council meeting last night at the Mayflower hotel with a reception and dance. The meeting will last three days and will be held at the Mayflower. Several committees met yesterday to prepare the agenda for the council.

The council will begin its business sessions this morning. Mrs. Joseph R. Lamar, national president, will preside at the meetings. National officers for the next two years will be elected tomorrow.

Boy Scout Honored For Drowning Rescue

A certificate of heroism was presented to Scout James Pryor, jr., 1717 Twentieth street northwest, last evening for rescuing Woodman Pomeroy from drowning in 1925. The award was made by Dr. Paul Bartsch, chairman of the court of honor, at a special meeting of scout leaders in the Wilson Normal school.

L. C. Drake, scout eexcutive for the district, and Dr. Bartsch gave an illustrated talk on the camps that will be held this summer.

CIVIC GROUP URGES HIGHWAY WIDENING

Montgomery Federation Asks District to Improve Wisconsin Ave. in County.

Widening of Wisconsin avenue between Tenleytown and the District line was asked last night of the District commissioners in a resolution adopted by the Montgomery County Civic federation, at a meeting in the Knights of Columbus hall at Silver Spring, Md.

The resolution asserted there is scarcely room for cars going in opposite directions to pass in the designated stretch. Other action taken by the federation included provision for a special committee to study county government, and a canvass of the district on a proposal to unify trash, garbage and ash collection service.

J. Barnes Smith reported that the public utilities commission of Maryland will attempt to secure a valuation of two companies operating in the county in conjunction with Washington Gas Light Co., in an attempt to eliminate the 23 cents difference in the District and county gas rates. Following an invitation from Jesse C. Suter to attend the testimonial dinner May 21 to Lieut. Col. J. Franklin Bell, the federation adopted a resolution of regret at the engineer commissioner's retirement. Brief talks were made by Edwin S. Hege, of the citizens' advisory council, and A. E. Pymale, president of the Arlington County Federation of Citizens Associations. Dancing followed the meeting.

AUTOPSY SET TODAY ON UNIDENTIFIED BODY

Man, About 50 Years Old, Is Found Dead Near Bladensburg Road.

An autopsy will be performed at the District morgue today on the body of the unidentified white man found on a lot in the rear of 922 Bladensburg road northeast yesterday morning, in an effort to determine what caused his death.

A preliminary examination yesterday failed to disclose marks of violence. The man, about 50 years old, had been dead approximately 8 hours.

The body was discovered by Frank Sadtler, 1030 Bladensburg road northeast, who was walking to work. Police believed he died in an automobile and was dragged to the lot.

Shorter School Day, Takoma Park Move

Asserting that more than a half day in school for children in the kindergarten and first grade was detrimental to their health, the Takoma Park Citizens association adopted a resolution requesting the board of education to shorten the day for these grades, at the last meeting of the season last night in Takoma library.

The association further urged that the gas street lights on Cedar street from Piney Branch road, on Carroll street from Cedar to Eastern street, and on Piney Branch road from Van Buren to Butternut streets be replaced with electric street lamps. A number of street improvements were urged, including that of Fifth street to Grant circle, giving Takoma Park an outlet to the city. Playground improvements were also asked. A reception was tendered Mrs. Margaret Colton, newly appointed director of the municipal playground at Fourth and Whittier streets.

BROOKLAND FAVORS TROLLEY REROUTING

Resolution Adopted Opposing Extension of One-Man Cars on City Line.

Rerouting of street cars now running from Brookland to Fourteenth and Monroe street, to run instead from Brookland to the wharves, by way of the bureau of engraving, a change proposed by the Washington Railway & Electric Co., was favored last night by the Brookland Citizens association, meeting in the Brookland Masonic temple.

David Herrman alone opposed the rerouting, holding it would necessitate school children transferring at a congested intersection. The association adopted a resolution asking that one-man cars on the Brookland line be not extended, but that those now in use be replaced by the modern type. The street car company was asked to change signs on the buses running through Brookland, from "Woodridge" to "Brookland-Woodridge."

The association went on record as indorsing Fourteenth and Hammond streets northeast as the site for the proposed junior high school to be erected in the section. Members voted to share the expense of the testimonial meeting to Engineer Commissioner Bell May 21. S. M. Ely and the Rev. Richard N. Edwards addressed the meeting. New members admitted were E. T. McDevitt, Lowell Curtiss, the Rev. Mr. Edwards, Mrs. Elizabeth Daniels and Fred Woodis.

GROUP URGES RELIEF FOR JAIL OFFICIAL

Congress Heights Citizens Report Superintendent Has Too Many Jobs.

Following a survey of conditions at the District jail, the Congress Heights Citizens Association last night recommended that the superintendent of the institution be relieved of his duties with all other penal and correctional institutions of the District to allow him to devote his full attention to the jail; that guards at the jail be allowed increased salaries and shorter hours and that the laundry be removed from the main building at the jail.

E. J. Newcomb, chairman of the public welfare committee of the association, who, with other members of the association made a tour of the jail, declared that the superintendent of the jail is now burdened with too many other duties to allow him to devote his full attention to the jail.

Members of the association were instructed by the Rev. Dr. Edward Richardson, president, to continue agitation for a bridge across the Anacostia river at South Capitol street and the establishment of a municipal airport on Geisboro Point. The association voted to send a letter to Col. J. Franklin Bell, retiring engineer commissioner, expressing the appreciation of the citizens of Congress Heights for his services while in office.

BRENTWOOD PASSES BILL TO AID STREETS

Citizens Vote 190 to 69 in Referendum Asked by State Legislature.

At a special election yesterday, the citizenry of Brentwood, Md., by an overwhelming majority approved the street and sidewalk bill, which was referred for a referendum vote by the State general assembly. The vote was recorded as 191 to 69 and was ratified at the meeting of the mayor and town council.

The bill provides that the town may borrow up to 4 per cent of the assessed valuation of the town property on certificates of indebtedness of four years. The assessed valuation of the town property aggregates approximately $1,200,000, which would allow the raising of approximately $48,000 for street and sidewalk improvements.

At the meeting of the mayor and town council practically all residents of Baker street petitioned for the grade lowering of Baker and Wells streets. The action was approved, and the State roads commission, which has been advocating the lowering, will be instructed today to proceed with the work.

Accident Liability Low in Washington

Washington has one of the lowest accident liability rates in the United States for a big city, Assistant Traffic Director M. O. Eldridge told the Lanier Heights Citizens association meeting last night in the Henry D. Cook school. He cited figures to show that Washington is safer now than it was several years ago.

Mr. Eldridge declared that of the 76 fatal accidents last year, 52 of the drivers were exonerated by a coroner's jury, 24 held for the grand jury, and but 10 ever got as far as being held for trial. But one of them has ever been convicted, Mr. Eldridge said. William McK. Clayton spoke on street railway and telephone rates.

Piney Branch Citizens Urge School Fund

The board of education was asked in a resolution approved last night by the Piney Branch Citizens association in Hamline M. E. church to request a sum in the next school appropriation for the proposed high school at Thirteenth and Allison streets.

The association went on record opposing an increase in the number of one-man street cars and also opposed the proposal to add 1½ cents to the gasoline tax. The Brightwood site for the new junior high school was approved. A committee was appointed to investigate dumping refuse on Taylor street and another committee was authorized to seek the establishment of a playground at Thirteenth and Delafield street.

First Regiment Band of Central High Honored by Stephan.

Twenty-four companies of high school cadets yesterday afternoon passed in review before Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan, commandant of the Twenty-ninth division, at the annual brigade inspection of the corps in the Central High school stadium.

Escorted by Col. Wallace M. Craigie, military instructor; Col. P. G. Nevitt, staff adjutant, and Capt. Sidney Morgan, aid, Gen. Stephan inspected the two regiments drawn up at attention and later awarded medals and loving cups to winners of recent company, battalion and regimental competitions.

First battalion, Second regiment, of McKinley High school, received the Craigie cup for the best drilled battalion, and its commander, Maj. Leroy D. Voshall, was awarded a gold medal. A silk American flag was affixed to the color sergeant's gun.

Many Decorations Given.

Other decorations included a silver cup, presented Company B, of McKinley, for winning the war game series; a gold medal awarded its commanding officer, Capt. Hugh H. Hussey, jr.; a silver cup to the First Regiment band of Central; a medal to Capt. Jesse L. Stimson, in command, and a gold medal presented Lieut. Col. Richard D. Schmidtman, commanding officer of the Second regiment, of Business and McKinley High school, winning the regimental competition.

Supt. of Schools Frank W. Ballou and First Assistant Stephen E. Kramer from the side lines witnessed the review which followed. Col. Craigie, Gen. Stephan and his staff were flanked by the three assistant military instructors of the corps.

Three battalions of cadets from the Twenty-fourth regiment, divisions 10 to 13, will hold their annual battalion competition Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Howard university stadium.

Contingents from Dunbar and Armstrong High schools will participate. Judging the event will be Lieut. Col. J. E. Green, Lieut. Col. W. A. Hamilton and Maj. E. L. Webster. Regimental maneuvers will be held by the colored cadets May 18 on Bladensburg road.

Census Is Collecting Merchandizing Facts

Facts are to supplant estimates in the retail and wholesale merchandise trade as a result of a governmental census now being made, John Matter, of the United States Chamber of Commerce, told the Retail Credit Men's association at the Raleigh hotel last night. It will mean a new era in distribution, he said.

It now "appears that we are going to get definite figures upon American business at its point of closest contact with the people—retail and wholesale distribution," he said. Business facts were collected from 15,000 establishments in Baltimore recently in the first census to be completed, he said.

Hydrant water was asked for Morris road hill. New lights were requested from the intersection of Howard road and Nichols avenue to the first gate of St. Elizabeths hospital.

BRITAIN JOINS U. S.; DELAYS PENALTIES FOR NANKING RIOTS

Chamberlain Tells Commons Government Holds Action Inexpedeint Now.

NATIONALISTS PUNISHED BY DEFEATS, HE HOLDS

Chen's Regime Exists Only in Name, It Is Held; Radicals Are Discredited.

London, May 9 (By A. P.).—The tide of events in China has punished the perpetrators of the Nanking outrages of March 24, more severely and effectively than any foreign power could have done, Sir Austen Chamberlain, foreign secretary, declared in the house of commons today in announcing that Great Britain has adopted a new watchful waiting policy in the Far East. This policy will wait upon the establishment of a responsible government in China with which the powers can negotiate.

Thus, it is felt, Great Britain has lined up with the United States with regard to the method of dealing with the Chinese problem. No further demands concerning the Nanking disorders will be made from London on the nationalist (Cantonese) authorities.

"Two months ago it seemed as if the nationalists would sweep China from the South to the North," said Sir Austen. "The Nanking outrages checked this victorious career if they have not wrecked it altogether. The communist wing has been split from the Kuomintang (Cantonese political party) and the most important of all the communists and their foreign advisers in the eyes of China have been deeply discredited."

Chen's Regime Seen Ended.

The foreign secretary said that within four days of the "unsatisfactory" replies to the foeign powers' identic protest on the Nanking disorders, the long impending split in the nationalist ranks took place and that Chen's government now exists only in name.

Thus, he said, the Nanking outrages have reacted in a dramatic and unwelcome manner and "those in high places responsible for the outrages have been punished with a promptitude and completeness unusual in human affairs."

He declared that the third international at Moscow was responsible for the Nanking disorders, but that the communist element in China was now thoroughly discredited.

The British government, he continued, even under such provocation as it had received, was unwilling to abandon hope that its friendly policy would soon evoke an equally friendly response from the Chinese government.

Other Powers Are Agreed.

He told the house the British government had decided that the present application of penalties for the outrages at Nanking and the failure of the Chinese nationalists to observe the conditions of the Hankow agreement was inexpedient, however fully justified.

Sir Austen said that he believed similar reasons had led other interested governments to a like conclusion.

Great Britain, the foreign minister said, has informed the other powers of its decision, but has reserved full liberty of action concerning the future and particularly concerning further outrages which might be perpetrated upon the British flag, British subjects and British property.

BORAH SEEKS OUTLAWRY OF STRIFE TO AID CHINA

BACKS COOLIDGE POLICY

Cleveland, May 9 (By A. P.).—Senator William E. Borah, Idaho, in an address here tonight on foreign relations, seized on a recent pronouncement of Premier Briand, of France, that he favored a treaty between France and the United States to outlaw war, to advocate a treaty between the five great nations, United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, to outlaw war as between these nations and China.

"The accord of these five powers together with the policy announced by the President (referring to his New York address) would in effect put the ban on outlawry on war where outlawry is most needed," Senator Borah declared.

"What is the meaning of the present doctrine of force as being practiced by the five great powers in China?" the senator asked. "It means the right of foreigners to seize and exploit China's wealth, and when China objects answer with armies and navies. It means an effort to crush the nationalistic spirit of 400,000,000 people, an undertaking which, I venture to predict, will mean loss of millions in treasure and hundred of thousands of lives."

"But from this course the United States has turned away," Senator Borah continued, "preferring rather to assist and encourage every legitimate aspiration of the Chinese for freedom, unity, cultivation of a national spirit and the realization of the republican form of government."

FIGHT AGAINST GIRLS' LEGACY OPENS TODAY

Dr. Tull's Kin to Move to Have Bequests of $1,-250,000 Set Aside.

Special to The Washington Post.

Salisbury, Md., May 9.—The first move to upset the will of Dr. Edward E. Tull will be made tomorrow when the document is filed for probate in the orphans court of Somerset county. Notice of action to have the will set aside has been given the court by H. Fillmore Lankford, attorney for Mrs. J. Henry Baker, sister, and George H. Tull, half-brother of the testator. The notice prohibits probation of the will and is to be followed by the filing of a caveat to petition the circuit court to break the will, permitting surviving relatives to share in the fortune.

Meyers & Miles, Princess Anne attorneys, have been retained by the Baltimore Trust Co., named as trustee in the will. No relatives are mentioned in the testament, which gives nearly all of the estate, valued at $1,250,000 and including a 2,300 acre farm, to Edna Davy, 13-year-old protege, whom Dr. Tull had often expressed a desire to legally adopt. Kinsmen, beneficiaries and trustees will attend the court session tomorrow.

Edna and her sister, Ruth, who receives an annuity of $300 monthly for the remainder of her life, were expected to arrive in Princess Anne tonight with their governess from Bryn Mawr school, Baltimore.

Plot Not Plagiarized, Is Chaplin Testimony

New York, May 9 (By A. P.).—Charlie Chaplin took the stand in Federal court today to testify in the $50,000 suit brought by Leo Loeb, who charges the screen comedian with taking the scenario of "The Rookie," which he submitted, and from it producing "Shoulder Arms."

Chaplin, called to the stand after "Shoulder Arms" had been projected on a portable screen before Judge William J. Bondy and a jury, denied that he had plagiarized Loeb's rejected scenario. Speaking in earnest, even tones the comedian told of the workings of his "creative mind" in conceiving, directing and acting in the comedy.

Row Over Girl Causes Shooting and Suicide

Montreal, Quebec, May 9 (By A. P.). The shooting of Dr. J. F. Puddicombe, Ottawa, by Dr. Frank Brown, Vancouver, and the subsequent suicide of the latter in the private room of Dr. Puddicombe at the Royal Victoria hospital last night, was the result of a quarrel over a girl, according to a statement by the wounded doctor at the inquest here today.

Shortly after 9 o'clock last night Dr. Puddicombe staggered from his room in the hospital and gasped: "Frank Brown shot me. He's in my room. He shot himself, too."

MacDonald Steadily Improving.

manslaughter verdict would be sufficient punishment for Gray.

Dana Wallace, Mrs. Snyder's defender, put all the murder plot on Gray, and accused him of stealing upon her husband as he lay asleep and bashing his head with a sashweight, to get Snyder's insurance, and all against Mrs. Snyder's wishes.

Mrs. Snyder was a good woman, he said, lured by the wiles that only a corset salesman knew how to use, and, taking advantage of her unhappiness at home, led her "deeper and deeper down the path of sin." Gray asked for mercy, he said. Mrs. Snyder, however, asked only justice.

District Attorney Richard Newcombe said both were guilty of a diabolical and brutal murder and that they should be found guilty in the first degree. Mrs. Snyder, he said, schemed to get her husband insured for $50,000, which would amount to $96,000 in case he died by accident, and then Gray and she planned to murder him for that money. They discussed the plan, bought the implements of death and maliciously stole upon the sleeping man and slew him.

Gray's plea of intoxication and dominance and Mrs. Snyder's plea of compulsory implication were ridiculed as romances that no jury could believe.

DRY FIGHT FOR HAYNES' POST CALLED TRAVESTY

Senator Edward's Attack Is First Word to Come From Wet Camp.

CORRESPONDENCE HEAVY

Efforts of the Antisaloon league "to force down the throat of the Coolidge-Mellon administration the permanent appointment of Roy A. Haynes" as prohibition commissioner, were termed a "travesty on a government of free institutions" yesterday by Senator Edward I. Edwards, of New Jersey.

The statement of the avowed wet senator was one of the first that has come from the antiprohibition camp dealing with the retention of Haynes and may add something to the difficulty which the administration is having in trying to decide what to do with Haynes.

Treasury officials yesterday said that there was nothing new in the prohibition situation other than that the flow of correspondence for and against Haynes continues to reach the desk of Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury. It was intimated that the matter might be settled within the next few days, but earlier assurances of speedy action have not been fulfilled.

"The Antisaloon league is bending every effort, legal and otherwise, to force down the throat of the Coolidge-Mellon administration," said Senator Edwards, "the permanent appointment of Maj. Roy A. Haynes as prohibition commissioner. The spokesman of the league says Haynes must be named, with no thought whatever of permitting the duly elected and appointed officials of this government to exercise discretion in their choice of a competent commissioner.

"President Coolidge, Secretary Mellon and Brig. Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, the prohibition chief, have publicly and privately expressed honest and sincere doubt as to the bona-fides and capacity of Haynes to assume seriously the responsibilities of prohibition commissioner. And yet the persistent command comes from Dr. Wayne B. Wheeler and his Congressional dry coadjutors that the duly elected and constituted authorities of this government must accept the dictation of the Antisaloon league super-government.

Police and Firemen May Not Sell Poppies

The District commissioners have called a halt to letting members of the police and fire departments assist in fund-raising campaigns, it was learned yesterday. The commissioners, it became known, have informed the Veterans of Foreign Wars that, because of the number of campaigns, they can not permit the police and firemen to sell buddy poppies this year.

Protest against their attitude was made last night by the National Capital post, No. 127, V. F. W. The veterans have always sold tickets for the police and firemen's annual benefit, it was pointed out, and besides, a great number of the members of the two departments are said to be legionnaires.

WOMAN COLLAPSES AT TWO-ALARM FIRE

Ten Families Driven to Street in Apartment Blaze; Damage Near $9,000.

Ten families were driven to the street and one woman was overcome by smoke when fire swept a three-story apartment house at 512 Second street northwest yesterday morning. Two alarms were sounded, bringing 24 pieces of fire apparatus to the scene.

Mrs. Ella Swayer was overcome by smoke and was rescued by firemen. She has been ill for more than two years and collapsed in a smoke-filled hallway.

C. M. HICKS PLANNED OWN MURDER, POLICE BELIEVE

Body of Attorney, Who Owed Large Sum, May Be Exhumed.

INSURANCE SUIT IS SEEN

St. Louis, May 9 (By A. P.).—Detectives today were entertaining a theory that Clifford M. Hicks, 28-year-old attorney, mysteriously shot to death the night of April 30, arranged to have himself murdered as the easiest way out of his financial difficulties.

Hicks' total indebtedness, according to his own statement, was $207,000, and creditors were pressing him for settlement. His life insurance, much of which was pledged against his debts, totaled $365,000.

With reopening of the inquest tomorrow and probable exhumation of the body, detectives said they would ask for a thorough autopsy. The number and position of the bullet wounds made a suicide theory untenable.

Former Gov. Elliott Major and S. L. Fox, former law associates of Clifford Hicks and Glenn Hicks, executor of his brother's estate, announced today they would bring suit to recover from the police ten insurance policies seized among the slain man's effects. Glenn Hicks, under bond for further questioning in the slaying, was in seclusion today.

Envoy Adds Prizes For Theses on Chile

Senor Don Miguel Cruchaga, the Chilean Ambassador, authorized the announcement yesterday that he has awarded two additional medals to students of the Georgetown university foreign service school for these on "Chile-American Relations."

Papers submitted by ten students in a competition just held for the gold medal offered by the Ambassador were found to be of such a high grade that Senor Cruchaga is giving two identical silver medals for those who won second and third place in the contest. The names of the winners are not to be announced until the annual commencement on June 13, when the presentation of the awards is to be made. Ambassador Cruchaga offered the original medal during the winter in the hope that the competition would aid in a better understanding of the relations between his government and the United States.

MANY FLEE BEFORE BUILDING COLLAPSES

One Missing Following Crash; Woman, Stopping for Hat, Injured.

Chicago, May 9 (By A. P.).—A half hundred employes and customers of the Louis department store on the West side fled safely today from the four-story structure as the walls shook, then collapsed into a pile of dusty debris less than a story in height.

As the building, its supports weakened by excavations in an adjoining lot, began to tremble, one of the owners warned clerks and patrons: "Get out, the building is falling."

Samuel Miller, an assistant manager, trundled two baby carriages swiftly before him to safety.

Two injured and one missing was reported after the collapse, but hundreds of workers continued to delve into the ruins in the belief that others may have been trapped. Miss Ibell Paul, cashier, was caught by falling timbers, but Hyman Cossid, another employe, extricated her. Mrs. Mae Ginnis, also an employe, stopped for her hat and coat and the slight fraction of time lost caused her to be injured. Walter Fedorko, the store's janitor, was missing.

Police and firemen were forced to use strong-arm methods to prevent the crowd from diving into the wreckage.

$10,000 Is Asked in Costello Death.

Marguerite T. Costello, 1421 D street northwest, administratrix of the estate of Charles C. Costello, deceased, filed suit yesterday in circuit court against the Washington Railway & Electric Co. to recover $10,000 damages for his death. It is alleged that Costello was struck by a car at Ohio avenue and Fourteenth street northwest on April 28, 1926, and died May 10, 1926, from his injuries. Attorney F. P. Callahan appeared for the plaintiff.

MISSISSIPPI LEVEES AGAIN THREATENED; WIND LASHES WATER

Menace Shifts From Bayou des Glaises to Main Stream.

FLOOD RISE IS STEADY TOWARD RECORD CREST

Women and Children Swell Refugee Camps; Men Labor on Ramparts.

New Orleans, May 9 (By A. P.).—The 50-mile levee front along the Mississippi between Baton Rouge and Bayou des Glaises was being battered by choppy waves tonight as a 25-mile wind lashed the flood waters into sudden fury, momentarily shifting the point of immediate concern from the Bayou des Glaises section to the embankments along the main stream.

A prediction of continued wind and stormy weather to accompany the crest of the flood down the valley added to threat of the waters as they continued to mass about the mouth of Old river before descending into the lower valley, either through a breach in Bayou des Glaises levees or down the main stream.

Ramparts along Bayou des Glaises and the south bank of the Red river were not affected by the sweeping winds today as they drove the water away from the levees along that front.

River Rises Steadily.

Scores of men worked in that neighborhood, however, topping the embankment in the face of the steady rise toward the predicted record breaking crest.

Roofs of houses, fences and trees in the Mississippi indicated that the waters were beginning to return to the river after their wild rampage over northeastern Louisiana farm lands.

National guardsmen and civilians patrolled the main stream levees in the teeth of the gale, battling to strengthen the ramparts in the face of the charging water which ate gradually into the banks and battered at sand bags thrown into the breaches thus created.

1,500 Work on Levees.

Fifteen hundred levee workers labored along Red river, Bayou Rapides and Bayou des Glaises in Alexandria and that vicinity as the fight in central Louisiana approached its critical points. Five hundred of these were called into service at Alexandria when a sand boil threatened the levee there.

Refugees continued to stream into concentration camps as new towns were invaded by the water, or as fear was felt for the safety of their homes. Most of the refugees were women and children, the men remaining in their homes to aid in the high-water fight, or to care for live stock.

Secretary Hoover and Secretary Davis visited the scene of the Caernarvon crevasse, below Poydras, where the breach cut in the levee to save New Orleans has been widened to more than 2,000 feet.

500,000 To Be Treated.

Memphis, Tenn., May 9 (By A. P.).—More than 500,000 persons will receive immunization from typhoid and smallpox before the American Red Cross and allied agencies completes its program of health and sanitation work in the Mississippi valley flood area, Dr. William R. Redden estimated today. Additional health workers have been sent into the field to help speed up the work of vaccination, not only in the refugee camps, where more than 130,000 already have been immunized, but also in flood towns and villages where the precautionary measure is being extended to every one who will take it.

Meanwhile, by land, water and air, the work of caring for the needs of nearly 340,000 flood sufferers continues, while the Red Cross awaits the next whim of the swollen river, ready to speed rescue and relieve hunger.

With wireless communication from headquarters to nearly all portions of the flooded area, instant attention is given to the distribution of relief, the concentration of rescue fleets and the movement of refugees from temporary praces of safety to refugee centers. Several experienced workers have been called in from the older flooded sections and have been sent to New Orleans and other points along the lower Mississippi river to be ready to command relief work should new emergencies arise.

With fourteen outside medical workers already in the inundated areas of Arkansas, the State health department has advised Dr. Redden that more physicians will be needed if an outbreak of disease is to be prevented. Conditions were described as satisfactory at present, although there are several cases of typhoid in the camps, some smallpox and dysentery.

Colored Women Give $100 for Flood Relief

In response to a call by Grand Daughter Ruler Ella G. Berry, of Chicago, Columbia Temple No. 422, colored women of the Improved Benevolent Order of Elks of the World, last night, meeting at Pythian Temple, Twelfth and U streets northwest, contributed $100 for relief of flood sufferers in the Mississippi.

The funds, Daughter Ruler Marie Madre Marshall stated, will be distributed through the Grand temple, which is endeavoring to raise $50,000 this week.

Reed Urges Senators To Ask Flood Session

(By the Associated Press.)

Democratic senators yesterday were urged by Senator Reed (Democrat), of Missouri, to ask President Coolidge to call an extra session of Congress for flood relief.

Senator Reed in telegrams sent here said the magnitude of the disaster and the extent of the suffering demanded governmental action.

Chaplin on Stand; Says He Is Nervous

New York, May 9 (By A. P.).—Admitting that he was nervous, and characterizing the suit as "absurd," Charlie Chaplin took the witness stand in Federal court today and denied that he had used parts of a rejected scenario in producing "Shoulder Arms," his famous wartime comedy film.

Chaplin is being sued for $50,000 by Leo Loeb, a salesman, who charges the comedian with plagiarism, in that considerable portions of a scenario, entitled "The Rookie," were used in the making of "Shoulder Arms."

DISTRICT OVER TOP IN RAISING QUOTA FOR FLOOD VICTIMS

Cuba Sends $10,000 Through President—Post Contributions Total $3,932.

Washington went over the top yesterday in raising its quota for the Mississippi valley flood relief fund. More than $100,000 was reported by the Washington campaign quarters of the American Red Cross. Washington's quota was $90,000.

The necessity that the drive continue, however, was stressed last night by Victor Deyber, in charge of the collection. The $10,000,000 which is being raised by the American Red Cross will hardly be enough to finance the emergency relief work, it has been ascertained, and the goal will probably be raised in the next few days.

The national fund now amounts to $9,341,405. The Eastern States furnished $6,035,000; Midwestern States, $2,383,000, and the Pacific coast States, $791,000. The total includes $32,405 from insular and foreign sources and the appropriation of $100,000 made by the National Red Cross.

$359 From Cuba.

Included in the contributions yesterday was one of $359.13 from the newest Red Cross chapter, the Guantanamo chapter, at the American naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba. This chapter has a membership of approximately 200.

The Red Cross of Cuba, through its president, Gen. Miguel Varona, sent a contribution of $10,000 with a message of sympathy for the flood victims.

Messages of sympathy were received from the Red Cross of Japan and the Red Cross of Santo Domingo. Among contributors in America was the Needlework Guild of America, which from its convention in Philadelphia sent $3,000 to the relief fund.

In his report on conditions found in various Red Cross camps in the disaster area, Lieut. Col. Fred H. Bloomhardt, medical corps, U. S. A., said:

"As the days pass since the full force of the flood struck Arkansas, and as inspections by direction of the adjutant general of Arkansas are made of the various camps and other places where refugees are being cared for, the organizations that have been effected and the smoothly working plans that are being carried out without friction or lost motion are little short of marvelous."

Two Counties Damaged.

Following an earlier report on the tornado in Kansas of Saturday night, the Red Cross mid-Western branch office at St. Louis yesterday informed headquarters that while there were rumors of damages in other counties, confirmed reports so far confine the damage to Reno and McPherson counties. The total dead reported for both counties is six, while 300 homes are reported damaged in Reno and 12 in McPherson county. The Red Cross chapters in both affected communities have indicated their ability to handle the situation, while Miss Evadne Laptad, the Red Cross field representative on the scene, is keeping in close touch with developments.

It is expected that nearly half a million persons will have been vaccinated against smallpox and typhoid before the emergency relief work is finished. Red Cross health forces also are considering the use of the gambusia top minnow in the campaign against mosquitoes. If used, the minnows will be placed in back waters where they eat the mosquito larvae.

Cattle Being Fed.

In addition to human refugees, the Red Cross also has hundreds of head of valuable live stock to feed. Tons of feed are being used each day in an effort to save horses, mules and cattle, numbering between 75,000 and 100,000 head. Many of these are marooned on levees, with 11,000 at Greenville alone.

Contributions received by The Post yesterday totaled $44. They are:

170 KILLED AS TORNADOES HIT SECTIONS IN SIX STATES

tornadoes which swept Arkansas this afternoon from the central southern portion to the northeastern tip.

Reports coming in tonight added gravity to the disaster as town after town reported dead, injured and property destruction.

Probably the heaviest hit counties were Union, in south central Arkansas, and Lawrence, in the northeastern part of the State.

Union county reported eighteen known dead in the storms at Norphlet and Strong.

Lawrence county reported 28 dead in a series of tornadoes which struck Walnut Ridge, Imboden, Hoxie and other small towns and communities in that section.

Toledo and Rison, in the central part of the State, reported a storm which killed one and injured others, while Carlisle, Hazen and Lonoke reported three dead and many injured in a series of storms.

Train Coaches Blown Over.

Reports from Eldorado said seventeen were known to have been killed at Strong and it was feared the death list would be increased.

A corps of 50 doctors and nurses were sent to Strong on a relief train after being recalled hurriedly from Norphelt.

In Walnut ridge and Hoxie area in northeastern Arkansas, 20 deaths had been reported at 9 p. m., with 8 other fatalities at Egypt. Other sections, including Imboden, where some damage and loss of life was believed to have taken place, and many other small towns were yet to be heard from.

At Hoxie three coaches of a Frisco train were overturned by the force of the wind, injuring three trainmen seriously. They were the only occupants of the wrecked cars.

Two school houses were blown down at Hoxie and two children were killed and scores injured in that crash. Reports to the Arkansas Gazette tonight declared that 100 homes were wrecked in Hoxie.

Walnut Ridge reported that a large portion of the town was in ruins and a wide area in the country devastated by the wind.

Egypt was virtually wiped out by the storm, early reports stated.

Carlisle reported one woman dead a mile south of the town, a man and his son dead five miles east of the town and many injured over a wide area.

Lonoke reported one dead and twelve injured.

In the fear that many persons were buried in the ruins at Strong, hundreds of men from El Dorado, Smackover, and other places in the oil belt were conducting a search tonight among broken houses and brick stores. R. N. Garrett and other El Dorado hotel men announced that the homeless in Strong would be accommodated free in this city.

Norphlet, scene of the first tornado, was stripped of its frame buildings, but most of the casualties resulted from falling oil derricks, of which there were many within the city. Every derrick was felled, and one crashing into the Norphlet General hospital wrecked the rear portion of the building, injuring one patient and two nurses.

Six Killed in One House.

Jonesboro, Ark., May 9 (By A. P.).—The tornado which took a toll of seven lives in Egypt late today, swept a path only 30 feet wide through the little hamlet and destroyed only two residences and a barn.

The home of John Richey was demolished and six members of his family perished. Richey was away from home at the time and was the only member of the family to escape. A neighbor's boy visiting in the Richey home at the time also was killed.

Another residence near the Richey home was demolished. Five persons were injured in this home, all being members of the same family.

Mrs. L. W. Tate and her two daughters were killed at Pierce's Mill, 4 miles from Pauls Switch, late today when their home was demolished by the tornado. Two were known to be dead at Pauls Switch.

32 Deaths in Dallas Region.

Dallas, Tex., May 9 (By A. P.).—Known deaths were 32 tonight from tornadoes which twisted early today over a narrow path between 75 and 100 miles in length in Dallas, Collin, Hunt and Lamar counties of Texas.

One hundred or more were injured, about one-half of them seriously enough to require hospital attention.

Between 200 and 300 were homeless at Nevada, Collin county, the town worst damaged by the twisters. The total property loss was estimated to exceed $1,000,000.

The death list stood at 16 at Nevada, 10 at Garland, 4 at Wolfe City, and 2 at Kellogg. Some of the injured were expected to die.

Relief work was well organized tonight, but faced the greatest task at Nevada. Homeless persons of that town of between 600 and 800 inhabitants were given quarters in homes which were damaged little or none, or went to nearby towns for the night.

Roar Resembles Thunder.

Rushing with a roar which resembled distant thunder, high above most of the territory over which they passed, the tornadoes swooped down only here and there, finally dissipating as they crossed the Texas boundary so far as reports tonight showed. In every instance the storm hit before dawn and caught most of the victims in bed, or as they tried to rush out of their tumbling homes.

Nevada was practically destroyed. This storm seemed to raise until after passing Greenville, when it dropped again at Kellog, north of Greenville, where two were killed, then jumped to Wolfe City, where four were killed.

The storm which hit a residence section of Garland, seemed to be about an hour later than that which destroyed Nevada, and according to reports jumped upward at Garland and was next experienced in Lamar county, where Tigertown, a small community, virtually was wiped out. Nine persons were reported injured in Lamar county.

The seriously injured at Garland were treated in Dallas hospitals, while those from Nevada were taken to McKinney, Greenville and Dallas.

Victims in Illinois.

Paducah, Ky., May 9 (By A. P.).—A number of lives were lost in a tornado and cloudburst which struck the villages of Grinnell and Hillorman, in northwestern Massac county, Ill., between 7 and 8 o'clock tonight, according to fragmentary reports brought to Metropolis, Ill., by persons from the Grinnell and Hillorman vicinity who went there for aid.

Chicago, May 9 (By A. P.).—Three men were killed and several slightly injured today when a terrific wind and electrical and rain storm swept over northern Illinois and Indiana, wrecking small buildings, uprooting trees, playing havoc with wire communication and flooding streets and basements. Hail also did damage in Chicago suburbs.

Charles Heeg, village blacksmith at Hinckley, Ill., was killed.

Two men were killed in Chicago, one by lightning and one by a fallen wire.

At Aurora, Ill., the storm caused a panic at the race track when it unroofed and sent flying timbers into the stands. No one was injured, but hundreds were drenched by the driving rain.

Herrin Suffers Damage.

Herrin, Ill., May 9 (By A. P.).—One person was killed in a tornado that struck Herrin at 5:25 p. m. today, uprooting trees, twisting houses and business buildings off their foundations and blowing down telephone wires. The preliminary checkup which reported one dead did not reveal the victim's name. Property damage, unestimated, is expected to be heavy.

Roof of the First National Bank and the Elks club were blown away. A torrental rain followed the tornado. Four miles south at Lake Creek, several railroad section hquses were scattered.

West Frankfort, Ill., May 9 (By A. P.).—A tornado which struck here between 5 and 6 o'clock tonight left a trail of wreckage and injured several persons, a preliminary check showed. None was believed killed, but a Mrs. Otterson was taken to a hospital for treatment of injuries.

Reports here from Orient and Ezera, small communities 3 miles west, said the tornado struck there and injured several, one a new born baby. Rumors here tonight were that Elks' club and electric light plant buildings were blown away at Herrin.

OTHER FLIERS SAVED FROM OCEAN IN PAST

Rescued from an ocean grave, Hawker died in flames when he fell at Hendon air field in July, 1921.

A metal monoplane carrying Lieut. Locatelli and three flying companions fell into the north Atlantic after taking off from Iceland, headed for Greenland, with the American round-the-world fliers, in August, 1924.

For four days Locatelli and the others huddled in the cockpit of their craft, the while waves swept over its wings, covering them with a blanket of ice.

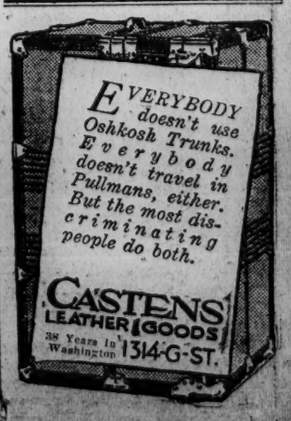

At intervals members of the group walked the wing spreads, vainly trying to sight a ship through the dense, low fog. Finally, when the fourth day was drawing to a close, the U. S. S. Richmond's lookout sighted Locatelli's green distress rocket. All were saved.

Along the coast of Maine, Canada, Nova Scotia and New Foundland ships are searching for Nungesser. Many consider he has about the same chance as Locatelli.

Meanwhile, Capt. Saint Roman, the French aviator, is lost in the south Atlantic. He last was seen 125 miles off the coast of Brazil, reports stated. His ship was not equipped with pontoons, and it is thought he may have landed on Roccas island, a desert waste 85 miles from Fernando de Noronha. He was flying from St. Louis, Senegal, to Brazil.

Now They Whiten dull "off-color" teeth

Gain amazing clearness a new way

Please accept a free 10-day test of this new method as urged by leading dental authorities. It removes the dingy FILM that imperils pretty teeth and healthy gums

THIS offers a remarkable dental test. A test millions have made, the last few years, with almost unbelievable results.

It gives cloudy teeth a clear and beautiful whiteness. It adds high polish and luster. It firms the gums and gives them a clear and healthy look.

On dental advice, the world is turning to this way. Will you test it, please; then note results yourself?

You are imperiling your teeth and gums with a film coat

Dental science now traces scores of tooth and gum troubles to a germ-laden film that forms on your teeth.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel it . . . a slippery, viscous coating.

That film absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. And that is why your teeth look "off color" and dingy.

It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It lays your gums open to bacterial attack and your teeth open to decay. Germs by the millions breed in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Whiter Teeth, Firm Gums

Ordinary dentifrices and cleansing won't fight film successfully. Feel for it now with your tongue. Note how your present cleansing method is failing in its duty.

Now new methods are being used. A dentifrice called Pepsodent—different in formula, action and effect from any other known.

Largely on dental advice the world has turned to this method.

It accomplishes two important things at once: Removes that film, then firms the gums.

FAMILY OF CALLES IS IN LOS ANGELES AS TROUBLE BREWS

Newspaper Men Denied Right to Report Facts Uncensored by Officials.

GEN. AMARO WARNS OF TROOP DESERTIONS

Revolts and Revolutionary Activity Rife in Five States, Rumor.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Further indications that President Calles of Mexico is sitting on a volcano of smouldering revolutionary activity and is taking steps to cope with expected emergencies reached here yesterday. They came coincident with reports from Mexico City that Calles had virtually assumed the powers of dictator since he had clapped on the censorship on all outgoing news from Mexico.

It was learned here yesterday that Calles has sent his wife and family to Los Angeles and that Gen. Amaro, secretary of war, is preparing to send his family to San Antonio. Other high Mexican officials have arranged for women and children of their families to reach the United States via Laredo or from Vera Cruz. The Mexican government had advised against attempting to pass from Mexico City to El Paso on account of "disturbed conditions" in the state of Chihuahua.

About a dozen American newspaper correspondents who have gone to Mexico City to report on latest developments are being denied the privilege of sending out any news excepting such reports as the federal authorities wish to indorse. Accordingly, the majority are not sending out any dispatches, it is said.

Statements Prepared.

Prepared statements, given out by direction of the Calles government, with a view to accentuating the religious feature of the revolts are being printed in the Mexico City newspapers, but are apparently not being sent to the United States because the correspondents have no means of verifying the reports and seemingly discredit them. The censorship has been partially lifted so far as Mexican newspapers are concerned, it is learned here, but the Mexican newspapers are warned not to "embarrass the government."

One of the most disturbing reports which has filtered through the censorship is that Gen. Amara has warned Calles that there is grave danger of wholesale desertions from the rank and file of the federal troops. Another disturbing report is that ammunition is beginning to reach the revolutionists and that a schooner with 3,000,000 rounds unloaded her cargo at an unnamed port in the state of Guerrero. A leader of a revolutionary band, with 400 men, is reported to have entered the port without opposition and taken possession of the ammunition. Lack of ammunition, rather than lack of rifles, is said to be the greatest handicap which the revolutionists have so far had to contend with.

Other reports, escaping the censorship, state that revolts have sprung up in the state of Coahuila, under leadership of Col. Galvany and Sanchez. The states of Jalisco, Guanajuato, Michoacan and Guerrero are reported to be seething with revolutionary activity.

National Theater Players Start 3rd Summer Season

Old Favorites, Led by Clifford Brooke, Take Stand in Celebrated Playhouse—Accorded Enthusiastic Reception—Good, Clean Comedy.

National Theater Players, under direction of Clifford Brooke, offer the Wallack theater (New York) success, "Laff That Off," a comedy in three acts, by Don Mullally.

THE CAST.

Robert Morse "Remorse," Romaine Callender
Jimmy Valentine.....Charles Hampden
Tonay, the Iceman.....Karl Nellsen
Tubby Valentine.....Kathryn Givney
Emmy "Mopupos".....Dorothy Tierney
Arthur Lindau.....William Phelps
Leo Mitchell.....J. Glynn McFarlane
Peggy Bryant.....Leona Powers
Mrs. Connelly.....Mrs. Adelaide Hibbard
Mike Connelly.....Percy Winter

With the regular theater season cast into the discard, the National Theater Players struck camp in their old stamping grounds last night, opening their third successive summer run with Don Mullally's comedy, "Laff That Off."

Years ago "Old Home Week" was quite the vogue in American life. Cities and towns throughout the nation then welcomed returning sons and daughters. There were parades and the killing of the fatted calf. Receptions and festivities held sway. Minus the playing of brass bands, just such an occasion was enacted last evening in the E street shrine of Thespis. There was gayety of hearts and hearthstone, for the return of the strollers. The old guard was out in full force, the theater was packed to the rafters; shaken at each player's entrance. It was somewhat reminiscent of the reception recently given to the all-star cast, led by John Drew, playing "Trelawny of the Wells."

At the end of the second act, Clifford Brooke, director of the players, lined his troupe up, ten abreast, and delivered himself of speech. So that the official welcome and response was complete. 'Twas, as the old-time recorders phrased it, "a great night in the theater."

So far as the play is concerned, "Laff That Off" registers well. Such a comedy finds favor with followers of the National Theater players. They romp through it with fair alacrity, and the honors are easy. Since the story is fairly well known by this time—three fellows take unto themselves a feminine cohort—it needs no retelling. Incidentally, Earl Carroll, damned up and down the line for despoliation of the theater, has to his credit the original production of this little comedy—clean as the proverbial hound's tooth.

A few changes have taken place in the roster of players. Miss Leona Powers is now leading lady, and J. Glynn McFarlane leading man. Both have been seen here before in stock. Miss Powers with the late lamented President Players, and McFarlane a season or so ago with the Nationals. Aside from these, the old dependables are back again, and still going strong.

HELPLESS

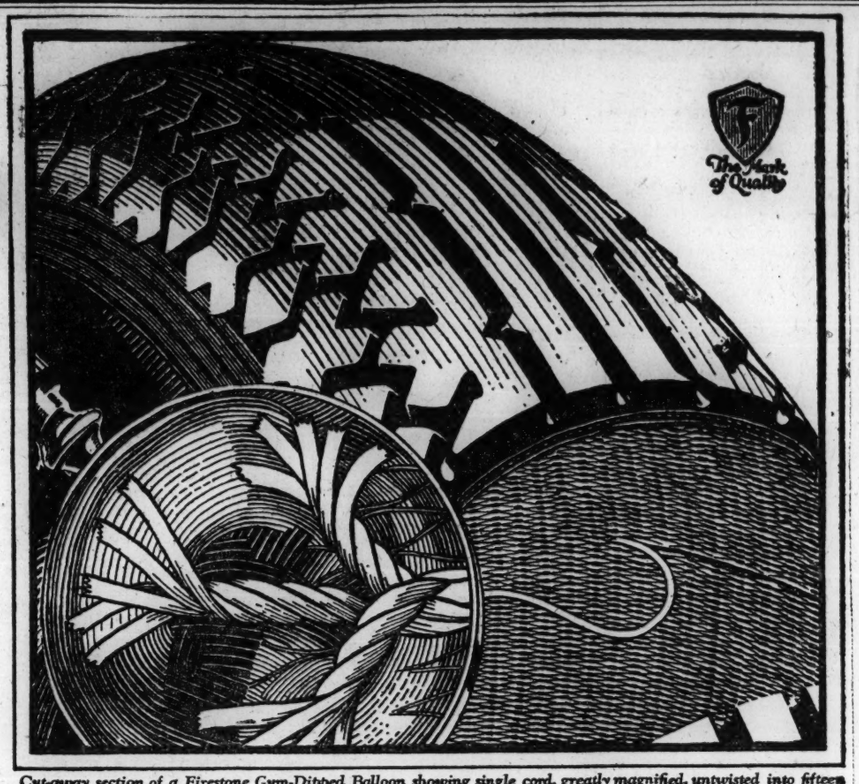

If a ship without a rudder's like a cart without a wheel, then kindly tell us, if you can, how does an empty coal bin feel? It holds its sagging sides in shame and leans against the wall just pining in its uselessness and longing for the Fall. It knows that coal is cheaper now and usually better, too, but it can't fill itself alone, so there's nothing IT can do. If YOU know of any coal bin that's a sad and empty thing, we will make it full and happy if you'll just give us a ring.

Why Firestone GUM-DIPPED TIRES Wear Longer

Cut-away section of a Firestone Gum-Dipped Balloon showing single cord, greatly magnified, untwisted into fifteen smaller cords composed of many little fibers all thoroughly saturated and insulated with rubber by Gum-Dipping

WE recently were given the tremendous advantage of having the mammoth Firestone Factories brought to us. In Tire Educational Meetings we were shown, by means of motion pictures, charts, tire samples and complete engineering data, the details of Firestone Tire design and construction—and how Firestone and Oldfield Tires and Tubes are made in the world's most efficient and economical rubber factories.

Firestone pioneered the original low-pressure tire and made it practical by Gum-Dipping. The motion picture showed us how the cords of the carcass are dipped in a rubber solution, thoroughly saturating and insulating every fiber of every cord with rubber. Simple demonstrations and tests illustrated the great advantage of this process, which supplies the extra strength to withstand the extra flexing strains of low pressure construction—one of the reasons why Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires are establishing such unheard-of mileage records.

We learned why the Firestone Balloon Tread gives extra safety, comfort and long wear. We were shown why Firestone, from the very beginning, designed and continue to use the round Balloon Tread, minimizing "shoulder breaks" so destructive to tires. Excess rubber at the edges of a balloon tread is wasted—actually detrimental to tire mileage. In the Firestone Tread the small units and sharp projections are scientifically placed to permit easy flexing, resulting in extraordinary riding comfort.

Come in and let us put a set of these Gum-Dipped Tires on your car—you can forget about tire trouble. Quality is higher than ever before—prices are lowest in history. Buy now!

JOY REIGNS IN PARIS WHEN CITY IS TOLD FLIGHT IS SUCCESS

ROCKETS ARE MISTAKEN FOR SIGNAL BY CANNON

Dissipation of Rumor, However, Fails to Dampen Ardor of Throngs.

Paris, May 9 (By A. P.).—Paris went wild today when the first news reached here that the French airplane "White Bird," bearing France's noted war veterans, Capt. Nungesser and Maj. Coli, had made the transit of the Atlantic in safety. All France was stirred to the depths, and although no official confirmation of the reports was received, the people would not be denied that display of delirious celebration for which Paris is noted on great occasions.

No such demonstrations have been witnessed since armistice day; traffic was blocked in the streets; strangers embraced each other; there was handstaking and toasting of the aviators everywhere.

Once it was fairly assumed that the aviators had actually crossed the Atlantic and were within sight of Halifax, unshakable optimism of the final outcome reigned supreme. Even the austere prefecture of police lost its poise. After announcing that the official news would be communicated to the people by a seventeen-gun salute from the Seine bridge, such as greets Ambassadors, the authorities decided to raise the number to 21 guns—a royal salute.

Rockets From Plane.

The premature shooting off of rockets from a private airplane over the Place de l'Etoile led Parisians in the uptown sections to believe that the intrepid pair had actually arrived at New York, as that was the prearranged manner the news should be conveyed by Le Bourget planes.

The silence of the guns by the Seine side quickly dissipated the rumor.

The Parisian telephone system worked overtime all day long, and the newspapers, news agencies and governmental offices were subjected to a terrific barrage of incoming calls. Big provincial centers like Marseilles, Maj. Coli's home town; Velanciennes, Nungesser's home town; Bordeaux and others, were as excited as the capital. Even the early evening reports that a thick fog was over New York failed to dampen the ardor of the crowds.

The closing of the theaters and moving picture houses brought more people to the Seine bridge and the boulevards, wondering why details of the landing had not been furnished them by announcements from the stage or flashed on screens.

FRENCH FLIERS STILL MISSING; SEARCH OF THE SEA PLANNED

Capt. Coli as navigator. Their plane was built by Pierre Levasseur, noted French designer; it was driven by a Lorraine-Dietrich 450-horsepower engine, capable of producing 525 horsepower under favorable conditions.

Carrying a load of more than five tons, most of it fuel and oil, the biplane got away under good weather conditions and headed to the west. The French saw a good augury in the fact that the start was made on Joan of Arc day; it also coincided with the eighth anniversary of the start for Halifax of the American navy plane NC-4, which sucessfully crossed the Atlantic with one stop at the Azores.

Course Altered Slightly.

Capt. Coli altered the course slightly at the last minute because of weather reports, and after passing over the English channel, the plane headed for the fifty-fourth degree latitude. Flying past the southern part of England and Fastnet rock, off the Irish coast, the birdmen swung out over the broad Atlantic.

From that time on no definite word was received of the progress of the plane, which was not equipped with wireless. There were unconfirmed advices that it had been seen Sunday off Ireland by a British destroyer. The position and the time were not given. Radio stations in the eastern part of the United States sought for word from ships, but the poor visibility apparently led the fliers away from the usual shipping lanes.

The fair weather over the northern Atlantic was broken early this morning, when a snowfall was reported in the vicinity of Cape Race, Newfoundland. Flying over water in such conditons requires navigation ability of the highest order.

Watchers Are Most Tense.

As the scheduled time for the plane's appearance over Newfoundland drew near, tenseness among the watchers along the shore increased. Advices from St. Pierre and Miquelon reported that the White Bird had been seen over Newfoundland at 8:15 a. m., but this was not confirmed. A similar report half an hour later that the fliers had been observed off Halifax also was not borne out. The Cape Race station of the Canadian government stated that up to 10 o'clock no word had been received of the aviators' whereabouts. Weather conditions were such, however, it was said, that they might have passed without being seen in the murk.

A report from Havre, France, that an American destroyer had sighted the plane off Newfoundland was not borne out by advices to the Navy Department in Washington. Neither was there any word from the watching coast guard vessels.

The White Bird carried sufficient fuel to keep it in the air for 40 hours, giving the aviators a margin of five hours flying over the time estimated for the 3,800 mile flight, discounting heavy headwinds.

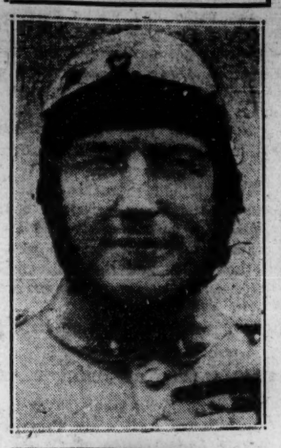

Soon after starting the heavy running gear was dropped, permitting an increase in speed as well as lightening the plane. This plan was originally used by Harry Hawker, Australian flier, who dropped his landing gear in the ocean after leaving Newfoundland on his unsuccessful attempt to reach Ireland in the summer of 1919.

The White Bird, without the landing gear, was then capable of floating for about 24 hours.

Capt. Nungesser's announced primary object was to be the first to make an uninterrupted westward airplane flight over the Atlantic—to be the trail blazer from France to the United States. He was not a contestant for the Raymond Orteig prize of $25,000 for a New York-Paris flight.

Nungesser was born in Paris, March 15, 1892, and learned to fly without a teacher while serving as a mechanic at the La Brayelle airdrome, near Douai. He was in Argentina, working as a "gaucho" or cowboy, when the world war broke out. He served with the second hussars before being transferred to the aviation corps. After the war, a national hero, he founded a flying school at Orly, near Paris.

MISSING.

VAN SWERINGEN MERGER PROPOSAL TO I.C.C. TODAY

Offer New Method for Nickel Plate, C. & O., Erie and Pere Marquette.

(By the Associated Press.)

Hearings will begin before the Interstate Commerce Commission today on the new proposal for consolidating the Van Sweringen group of railroads. A prolonged controversy is in prospect.

Following the failure a year ago to obtain commission approval for their project of merging the Nickel Plate railroad with the Chesapeake & Ohio, Erie and Pere Marquette systems, O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, of Cleveland, who represent the ownership of all four units, brought forward a second merger plan. As applications and intervention petitions have been filed with the commission, it has appeared that a minority group of railroad stockholders concerned will conduct a fight against it.

The second Van Sweringen plan proposes to link the Chesapeake & Ohio with the Pere Marquette and Erie railroads. Outright purchase of the Erie and Pere Marquette controlling interest from the Van Sweringens and their associates is contemplated, the Chesapeake & Ohio to issue new stock in sufficient amount to finance the transaction.

The Nickel Plate railroad, into which all other four were to be merged by the first plan, does not enter into the second project, though the Van Sweringens own it, and in addition, own a controlling interest in the Chesapeake & Ohio.

As before, a minority committee representing holders of Chesapeake & Ohio stock has so far expressed the only determined opposition to the merger. In a brief petition stating its position, the minority declared that it is not in the public interest to allow the railroads concerned to amalgamate, and questioned the right of the commission to authorize it.

It is expected that the first witness will be officials of the Chesapeake & Ohio, who will be called upon to explain the tentative options and contracts by which the stock ownerships are being held until the issue is settled.

THE POWERS AND CHINA.

Foreign Minister Chamberlain announced to the house of commons yesterday that the British government had decided that the application of penalties for the antiforeign outrages at Nanking and for the failure of the nationalists to observe the conditions of the Hankow agreement was inexpedient, however well justified the penalties might be. He also stated that Britain had decided not to reoccupy the Hankow concession at this time.

Undoubtedly the British decision was reached as a result of conversations among the great powers in which it developed that the United States was opposed to applying penalties for the Nanking outrages. Japan leaned toward the American side of the argument. The British government at first was very strongly disposed to use strong measures with the nationalists, but in spite of urgent representations from the British residents of China, the government decided to adopt a policy that would harmonize with that of the other powers.

The agreement whereby Britain was warranted in reoccupying Hankow was deliberately violated by the communistic branch of the nationalist government, which set itself up in business at Hankow. But this element has been badly beaten by Chiang Kai-Shek in its first test of strength, and Sir Austen Chamberlain now believes that the communists have been mastered.

One reason for abandoning the idea of taking punitive measures against the nationalists for the Nanking outrage is that the communists who were at the bottom of the affair "have been punished with a severity and speed which would have been impossible by any foreign power."

Chiang Kai-Shek, while not making any response to the foreign demands, seems to have done still better, by searching out and destroying the element that ran amuck at Nanking. This was what Eugene Chen promised would be done. The powers whose nationals were attacked are therefore no longer under the necessity of calling the nationalists to account. The question of collecting indemnities can be safely left open until a stable government has been established in China.

All signs point to the triumph of the nationalists. Whether Chang Tso-Lin finally decides to fight or compromise, the result will be the same, from present prospects. The nationalists are increasing in numbers. They possess a patriotic spirit that is unknown in the other Chinese armies. They know what they are fighting for. Chang Tso-Lin's forces are made up largely of mercenaries and white Russians who can not be depended upon to fight to a finish. As for Borodin and the radical Chinese who have been won over to communism, they have been effectually set back, at least for the time being, and their military power is comparatively small.

In some quarters it is conjectured that Feng, the "Christian" general, is holding off in the northeast, waiting to see the outcome of the fighting between the Cantonese and the northern army. He is an opportunist, pure and simple. If he thinks he can turn the scale at the psychological moment, with profit to himself, he is as apt to join one side as the other. But the war may be decided without his participation, and in that event the winner will be too strong for Feng.

With all its adulteration of communism, the Cantonese movement represents the national aspirations of the Chinese, striving to establish an honest and strong government and to eliminate the regional generals who have fattened upon the people. The hopes of China rest upon Chiang Kai-Shek and his associates.

By relying upon the patriotism and good faith of the Cantonese, by making allowances for the difficulties that confront them, and by deciding against a policy of force, President Coolidge has powerfully aided the Chinese nation in its efforts to establish a suitable government. The United States has befriended China in its direst need. Through American influence, the great powers are refraining from committing a blunder that might have led to interminable war. Although the Chinese situation will probably develop many crises before stable government has been established, the great test of the attitude of the powers has been made, and the result is that China is to be left free to work out its own salvation.

GUILTY.

Murder in the first degree is the verdict of the Snyder-Gray jury—the only verdict that could have been rendered in harmony with the facts.

The murder of Albert Snyder by his wife and her paramour was plotted in cold blood and executed with a fiendishness that appalled the country. It seemed like a tale of the Middle Ages, when passion was the law and murder was not a crime. The guilty couple were besotted with liquor when they murdered, but when they laid their plans they were in full possession of their faculties. Gray carefully prepared an alibi which, unraveled, carried him step by step to the scene of slaughter and away from it. He was enmeshed in a net of his own making. The woman, after a brief attempt at falsehood, was soon proved to be as guilty as Gray. She helped to plan the death of her husband, induced Gray to participate in the murder and herself took part in it.

The sordidness of this crime, the bestiality and callousness of the criminals and the overwhelming proof of guilt, out of their own mouths, are a reproach to civilization. The guilty pair have forfeited their right to live. Their execution is the only method by which society can adequately punish them. Their escape from the electric chair would be as great a reproach to civilization as was the crime itself.

A NEW INDUSTRY.

The general substitution of automobiles of the closed type for the "touring" and other open varieties has had an unexpected effect upon one line of industry not supposed to have any close affiliation with the manufacture of passenger cars.

Experiments conducted in the plant of the Ford company in Michigan led to the discovery of a new process for the manufacture of plate glass by which the cost of production is reduced as much as 40 per cent. Because of his need for such material in the building of closed cars Mr. Ford established a factory where the new material has been made on a commercial scale. So satisfactory were the results that the number of "new process" factories now reaches five, of which the Ford interests control three.

During 1926 153,000,000 square feet of plate glass were consumed in the United States. Of this total 47,000,000 feet were made under the new process and 24,000,000 feet were imported, mostly from Belgium. For tariff purposes all plate glass is divided into three classes—small, medium and large. Under the tariff act of 1913 the rates were respectively 6, 8 and 12 cents a square foot. In the tariff act of 1922 Congress increased these rates to 12½, 15 and 17½ cents a square foot for the small, medium and large sizes. But the following year furniture manufacturers who are, next to the automobile manufacturers, the largest users of plate glass, petitioned the tariff commission to inquire into the cost of manufacture in this country and abroad with the purpose of recommending a reduction in the tariff rates. The commission has prepared an exhaustive report which the plate glass makers hope will result in a recommendation that the duties be increased, or at least that they will be allowed to remain at the rates now prescribed, in the event that legislation affecting tariff schedules shall be undertaken during the next session of Congress.

In the meantime furniture makers and the importers of the Belgian product have asked an opportunity to be heard and, in response to that request, the commission is hearing all interested parties this week. The furniture people assert that the new process now in use in the making of plate glass enables the manufacturer to produce the small sizes at 18 cents a square foot, while the cost of manufacture in Europe, with freight and the tariff charges added, makes the cost of the foreign product laid down in American ports far in excess of that figure. They hold that the commission did not take into consideration this new process during the investigation of American costs. They insist that American production falls far short of meeting the demand, and in support of this contention they call attention to the fact that even the Ford company, in spite of its ownership of three plants, was compelled to import 6,000,000 square feet last year.

The furniture makers are persistent in their demand that the commission recommend to the President that he proclaim a 33 per cent reduction of the rates.

WASHINGTON HAS A RIVAL.

Canberra was formally dedicated yesterday with the Duke of York, son of King George of England, present as the representative of the crown. Canberra is the Washington of Australia, and unless the city planners of this Capital make haste to complete the L'Enfant design, with the suggested additions, the capital of the Southern continent may outshine Washington as the most beautiful city in the world.

The Australians have gone at the creation of their capital in no half-hearted manner. It will become what it is designed to be, the real center of government, with commerce as an outside and completely separate adjunct. The city is located in the center of a federal district 912 square miles in area, or more than nine times the size of the original District of Columbia as originally laid out, and is situated 200 miles from Sydney and 400 from Melbourne. It is designed as a model city upon which millions of dollars have already been spent and upon which countless millions more will be expended. The capitol itself has not yet been erected, but instead a temporary building said to have cost 500,000 pounds sterling is to be used pending the completion of the permanent structure.

Like our own Capitol, that of Canberra is located on a commanding hill from which, through 12 square miles, radiate the avenues upon which front all the public buildings occupied by the administrative offices. Each is surrounded by gardens, to be maintained as beauty spots. Outside the city proper a considerable section of the district has been set aside for industries, and the remainder is reserved for parks and public purposes.

In order that there may never be introduced into the district any undesirable features, and that land speculation may never mar the plan of the founders of Canberra, the government will not sell any land within the district, but leases will be made, with rigid control, of land within the industrial section.

The Australians intend to make Canberra the model city of the world. That it shall likewise become the most beautiful is also their aim. They have the money with which to carry out their aims and the willingness to expend every dollar necessary for the accomplishment of those objects.

Washington doffs its hat to Canberra.

THE SMALLPOX RECORD.

According to State reports tabulated by the American Association for Medical Progress there were nearly 34,000 cases of smallpox in the United States during 1926, with only two States entirely free from the disease. The mild type of case prevailed generally, which accounted for the fact that there were but 361 fatalities. Outbreaks of the serious type early in the year, however, brought 236 deaths in California and 31 in the State of Washington. According to the association, the United States reported more cases than any other country outside of Asia, although there were in this country some 7,000 fewer cases than in 1925. Then it adds the statement:

> It is significant that in both the United States and in England, smallpox is most menacing where antivaccination sentiment is strongest—in southern California and in northern England.

Even though the fewer deaths in 1926 show that some progress is being made in the control of smallpox, the fact that the United States leads all other nations outside of Asia is not creditable to a country which is inclined to boast of its public health system and its widespread use of preventive medicinal and sanitary measures. Smallpox is a preventable disease—its control can be effected through vaccination. Unfortunately, enough opposition exists is some sections to prevent compulsory vaccination legislation.

THE ATLANTIC FLIERS.

It seems now that the flight of the White Bird has ended in another tragedy of the sea. On Sunday morning, at 5:18 o'clock, Capt. Charles Nungesser and Capt. Francois Coli piloted their single-engined plane upward from Le Bourget flying field, near Paris, and headed toward New York. Stowed aboard was slightly more than 40 hours' gasoline supply, enough according to calculations, to give life to the motor for over 4,200 miles under normal conditions. The White Bird was seen passing over Ireland. Since then, however, despite rumors and reports, it has not been sighted and at 6 o'clock last night more than 40 hours had elapsed since the take-off.

There remains only the hope that the aviators may yet be found floating around in the lifeless hull of their plane. Theirs was a gallant attempt, undertaken in the face of the prevailing westerly wind, one which the world had hoped might have had a happier ending. Ultimately the miles lying between Paris and New York will be spanned through the air, but the failure of this latest attempt is most discouraging.

EDUCATION AND EARNINGS.

Supplementing the figures recently made public by the Department of Agriculture regarding the monetary value of an education to farmers, is an article in the May issue of the Current History Magazine from the pen of J. A. Schmidtmann, member of the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin, whose facts are based on statistics gathered by Prof. A. C. Elles, of the University of Texas. According to this gentleman, a study of the earnings of more than 3,000 pupils who left the Minneapolis school at the end of the eighth grade shows that they began with an annual salary of $240 against an average of $600 paid to graduates of the high school. More than 100 members of the Princeton class of 1901 reported average salaries of $706 the first year, $2,039 the fifth year and $3,804 the tenth year. An analysis of the 8,000 names in the 1900 edition of Who's Who in America disclosed only 31 names contributed by the 5,000,000 uneducated in America, 808 by the 33,000,000 with common-school education, 1,245 by the 2,000,000 high-school graduates and nearly 6,000 by the less than a million college and university graduates.

It hardly seems possible that in this day and age it is necessary to come to the defense of education, or to figure its value in terms of dollars and cents. A monetary standard is inadequate, for the value of education lies in many diverse compensations. It will be unfortunate if as a result of the many so-called studies of this matter, education comes to be considered valuable only for the increased earning power it produces. To many thousands, however, money is a convenient measure, and these undoubtedly will be glad to know that in addition to all other compensations to be gained from learning, there is the consideration of a fatter pay envelope.

PRESS COMMENT.

A Parable.

Cincinnati Enquirer: Scientists say that among mosquitoes and other insect pests it is only the female that attacks man and beast. This is probably a parable.

Youthful Restraint.

Philadelphia Ledger: College boys having won a game of baseball built a bonfire between the trolley tracks, derailed a street car, punctured tires of police automobiles and delayed traffic for an hour. One has to admire their restraint. They could so easily have burned the town and turned machine guns on the populace.

Flood Problems.

New York Evening Post: Not the least of the damage done by the Mississippi valley floods is the destruction of levees. It is estimated that at least $5,000,000 will have to be expended in immediate repairs, which must be made as soon as the river is low enough to permit work on the dikes. Frequently crevasses reach a width of a mile, so that a whole new stretch of levees must be built; even the levees which withstand the floods must be repaired and reinforced. The Mississippi and its tributaries have topped many miles of the earthworks, and crowns must be carefully restored. The standard height of the main levees is 22 feet, and many of them are wide enough at the top for two automobiles to drive abreast, so that the amount of earth necessary to be put into place will reach an enormous total. And all this work must be done, between this summer and next spring, when the regular flood will again begin to rush to the gulf. The question of permanent relief from floods does not affect this situation, which must be met promptly and effectively, lest much of the rich territory now under water suffer another inundation next year, or sooner, if the abnormal rains of the past winter should by any stroke of ill fortune repeat themselves.

If he has a better job than he could get elsewhere then he has no cause to kick. More frequently one hears men kicking on the town he lives in. If that town furnishes him a better living than any other town he should feel friendly to it and say so. If it does not he owes it to himself to move promptly to that town that offers a better opportunity. This is a free country and no man is compelled to work for any other man or to stay in any town he does not like.

Fort Wayne News Sentinel: He who lives in a fool's paradise generally has a month-to month lease.

France Resting Easy.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: France, apparently, is finally in a position to remove the last bit of pressure which impelled her to come to terms with the United States on the war-debt issue. This time last year France felt forced to make an agreement for two reasons: first, it looked as though she would have to borrow in the United States to save the franc from going the way of the German mark; second, there seemed no other way to escape default on her war-materials obligation of $400,000,000, due in 1929. Poincare saved the franc without outside help. There remained the $400,000,000. He then made an agreement to pay according to the Mellon-Berenger schedule, on condition that the $400,000,000 item would be forgiven, so long as the payments continued. Now he has amassed sufficient foreign credits to meet this item—in other words, is in a position to halt payments at any time. The pressure being removed, the French can do much as they like about their war debt. Their only motive for making settlement from now on will be a desire to uphold their national credit and their national honor.

Tools of Housekeeping.

Arkansas Gazette: One of the surviving users of an old-fashioned razor hotly denies that women do all their housekeeping with a can-opener.

For Charity.

Philadelphia Record: In the cause of public charity two high school boys of Illinois have originated a new method of obtaining funds. Carrying each a wooden paddle, they permitted any person who contributed a nickel to give them also one sound swat with the paddle. Location was not specified, but one's first guess is probably correct. This is a refreshing change from the stereotyped "dollar a kiss" affairs so common at benefits. Enough is not said about the matter. How did the youths survive the day, which is said to have brought in $4, jointly obtained? Did their experience prove sufficient to prevent repetition? And, most interesting of all, were any long-suffering teachers permitted a chance to whack these students?

Legal Marriage

By ROBERT QUILLEN

LEAVING out all sentiment, and considering marriage as a dispassionate biologist would, the purpose of marriage is a union of sexes to perpetuate the race.

In primitive times it could have been no more than this, however glorified by sentiment.

But before the formality of marriage was required by law, the union was wholly unfair to the woman. The man was under no obligation either to acknowledge or care for his child.

Then, as now, men made the laws; and it is to the everlasting credit of the sex that chivalry, unwhipped by any force whatever, prompted men to do the decent thing.

Beyond doubt the first laws requiring a public confession or announcement of union were prompted wholly by expediency.

Man, selfish then as now, could not be left free to become a parent, and then dodge the responsibility of caring for his offspring.

That need of making man responsible was the foundation of the institution called matrimony.

But the law failed of its purpose in many instances, as all laws do. Children still are born without benefit of clergy.

Now bear in mind that the first simple laws requiring marriage as a prelude to union were not enacted to benefit the man, or even to benefit the woman—though this was achieved—but to give the child a square deal; to give it the support of one able to fend for it in a hard world, and to give it rights in the name and property of its sire.

The child, the only party wholly innocent and helpless, required and received such protection as the law could give it.

So far, so good. But, if the child deserved protection and marriage was instituted among mortals to insure it, and the child now born without benefit of clergy or sanction of the law is left to the tender mercies of charity and the gibes of a society that is actuated by custom, not reason, it should follow as a matter of common justice that such protection as a legal union of parents can give it should be its heritage automatically.

That is, the very fact that a child is born should establish the legal union of its parents and thus insure to the child every right the state can grant.

If that isn't common justice, based on the most obvious logic, what is it?

Another need is something to keep a blue serge suit from shining to reveal the fact that you sit down to earn a living.

A L'ENFANT MEMORIAL.

Washingtonians are demanding a structure to commemorate the designer of their city, Maj. Pierre Charles L'Enfant, says the New York Times. Heretofore his most effective memorial has been the city itself, and the greatest tribute paid to him the resuscitation of his original plans which had been partially discarded. The Washington Post has discovered that there is no slab of stone or tablet of bronze or statue to his memory within the precincts of the Capital, and urges that a memorial be erected in one of the spaces to be cleared in carrying out the original plans of the city.

This is as it should be, for thanks largely to the taste and work of this companion of Lafayette, Washington is today one of the loveliest cities in the world. Had his original ideas been carried out from the beginning it would have been even finer. But the main plan, conceived in spaciousness, has been sufficiently followed to have made the Capital a park-like city of vistas. When the present work of constructing new Federal office buildings and of opening up new streets is finished, much will have been done to add to the beauty of the city.

Maj. L'Enfant had the misfortune to disagree with some of the early politicians of Georgetown. In the quarrel that ensued the President aided against him. For his services he was offered the sum of $750 or a small lot not far from the site of the present White House. Apparently economy was a presidential watchword even before the administration of Mr. Coolidge. Dissatisfied and insulted, he refused both. In his old age he sought suitable compensation from Congress without success, and finally died in 1825 a dependent of a family by the name of Digges in Maryland. His was an eccentric disposition; he was somewhat suspicious and inclined to want to have his own way.

It is to his achievements rather than to his personal qualities that it is proposed to erect a memorial. In the days when the United States had only a few million inhabitants scattered along the Atlantic seaboard, L'Enfant had the vision to prepare a capital for a great nation. To be sure, the growth of the city has exceeded even his dreams, but much of this has come within the last quarter century. Strangely enough, one of the artistic dangers which he most feared when it was originally planned to auction off the city lots not only came to pass soon but remained long—the erection of "huddles of shanties" near important building sites. These at last are disappearing under the pressure of present-day real estate development. That they persisted so long is in a sense a further tribute to his foresight. He rightly understood the problems of planning a great city. It is high time for that city to show its understanding of his genius by paying him the tribute of a memorial.

ALIMONY FOR A LAMB.

A new problem in agriculture, as well as jurisprudence, has arisen in the village of Beliaevki, near Odessa, says a Moscow cable to the New York Sun. A peasant woman, Irina Serebriakova, guardian of a lamb, has started suit under the new soviet family code to compel Ivan Nepomniashy, owner of a bucolic ram, to pay alimony for the support of the ram's offspring.

The mother sheep died the day the lamb arrived and the peasant woman was obliged to buy milk and forage in the village. A lawyer advised her that the lamb's paternal parent was equally responsible for the fledgling's support.

Though primarily intended to regulate conjugal affairs, the citizens court decided that the elaborate clauses protecting the rights of children, applied in principle to the four legged property of citizens—puppies, colts and calves, as well as lambs.

Nepomniashy presented the conventional defense that his ram was not the real father. The court reserved decision pending a report by expert witnesses.

WHAT EVERY WOMAN WANTS

From the day when Eve looked in the mirrored pool and admired her own loveliness, women have wanted beauty! And everybody knows that lovely hair is the first step toward it.

Best results are obtained by washing the hair with canthrox—a simple preparation which cleanses the hair thoroughly, making it dry quickly and preventing streaking.

Most women know the value of canthrox for cleaning the hair, making each strand soft, fluffy and displaying it to the best advantage. Just dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of warm water. This is enough to go all over the head and clear to the ends of the hair. Canthrox prevents dandruff because it stimulates the roots to healthy action. The cost is only 3 cents a shampoo.—Adv.

Good Taste!

Both beauty and good taste demand that one's face powder adhere smoothly and delicately, without the necessity of constant repowdering. Lovely Mrs. Edith Earl, along with thousands of smart women everywhere, insures this by using Black and White Peroxide (Vanishing) Cream! Over it, face powder clings for hours and forms with it a dainty shield against dust and the weather, keeping the skin youthfully smooth, white and exquisite. 80,000 dealers have this pure, snowy cream in the generous 50c and 25c jars.

Mrs. Earl, who lives at 5444 Irving St., Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I never saw anything like the way a thin film of Black and White Peroxide (Vanishing) Cream protects my complexion from sun, wind and dust and keeps my face powder on so beautifully and so lastingly!"

If your dealer doesn't have the Black and White Beauty Creations you want, send his name to Plough, Dept. 62, Memphis, Tenn., and you will receive FREE, a copy of the Birthday and Dream Book, containing many interesting things about beauty, dreams and fortune telling.

TOLMAN WASHES BLANKETS A NEW WAY

Talk to Tolman before you have any blankets washed or dry cleaned.

We have installed new Blanket Machinery especially built for us at great expense. Your finest blankets, automobile robes, wool shawls and Indian blankets can be intrusted to it.

All blankets are washed perfectly clean in Ivory Suds and dried on a frame in a metal room, where circulating warm air raises the nap. Edges are held straight. No shrinkage is possible, colors are not faded.

The blankets when finished are soft, thick and downy as when new. Try the new Tolman process for the washing of your blankets. There is no increase in price and your blankets will look lovelier than ever before.

The Agriculture Department says, "To prevent moths have your blankets clean before packing away."

The Housekeeper

WE will remember, of course, that today is Radio Tuesday and that homemakers' hour takes place at 10:30 this morning.

And now, before we take up the business of the day, may I say a word or two in regard to the new column that we have recently added to our homemaking department, known as the "Market Guide." This column may, I feel, need a few words of explanation.

The food prices that are quoted in this new department are not—as I fear may be expected—the lowest prices for the mentioned articles of food to be found in our city, but are rather prices obtained at a place where prices may, on the whole, be considered average rather than very high or very low, and prices that are quoted on the best product of each kind that could be found at its lowest price. It is possible, of course, that in certain isolated instances lower prices may be found for the articles of food mentioned in the Market Guide, but in compiling the material for my weekly report I make an effort to bring to the attention of the housekeeper not the humdrum things that have been found in market all year, such as rump steak and beets, old potatoes and the like, but the spring things that are new and appealing, that my readers may be informed of the progress that these new foods are making in the markets. The column is, in other words, a key to the unusual and desirable in the food shops and the best grade of this unusual, that we may be assisted in a wise selection before we do our Saturday marketing. Never, in my opinion, are inferior foods an economy—however low the price.

Now for a menu and the ensuing business of the day.

MENU.

Chicken Broth with Rice
Celery Crackers
Chicken with Noodles
Green Peas Escalloped Egg Plant
Supper Rolls
Lettuce with Roquefort Dressing
Toasted Crackers
Coffee.

We have gone for days now without a menu that provides what we speak of as "left-over materials." The business of change from roasts to cutlets and their kin is a desirable one, but one-meal foods are, as we are well aware, an extravagance and we can not indulge in them as a steady diet. For today, although it is not Sunday, I have planned a chicken dinner that will provide for tomorrow not only chicken from which may be constructed any number of delicious things for our evening meal, but chicken broth that will have had an opportunity to jell in the ice box over night and which will, if properly seasoned, give us a delicious jellied chicken consomme for our tomorrow night's repast.

Chicken is one of the meats of which we should take advantage at this time of the year. They are not at their highest point at this time and the meat, being a white meat, is not as heating or as our other substantial protein foods.

Chicken With Noodles.

Boil a chicken slowly until tender in water to which an onion, a bay leaf, and a few stalks of celery have been added. Remove when cooked to a hot platter and garnish with parsley and over the top arrange a few strips of pimento. Season the broth in which the chicken was cooked with salt and pepper to taste and thicken with flour mixed with a sufficient amount of milk to make it of just the consistency to pour easily. Strain the gravy so made and keep it hot. May I add right here that if a jellied consomme is to be made tomorrow it must be provided for today by saving out enough of the broth to serve a cup of jelly to each member of the family. This will materially cut down the gravy for the first serving of the chicken, as we may not add more water to the bird for its boiling and still expect the broth to form a jelly when it is placed in the ice box to chill. The chilling of the broth does not make it jell, but the richness of it does. Thin broth requires the addition of gelatine to make of it a jellied soup.

After the gravy has been thickened and kept hot while the noodles, one package, are cooking in boiling salted water it is added to the noodles (when they are done) and the whole is to be seasoned to taste. The chicken, which is also to be kept hot, has already been arranged on a platter, and the noodles with their gravy are to be put around the chicken on the platter and the whole garnished with sprinklings of paprika and sprigs of parsley.

The rest of our menu we will be able to construct without difficulty. Here are a few recipes that have been sent to us by kind friends and that I think you will enjoy.

Baltimore Kisses (K. D. R., Nevada).

4 egg whites beaten until stiff and dry.
1 scant cup granulated sugar.
1 cup broken walnut meats.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Mix these ingredients and drop onto a greased paper that is placed on a baking sheet. Bake in a very slow oven for from 40 to 50 minutes.

Some of us may know of this next recipe, but it is an excellent one as we may well say for we have tried it here at the studio and found it so. It comes to us from Mrs. W. L. D., who lives in Washington.

Caramel Pudding.

A can of condensed milk boiled for two hours. Then cool and put the can in the ice box and when well chilled serve with rich cream.

A friend of all of ours, at least of those of us who listen to the radio homemakers' hour, had occasion to come to this studio here at The Post, and she left with me the receipe that I am now going to pass along to you. We were discussing food, which is not strange, is it, and she told of this dessert which sounds as delicious as it is unusual. Oh, yes, her name is Mrs. Parkinson, and she gives us our delightful music during the homemakers' hour.

Cookie Dessert.

It is necessary that a certain cookie be used for this dessert as no other will do—and against our very fiat policy of no trade names in this column I am this time going to make an exception and tell you that the cookies used are called "Famous" cookies, and are to be had in little round tins, I judge, from the description. The chocolate ones are to be bought, and a pint of whipping cream—and this is the procedure:

First we whip the cream and then place one of the cookies, which are very thin, in the palm of our hand and mound some of the whipped cream up on it to the extent of about a half inch. (Oh, yes, the cream is to be sweetened slightly and flavored with just one drop of vanilla.) Then place another cookie on the top of the cream and pile a half-inch of cream on it. This is repeated until you have standing up in your hand all that the hand will hold—about five. Carefully place these on the table and repeat the operation twice, until there are fifteen of these little segments of cookie and cream. Place these three divisions together making a long, tube-like thing and place it in a bread pan where it will run from end to end of the pan. This pan is then to be covered and placed in the ice box for about 24 hours. The cookies will swell, and the cream be absorbed. There will be a roll that has become semisolid and that can be easily sliced. It is to be sliced on the diagonal for serving, like a stick of peppermint candy that has been sliced as a marketman slices bologna. (Not a simile fitting this dessert, I fancy, but it is difficult to describe.) All that remains to do then is to eat it—and I think that we shall find it worth making, for this lady who plays so beautifully is also tremendously interested in the business of being a homemaker and a most excellent cook.

Pineapple Ice.

Squeeze the juice of three cans of grated pineapple through a cheesecloth and sweeten well—for the sweetness is lost somewhat in the freezing. Add one pint of dry ginger ale to three cans of the liquor from the pineapple. Freeze as for ice cream.

Nancy Goes A-Shopping

1. Today indeed have I something of which to tell you that will be a boon during the coming summer months. We all, surely, are interested in the manner in which we may best care for our nicer dresses that soil just with hanging in the closet when doors and windows are wide open and dust is sifting into our domain. And we have all, at one time or another, laboriously gone about the business of covering these dresses with sheets carefully pinned around them, or with old pillow cases and the like. Today I walked into a sale of cretonne bags designed to accommodate not one of these nicer dresses but six of them. Garment bags, made of splendid pieces of lightweight cretonne in shades of rose, blue, peach, lavender and the like, over an oblong frame at the top, in which are six hangers for dresses. This frame, with the bag hanging from it is hung, by its one hook, on the rod in our closet, and the corner of the bag is closed up one side from the top to the bottom with snaps that we may gain easy access to our dresses without taking down the bag at all. The bottom is entirely closed, of course, just as the top is, and when the snaps have been snapped together no dust may enter, nor may the work-a-day garments hung in our closet rub against our party dresses when we hang them up all in a row. These bags have been reduced from $2.25 to the price they are now selling for—$1, and will be on sale the two days only—Monday and Tuesday, so this is our last day to buy them, and if I may offer a suggestion, they are well worth their price when we consider that we are not above paying 10 cents each for coat hangers and that these six hangers, without the big bag at all, would come to 60 cents. And clothes bags are, in my opinion, not only an economy but a necessity in the matter of our dainty dresses.

2. The other item that attracted the shopping eye at this time happened to be sport hose, of lisle, that may be worn by those of us who golf, take motor trips in sport clothes, or enjoy long walks, and do not wish to appear in the vivid, not to say, loud checks that prevail in the mode of sport hose at the moment. These stockings are of pure lisle thread, well made, and in the soft tones of blue, buff, grain, black and white, and gray. There is a small, indistinct diamond of varying size woven into the material of the sock, and they will doubtless serve many purposes for summer wear. They are $1 the pair—not reduced, but a special stock purchased to sell at that figure.

Dr. McCullough Acting Chairman.

Dr. Robert W. McCullough, of 808 H street northeast, has been appointed chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the annual outing of the Northeast Business Men's association, June 22, at Chesapeake Beach.

Mrs. O'Connor Chosen Social Agencies Head

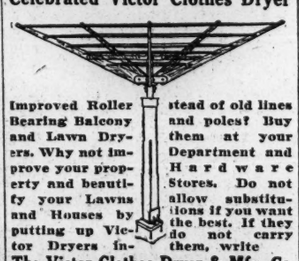

Mrs. John J. O'Connor was elected president of the Washington council of social agencies yesterday, at the election of officers in the Burlington hotel. She succeeds Arthur C. Moses, retiring president, who in turn was elected vice president. Other officers reelected were Newbold Noyes, treasurer; M. O. Chance, assistant treasurer, and Mrs. W. A. Roberts, executive secretary.

New methods of financing social agencies were described by Alan Johnstone, of the Baltimore community fund, who told of means employed in Baltimore for such purposes. An informal discussion followed. Among those who talked in favor of the so-called "community chest" idea were Mrs. Sidney Tallaferro, William M. Ritter and Joshua Evans. A committee was appointed to investigate the subject and report upon it.

"I like those extra miles"
-says the man who drives his own car

"THERE are lots of reasons why I always buy AMOCO-GAS. I like the quick response I can feel in starting. I like the power AMOCO-GAS puts at my disposal on the hills. I like the freedom from knocks. But most of all, I like those extra miles I've always found in every gallon of AMOCO-GAS! It's a longer run between filling stations since I got wise to AMOCO-GAS"

THERE'S no need to tell an experienced motorist that AMOCO-GAS excels all its many imitators in power, in flexibility, in freedom from knocks and many other ways. The big thing to remember is that "cost-per-mile" is the only true measure of cost---and that's what makes AMOCO-GAS the most economical fuel for any type of car!

HEARTS' HAVEN

By MILDRED BARBOUR.

With Illustrations by Armstrong Sperry

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS.

Christine Farr, pretty, popular, just 18, is invited to the commencement exercises of Reserve university by two inseparable friends of her childhood, both of whom are in love with her. They are:

Harvey Blanton, handsome, brilliant, aggressive, and his chum and roommate,

Lewis Hages, grave, dependable, doggedly determined to make his mark in the field of chemical experimentation.

Harvey proposes to her and is accepted, so Lewis goes away without telling her he loves her.

CHAPTER III.

The Runaways.

It was the day before Christine's marriage to Harvey Blanton!

A day of turmoil and excitement for the Farr household. Christine's mother considered a wedding unattended by such details as six bridesmaids, a corresponding number of ushers, two clergymen in full robes, an indigestible wedding supper, presents on display in the library, flowers, and the bride's mother dissolved in tears—as no marriage at all.

The bride and bridegroom, the bride's father, and the ensuing bills, entered not at all into her calculations.

So, when at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when the bridegroom-elect rang up the Farr residence, his future mother-in-law came to the phone and gave him a sample of what to expect later.

"You certainly cannot see Christine!" she announced, while she waved two demoralized maids on with their work, and cast a critical eye at the smilax which a decorator's assistant was weaving over the fireplace. "Nor speak to her either! She's resting. The child is nearly worn out with excitement——"

"I should think she would be—with all this fol-de-rol," he grumbled—but, wise youth, under his breath!

"Can't I have just one word with her?" he pleaded, rather meekly, for Harvey. "I've come from the new house and the curtains have just been delivered. I thought she'd like to know and maybe run over to see them——"

"Ridiculous! Besides, it would be most improper, if you were there alone. And none of us has time to go with her."

"The decorator's man is still there, I think. I can telephone him to stay——" he suggested hopefully.

"No, no, no!" said the lady. "You must control your impatience, dear boy. You'll see Christine at the church rehearsal tonight."

"Christine, who on earth are you talking to?"

"Yes—with about a thousand other people."

"Well, after tomorrow——" she suggested archly and hung up, feeling that she had been a trifle indelicate.

She went back to the pandemonium that reigned in the drawing room, so she didn't hear what went on upstairs. Christine was talking, or rather whispering, over the extension phone.

"Darling, I'm coming over to see the new curtains. I heard you from upstairs. I'll manage to slip out somehow."

"You angel!" He was whispering, too, from his end of the line.

"Christine, who on earth are you talking to?"

Christine flushed scarlet, as her mother appeared.

"It was —er— Cousin Anna," she said. "She wants me to come over right away. She has something for me."

"Oh, well," Mrs. Farr temporized, "if it's a present, run along. I wondered if she wasn't going to give you something. Don't stay long. You must rest for tonight."

Ten minutes later, Christine was meeting her fiance at a corner discreetly sheltered from the windows of the Farr house. She wore a frock of blue silk which changed her gray eyes to forget-me-nots and gave a rose-leaf texture to her skin. Harvey looked at her with adoration in his handsome eyes, and she blushed crimson.

For several minutes she couldn't look at him. But when she finally lifted her gaze, it was held by his. They stood there at the curb, oblivious of traffic, and looked into each other's eyes—two happy young things who thought they had found the answer to the riddle of existence.

Finally, Harvey's aggressive, dominant manner returned. Of late, in his adoration for his bride-to-be, he had become almost humble at times. There were moments when his confidence dropped from him. He forgot to be triumphant over his accomplishments. He was a little afraid of his own luck.

But not for long!

"Darling, the house is a peach," he told her, as they entered a charming little suburb and approached their future home. "I went over it thoroughly this afternoon, and I don't think I've forgotten a thing—not even the towels that you helped me select last week. Everything's in order, but I want you to see it for yourself, so we'll be ready to step in and start housekeeping the minute we get back from our honeymoon. We'll have had enough of hotels by then."

She brushed her cheek against his shoulder.

"Wouldn't it be fun if we could come straight here tomorrow night, instead of having to go on a honeymoon?" she laughed.

His handsome eyes blazed.

"Wouldn't it be wonderful, if we could come here—tonight? Without all that infernal fuss and feathers tomorrow?"

She lifted startled eyes, and he caught her hand and drew her toward him.

"Sweetheart, if you love me, let's cut and run. We've time. I have the license in my pocket. We'll find a minister to marry us, and we'll go back to the little house tonight."

Her eyes were sparkling with excitement.

"Oh, wouldn't it be fun?" she gasped. "And wouldn't every one be furious? The bridesmaids—and the caterers——"

"Will you?" His fingers almost crushed hers. "Come on, say you will. And the deuce take all that fuss tomorrow. All those trappings can't make us any more married, when we love each other. That's all that counts—just us—always."

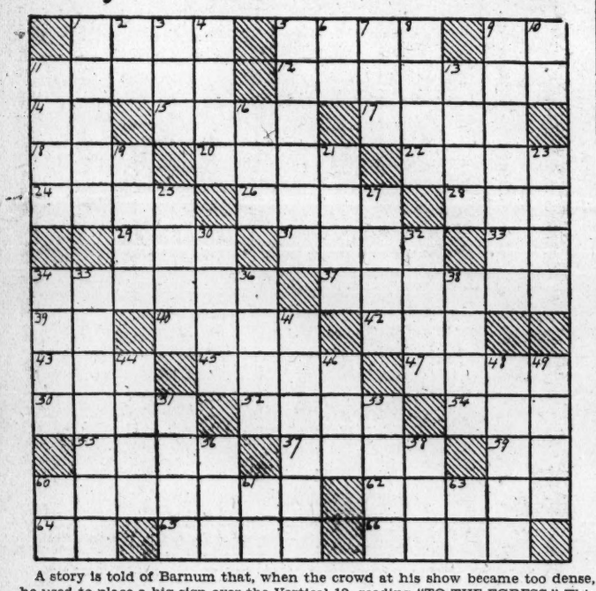

"Just us always," she repeated. "Let's hurry!"

Mr. Work's Pointer On Auction Bridge

THE pointer for today is:

WITH A NO TRUMP CONTRACT AND AN EIGHT LED, DUMMY HOLDING TEN-X-X AND THE CLOSED HAND KING-QUEEN-X, DECLARER MAY BE SURE THAT DUMMY'S TEN CAN WIN THE FIRST TRICK.

When the opening lead against a No Trump is a small card, it is the leader's fourth best; consequently he must have three higher cards in that suit. In this case there are only three cards higher than the card led which are not in the Declarer's two hands, so the Declarer can be positive that the Ten will win the trick. This is merely another method of stating the Rule of Eleven, which is that a subtraction of the pips on the card led from the eleven, shows the number of cards of the suit higher than the card led which are not in the hand of the leader.

Yesterday the cards of the Dummy (North) and Closed Hand (South) were given in the following deal:

I asked my readers which card should be played from Dummy on trick 1, with the Eight of Clubs led, and why. The answer slip on which I hope you wrote your answer yesterday should read:

On trick 1, Dummy should play the Ten of Clubs because it will win the trick and permit the Declarer to keep the King and Queen together, which ensures another Club trick.

If the card led had been the Six, Declarer, subtracting six from eleven and finding the remainder to be five, would have known—as he could see in his two hands four of the five Clubs higher than the Six—that the Third Hand must hold one card higher than the Six; but he would not have known which one of the four possible cards (Ace, Jack, Nine or Eight) it was. Even in that case the Ten should be played from Ten-x, and from Ten-x-x; but the play from Ten-x-x would not be the cinch that it would be with the Eight led.

Now let us suppose that West leads the Eight and Dummy wins the first trick with the Ten. What should happen next? Fill the answer slip, writing in pencil today; keep it and see my answer tomorrow.

Bridge Answer Slip for May 10.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. W. A. EVANS

FOR about ten years a mighty battle has waged between the advocates of the different methods of treating anemia. Another way of stating the issue which caused the war is: Does taking an iron tonic do any good?

In the olden days the faith of the public in iron tonics was unbounded. Go far enough back and we can say the faith of the public in all kinds of medicines—pills, powders and spoon medicine—was unbounded. Then the houses began to fall. Finally, amid the wreck and ruin, little remained except the faith in iron tonics. That seemed rock-ribbed.

But a something called "therapeutic nihilism" was in the air. They say Osler started it. Of course he did not, but he did crystallize a vague, formless impulse into a very definite seeable, feeling, recognizable force. Men began to say iron tonics were useless. They quoted some scientific backing. They said the iron taken as medicine is not absorbed. If it was, it would poison the system, as the body in health only contains a few grains of iron, and to add as much as a bottle of iron tonic contains would push the sick man over the top—toward the angels.

The answer was that most of the iron in the iron tonic was used to neutralize the poisons in the digestive tract and some was then absorbed to make new blood. Back came the answer: You can't prove it.

Then came something of a compromise. It was admitted that ordinary iron and ordinary salts of iron were not of value as iron tonics, but that organic salts of iron were absorbed and used. But this was denied. The opponents said there was no proof that organic preparations of iron were helpful in anemia. If anything short of iron in the shape of foods was helpful, the inorganic salts of iron stood a better show of being helpful than did the organic salts. Then the row started again almost all down the line.

Next came the claim that iron in food was helpful, but iron in medicines was not. The row caused a lot of investigation, and the end is not yet.

The following is an effort to make a fair statement of the situation as it now is. The only reason for taking an iron tonic is a deficiency of iron in the system.

A deficiency of iron is responsible for the condition known as anemia. There are several kinds of anemia. If a person learns that he has anemia he should next learn what kind of anemia, and then what is the cause.

A very simple inexpensive, easily made blood test will settle that question moderately well. A person can need iron without being pale, and a person can be pale without needing iron.

An ordinary iron tonic will not be of service in pernicious anemia. If the cause of anemia is found it should be removed.

Now, these several things having been done, is there any likelihood that taking an iron tonic in addition will help? The evidence for just about equals the evidence against. I should say the old standby should not be wrecked on the evidence as it now is.

ADVICE FOR ATHLETIC HEART.

F. J. McB. writes: 1. What is an athletic heart?

2. Is it serious?

3. Is there a cure, and, if so, what is it?

4. If a person has an athletic heart is he allowed to exercise?

REPLY.

1. A heart which has enlarged, or one which is very nervous and irritable as the result of overindulgence in athletics.

2. It may be, but usually is not.

3. Yes. Most persons who live properly overcome most or all the limitations imposed by an athletic heart.

4. Yes—by rules.

Gray Tailor-Mades In Greater Demand

Paris.—Gray is one of the big three in the color firmament in Paris this summer for tailored suits and dresses. The other two are black and beige.

Lightweight kashas, reps and alpacas made into simple two-piece costumes in tones of gray are the usual selections of the well-dressed women in Paris. At the race courses gray is seen in a noticeably large proportion over all other pale tints except beige.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES M'DONALD

DEAR Miss McDonald: You have helped many, won't you please help me? I am a mother, 23 years old, and have a daughter of 4, and I live with my parents. I work to support my child and myself. My parents think I have to give them all the money I make. Do you think that is right? Of course, they don't get me any clothes. I don't know how they think I'm going to get them. How much do you think I ought to give them? Sometimes I am treated all right, but other times they make it so hard for me. Many times I wish some fellow would marry me and get me away from them. What do you think would be the right thing for me to do? Of course, I never go out with any fellows. I really don't know what to do with myself, so please help me.

A YOUNG MOTHER.

Beyond board for yourself and the little one you are not bound to give your parents anything. But circumstances alter cases, you know, and so you must look well into your own case before concluding what would be the proper course. You are entitled to clothes, that is certain—and to fair treatment. But is may happen that when you needed help your parents made sacrifices, and perhaps did without clothes to help you. I take it from your letter you are an unmarried mother, and if so, your parents, in standing by you, have done what thousands of parents even in this enlightened day refuse to do in such circumstances. I am not blaming you for your present situation, I am merely trying to help you to see that it is not as bad as perhaps you have been believing. If your parents care for your child during the day—that is more help than many a young mother can find. If your parents are poor, they may really find it quite as hard as you do to get along, and since they "stood by" when you flew signals of distress—don't you think that you can do as much for them?

Of course, I know nothing of the story that lies back of your sad little letter. It may be that your parents were largely the cause of your mistake. If so, then I would advise you to be fair, but not weak—and to pay your way, but no more. In either case, dear child, learn to compromise with your problems. Say to yourself: "This is hard at times, but until I can make other arrangements I must accept it, so I shall do so with good grace, and overlook everything that irritates." Soon you will be serene. After all, if your child is safe, in good hands, and you have a home to come to each night you have much. I know hundreds of girls who are paying for their children in boarding homes, and who have no way of knowing what treatment the poor tots receive. Many return to a cheerless, lonely room at night, the only sort they can afford while paying for a child's support. Often they are undernourished themselves because they can not buy the food they need. I tell you these things, not to depress you—though such facts are worse than depressing—but to show you just how thankful you should be that you have a home, and how glad you should be to do your full share. When you need clothes, deduct a certain sum each week from your earnings to get them, and however hard things may seem remember that after all, your parents were true blue when your lover was pure yellow. Give them credit for that, and love them for it, as you want your dear little girl to love you some day for the things you are doing for her. Parents have problems—sometimes of their own making—but a cheerful determination to see only the best in any situation has solved many a problem for parent and child. Won't you try it?

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE AGE OF TERROR.

All things in life a man must know,
And some are swift and some are slow.
Along the journey of the years
For each who fares are smiles and tears,
And pleasantries and trials stern;
All things will follow in their turn.
So soon or late to each must fall
What I believe is worst of all—
And that's to pace the floor above
While surgeons work on one you love.

Now gowns of white and nurses' caps
Are pretty things to see, perhaps,
Upon the stage, but not so fair
When bitter business brings them there.
'Tis good to watch your baby sleep,
But not in ether's slumber deep.
Then fifteen minutes, often swift,
Seem hours, so slowly do they drift
For him who waits to hear them tell
The word that everything is well.

Now it is over with, and she
Is smiling once again at me.
The surgeon grins and hums a song,
And says, "Well, that was not so long!"
Not long! I faced a thousand fears
And lived a stretch of lonely years;
I suffered all that can be wrought
By terrified and anguished thought.
Not long! I lived an age of doubt
The day they took her tonsils out.

Right and Wrong in Waistlines

(© VOGUE)

PARIS has been flirting with the normal waistline again, and this is a not-to-be-omitted item of spring fashion news. But Florie, at the left, took the matter much too seriously—she immediately got out an old "chemise frock," four seasons old, tied its little string tight and high, and complacently went forth.

But Suzanne, at the right, knew that the waistline flirtation was a very discreet affair of reserves, disguises, hesitations. She copied one of the smartest frocks of the collections, and the normal waistline was there in the 1927 manner. J. Suzanne Talbot made the original and gave it three belts—one at the hips, one a little higher, and one that wasn't a belt at all, but simply the edge of the bolero, ending at the normal waistline. The effect is that of a very wide girdle, running from the normal waistline, but there is nothing sudden or startling about it. And so Suzanne is once again wearing the high waistline that is so undeniably becoming to slender figures, wearing it with chic, while Florie isn't smart or even new—she is simply another little flapper!

Conduct and Common Sense

By ANNE SINGLETON

DEAR Miss Singleton: Will you please tell me the proper way to eat asparagus? I am at loss to know if one should cut it with the salad fork or pick it up with the fingers. Also, are finger-bowls served with this course? A. Y. L.

To my mind, soft asparagus should certainly be eaten with the fork, and indeed at large dinner parties, and in informal surroundings, any sort of asparagus is perhaps more safely eaten in that way. At the same time, the large, firm stalks, may perfectly well be picked up by the fingers, dipped into sauce and so conveyed to the mouth. I have seen this done very often even at large dinners, but, as my correspondent points out, if by chance the fingers do suffer (they shouldn't if the asparagus stalks are dry, but one can't be sure that they will be), then, of course, wiping them on the napkin may be insufficient and, as finger-bowls are not served at this time, a person might feel uncomfortable.

Suppose we put it this way: use your fork in preference. If you find yourself so situated that you can eat the asparagus comfortably and cleanly with your fingers at a table where other people are doing the like, indulge yourself if you consider it indulgence to eat it that way. But be careful to observe your fellow-guest.

I remember reading that Benjamin Franklin was severely criticized by a French lady of high position for eating his asparagus with his fingers at a fine dinner. I suspect, however, that it may have been the soft kind, and, as she also spoke of his having a dirty waistcoat, he may have been an untidy eater and have dropped melted butter down his front.

I wish I could say "Do" or "Don't" more decidedly, but you see so many customs depend upon where you are, how the rest of the world is behaving, and how you do what you do, that a simple yes or no is sometimes misleading.

BEAUTY AND YOU

By VIOLA PARIS

DEAR VIOLA PARIS: Will you please tell me how peroxide and ammonia may be used in touching up gray hair? Or perhaps you may be able to give me another recipe for the same. A READER.

Answer: I do not know where this reader gained the impression that peroxide and ammonia could be used for such a purpose. They form, of course, a bleach; and, although they could be used on superfluous hair, I should not approve such a process for the hair of the head. As most of my readers know, I do not advise either "touching up" or bleaching the hair. I have a penchant for natural color, whether it should be white or gray or brown. Now, I do not quite know from this reader's question whether she wants to make streaked hair all gray or whether she wants to make gray hairs dark. If she means the latter, I am sorry that I can be of no assistance to her. But if she wants to hasten the process of graying hair, then she would have to use a special tonic compounded for that purpose. I can not mention trade names in this column, but am glad to answer questions concerning them if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is sent with the query.

Dear Viola Paris: Can you tell me something to do for extremely oily hair? The day after it is washed mine begins to get oily. I have tried several recommended drying lotions and always use a lemon rinse, which I leave on, but the condition only seems to grow worse. Will you also please reprint your home-made astringent? It had orange in some style in it.

M. L. D.

Answer—You have not told me how frequently you shampoo your hair, but I venture to say that you do this much too often. This would merely aggravate the trouble. I am not surprised that you don't find a lemon rinse a help, but I believe a really good drying lotion would produce an improvement if combined with the right general care. Let not less than two weeks elapse between shampoos. Rub very hot olive oil into the scalp either the night before or a few hours before washing. I know of excellent tonics, but, as you know, I can not give commercial references in this column. If you have no scalp specialist to advise you I can give you the following formula:

2 oz. lime water.

Apply to the scalp every night, rubbing in with the finger-tips.

I wonder if you have confused this department with some other one on a similar subject? So far as I know, I have never recommended any home-made astringent contanling oranges. You might make a mild astringent by mixing equal parts of witch-hazel and orange-flower water, adding a few drops of tincture of benzoin. However, I believe an astringent made by a recognized specialist to be preferable.

Modern Women's Hygiene

Ends worries of old ways
Discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

It's 5 times as absorbent as ordinary cotton "pads." Thus you wear lightest frocks; dance, motor, go for hours without a moment's doubt.

Deodorizes, too; thus ending all fear of offense. 8 in 10 better class women now employ this way. Doctors advise it. Nurses widely urge it. Obtain at any store without embarrassment simply by saying "KOTEX."

Try today and you'll never again risk the uncertainty of old ways. Box of 12 costs only a few cents. Be sure you get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

MODISH MITZI — Things One Always Forgets — By Jay V. Jay

"Of course," Adelaide is saying, "one can buy silk stockings in Paris, but I do think the stockings here this season are so smart you'll want dozens of them." She has brought stockings with the new top clocks, an odd design on the heel and elaborate lace clocks—and there are still others!

"I was just sure," Polly says, "that you had forgotten to take a bathing suit, so I bought one for each of us." The one she bought for Mitzi has short trunks of navy blue and the jacket is the top—it's of red and navy taffeta, with a standing collar and surplice neckline, and it's belted.

The Goofer was positive Mitzi would forget her umbrella, so he bought her a new one especially for traveling—a baby umbrella, less than 16 inches long, to be tucked into her suitcase for rainy days. Mitzi's embroidered yellow frock looks as though she expected only sunny weather.

This is why Mitzi packed yesterday. "One always forgets something," she says, "and one always has to open the trunks to put in the things one forgot at first. But now that's all attended to and I sha'n't have to do it at the very last minute." Mitzi fairly drips fringe and words of wisdom.

The issue is made for the purpose of retiring the oustanding $16,500,000 issue of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock of the company at 110. The debentures will be a direct obligation of the company and will constitute its sole funded debt.

In 1926 earnings were $4,216,891, or 5.6, the annual interest requirements of this offering. The consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 1926, adjusted to give effect to this financing, shows current assets of $29,257,426, and current liabilities of $5,717,605. With the retirement of the preferred stock, the only issue junior to the ten-year debentures will be the $25,000,000 common stock, which has a current market value in excess of $28,000,000.

The May meeting of the Washington Bond club will be held May 16, and following the custom of having a prominent speaker discuss a subject in which bond men are interested, Charles J. Bell, president of the American Security & Trust Co., will talk on "Bonds as a Bank Investment," according to announcement yesterday by Charles Carroll Morgan, manager of the bond department of G. M.-P. Murphy & Co., president.

Realty Loans Made.

Loans on bond and mortgage, authorized at the same meeting in the country at large amounted to $2,936,255. Of this amount $2,456,405 were city loans and $479,850 farm loans. All of the loans in Washington were for housing purposes, while loans for the same purpose in Virginia totaled $58,200.

Howard Moran Returns.

Howard Moran, president of the District Bankers association, who attended the spring meeting of the executive council American Bankers association last week in Hot Springs, Ark., returned to the city yesterday and met with the committee on constitution and by-laws in the afternoon. Rosenberg, president of the Bank of Commerce and Savings, is chairman of the committee on revision of the constitution, and will make a report to the association on proposed amendments at the annual convention in June at Hot Springs, Va.

Loadings in Freight.

Loading of revenue freight, despite the Mississippi floods and the bituminous miners' strike, exceeded 1,000,000 cars for the week ended April 30, according to reports filed by the rail carriers with the American Railway association.

Revenue freight loading for the week totaled 1,026,440 cars. This was the fourth time so far this year that loadings in any one week have exceeded the 1,000,000-car mark.

BANKERS PLEDGE AID TO REDEMPTION PLAN

Investment Association Board to Ask Liberty Holders to Exchange Bonds.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., May 9 (By A. P.).—The board of governors of the Investment Bankers Association of America, at their annual spring meeting here yesterday, pledged their cooperation to Secretary Mellon in his plan for the redemption of the second liberty loan bonds, and undertook a campaign to persuade investors not to exchange their government securities for those of doubtful value.

Max C. Whiting, of Boston, was appointed chairman of a committee to devise ways and means whereby the 1,000 members of the association in all States could be of the greatest service in carrying out the refunding plan of the Treasury.

Members of the association were urged to refer to the government's redemption notice in all bond and other circulars issued by their firms during the next six months, and to impress upon small holders that they should receive the face value of their bonds plus the face value of any coupons maturing November 15, or prior thereto. This expression on the part of the association is due to past experiences of liberty bond holders who have in some cases lost their money through unwise reinvestment.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 9 (By A. P.).—Freezing temperatures predicted for Nebraska and Kansas tonight, with complaints of seeding delay northwest and crop damage southwest gave a decided upturn today. There was also buying on correct belief that the government crop report would prove bullish. Wheat closed strong, 1½c to 2½c net higher, corn ¼c to ¾c up, oats at ¼c decline to ⅜c advance, and provisions varying from 17c drop to a rise of 2c.

Weather news was the big factor in the wheat market, but the consequent upward swing of values was also emphasized by announcement of 3,527,000 bushels decrease of the United States visible supply. Reports at hand from spring crop territory told of widespread heavy rains and also noted snow and sleet at numerous points. Meanwhile, increasing reports of winter wheat deterioration in parts of the Southwest were received, with much abandonment of acreage noted in Texas from Forth Worth to Amarillo.

Aggressive demand for wheat developed an irregular start that was partly a result of unresponsive Liverpool quotation. Besides, the general adverse weather, another incentive to buy was well-grounded opinion among many traders that current unofficial estimates of domestic winter wheat yield varying from 596,000,000 bushels to 604,000,000 bushels were too high, as compared with what the government report would show. The actual official forecast turned out to be 593,940,000 bushels. Meanwhile, export business in North American wheat today was rather small, about 400,000 bushels, and supplies on ocean passage were larger by 2,848,000 bushels.

Corn and oats rallied with wheat and as a result of wet weather interference with corn planting.

Provisions reflected downturns in the value of hogs.

STOCKS' NET PRICE-GAIN $140,000,000 FOR APRIL

Aggregate Value of 43 Out of 100 Selected Issues Receeds $285,000,000.

DUE TO SELLING OF OILS

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, May 9.—Net gains of approximately $140,000,000 were made in the value of 100 selected stocks during April, according to the monthly market analysis of Frazier, Jelke & Co.

While the aggregate value of 43 stocks was enhanced $425,060,000 during the month, this was partially offset by a decline of $285,000,000 made by most of the remaining 57 issues.

Outstanding shares of the 100 listed stocks had a value of $17,818,758,000 on April 30, compared with $17,678,838,000 on March 31. These same securities advanced $1,000,000,000 during the first three months of 1927.

Further liquidation of the oil shares was responsible for most of the decline. With the exception of Houston, every stock in the oil group showed further losses in valuation. The net decline of the twelve oils was $131,060,000.

Only 20 of the 45 industrials in the list of 100 showed gains for the month, but the gains in this group were substantial. The advance in value was $256,593,000 against a decline of $102,877,000, a net gain of $153,716,000. General Electric and Du Pont were the leaders in this respect with advances in value of $72,110,000 and $58,542,000, respectively.

Other industrials to share in the advance were International Nickel, which added $21,749,000 to its value, and Remington Rand, which increased from $40,874,000 to $49,236,000 upon its advent as an active stock.

Motors made a net gain of $94,450,000. Six of the thirteen motor shares advanced $110,104,000 against a decline of $15,654,000. General Motors shares were enhanced in value $87,000,000 on the rise.

Sixteen of the 30 rails gained only $54,628,000 against a decline of $31,813,000, making the net gain of the rail group only $22,815,000.

ARCHIMEDES

MEN might still be navigating in glorified canoes if Archimedes had not hit upon the famous principle that made steel ship construction possible. Twenty-two hundred years ago in his (daily?) bath, Archimedes discovered that immersed or partially immersed bodies are buoyed up by a force equal to the weight of liquid they displaced.

Archimedes' principle holds true in a financial way, too. Load your vessel with indulgences and extravagances and it will sink. But throw overboard wasteful expenditures and some day your ship will come in.

LIVELY BUYING AMONG RAILS AND SPECIALTIES

FEW MOTORS SELL OFF

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, May 9.—Stocks, in response to the favorable credit outlook, improved still further in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange today. Railroad shares in wide variety and specialties led the continuation of the upswing and numerous large net gains were scored, ranging up to 7 points or so and, in one instance, that of National Tea, to 15 points. The turnover was appreciably larger than that of the Monday preceding, falling about 25,000 short of the 2,000,000 share mark.

Encouraging speculation for the advance in particular was formal notice of the government's intention to redeem the outstanding second Liberty 4s and 4½s, regarded as an indication of a belief in high quarters that money rates would remain favorable. Renewed strength in investment bonds was another result, and activity in motor and accessory stocks was stimulated by expectation of early favorable dividend actions. There was heaviness, however, in the oil group and a few other weak spots here and there through the general list were uncovered, but good buying was distributed broadly elsewhere.

A number of industrial stocks were bid to new high prices of record, notably Case Threshing Machine, Loose-Wiles, Cushman Baking and National Biscuit, but it was on the rails and various specialties that the buying of stocks converged. In the carrier division the demand was more general than in some time, notwithstanding the fact that car loadings lately have dropped off. The decline, not especially seriously proportioned, is ascribed to the Mississippi flood and the soft coal strike. The revival of interest in the transportation shares was considered to be reflective of the improved outlook for favorable Interstate Commerce Commission action on the second application for approval of the Nickel Plate combination.

Some of the rather more speculative members of the group, as well as numerous investment rails, forged ahead to new peaks. The Southwestern issues, which had been reflecting flood damage, rallied strongly and Northwesterns were aided higher by deal rumors. Frisco and Texas & Pacific, the latter with a net gain of 4½, were leaders of the former section of the list, and Reading and Chicago & Northwestern were among those attaining new highs for the year. Virtually all advances were well maintained.

Commercial Solvents, with a rise of 7¾ points, was a feature, although it failed to top its high-record price. The net gain in National Biscuit was 7 points, despite the fact it finished 2¼ under the day's best quotation. Loose-Wiles bettered its previous high level by more than 10 points and closed 11⅜ up on the day, a fraction under its new summit.

Case closed 5¼ up, Cushman Baking 5⅞ higher, International Business Machine up 5½ and other important gainers included Bayuk Cigars, Greene Copper, Sterling Products, Liquid Carbonic, Intertype, Standard Milling, Purity Baking, United Cigar Stores and Hudson Motors, the last named going to a new 1927 high at 84½ and closing at the top, 5¼ points up from Saturday's final quotation.

As a group the public utilities, led by Brooklyn Edison, which found a new high level 4¾ points net higher, were favored.

Motors as a lot did not begin to keep pace with Hudson. Indeed, under profit taking in the late session, General Motors, Mack Trucks and a few more receded moderately, closing at net losses of a point or more.

WALL STREET NEWS BRIEFS

New York, May 9 (By A. P.).—Inland Steel Co tomorrow will advance prices of steel sheets $2 a ton. This company is the last of the large independents to follow the recent increase by Youngstown Sheet & Tube.

Production of the Pittsburgh Coal Co. last week was the greatest output of any week since the soft coal strike began on April 1, reaching 116,928 tons, compared with 110,096 the week before.

Estimated gross operating revenues of the Western Maryland railway for the four months this year were $7,703,832, against $7,257,334 in the same period last year. Coal loadings in April were unusually heavy, amounting to 300 cars daily, the largest daily loadings in April since the war.

Birmingham dispatches say pig iron production in Alabama the first four months this year was 1,005,820 tons, against 959,284 for the same period of 1926. Steady production will be maintained indefinitely, it is said. Quotations are firm at $18 a ton for No. 2 foundry.

Peerless Motor Car has set its production for 1927 at 20,000 cars. President Verlinden sees a bright outlook for the industry.

The general average of steel operations in the Youngstown district is around 75 per cent, schedules showing that strip steel, merchant bar and tin plate departments are operating close to normal. Subsidiaries of United States States Steel are at 80 per cent of capacity, while independents average 70 per cent. Youngstown Sheet & Tube is at 65 to 70 per cent; Republic Iron & Steel, 70 per cent; Trumbull Steel, 84 per cent, and Sharon Steel, 90 per cent.

The annual meeting of Penn-Seaboard Steel Corporation for approval of the recapitulation plan has been postponed until June 23.

Opinion in the financial district leans to the unlikelihood that directors of the Chicago, North Western railway will consider any increase in the dividend rate at their meeting tomorrow.

Building permits for April were smaller than in April last year and also for the first four months this year, returns to Bradstreet's from 140 cities showing a total of $297,491,655 against $304,818,688 in March and $335,917,729 in April, 1926. The four months' total was $1,095,483,533, a decrease of 7.2 per cent from a year ago.

Steel ingot production in April is calculated at 4,129,952 tons by the American Iron & Steel Institute, compared with 4,534,926 tons in March and 4,105,799 in April last year. The total for the four months of 1927 was 16,262,161 against 16,491,677 in the same period of 1926. Approximate daily production in April was 158,844 tons for 26 working days with percentage of operation at 88.46.

The Banco Nacional de Mexico has announced the opening of a branch office in the financial district.

Skelly Oil Co. reports first quarter net profit of $567,261, equal to 51 cents a share on the common stock outstanding, against $1,298,292 in the same quarter of 1926, or $1.34 a share.

Chicago Faces Thurston in Opener

Lisenbee Ready for Tomorrow; Goslin to Join Team.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

ST. LOUIS, May 9.—Hollis Thurston obtained from the White Sox, will pitch against his former mates in the opening of the series there tomorrow. He was scheduled to perform here against the Browns but heavy rains last night and more rain from noon on, made play out of the question and the game has been postponed until the Nats' next visit here in late July, when it will be staged as part of a double header.

Thurston was particularly pleased at the rainfall, for he craves a chance to show Manager Schalk what a mistake he made in releasing him. Not that the pitcher is displeased at being sent to Washington, but it simply is human nature for discards to take special delight in beating the teams which sent them away.

Manager Harris admitted tonight that he has just about become reconciled to the fact that the veteran spit-baller Stanley Coveleskie will be of little use to the Nationals until warmer weather. Three times the Polish hurler has started a game feeling fit as a fiddle and three times he had had to give up due to muscle ailments. In his first two starts, he lasted about two-thirds of the route but he had to retire yesterday atfer the second inning.

"Covey's" troubles are not always the same, which makes it hard for Trainer Martin to figure out just what's wrong. At Tampa this spring a sore salary wing kept the old-timer idle for a while and then the stiffness shifted to his legs, later touching his back.

The player himself believes that an attack of rheumatism is causing him his troubles with Martin differing with him but not being able to suggest any other appropriately named affliction.

Yesterday's trouble, it seems, came from a new place, a sore spot developing in Coveleskie's forearm. From now on two different treatments will be administered, the trainer working on the muscles with the player sticking to his rheumatic diagnosis and treating himself accordingly.

In following out this idea the tobacco industry will be dealt a severe blow, for Coveleskie has sworn off chewing the weed, believing that this habit may put his stomach out of commission. This is a real sacrifice on the pitcher's part, for he was the world's greatest chewer, sleeping and eating with a cud in his mouth, his mates say.

Indications now are that neither Manager Harris nor Ossie Bluege will be ready to resume their places in the Washington infield at the Windy City tomorrow. Both had hoped to play, but their improvement has been mighty

Cobb Decision By Johnson Today

League Head to Act on Pleas of Fans in Detroit.

Makes No Comment on Protest of Connie Mack.

CHICAGO, May 9 (By A. P.).—Bombarded with telegrams urging the reinstatement of Ty Cobb in time for Detroit's celebration in Cobb's honor tomorrow, President Ban Johnson of the American league stated tonight that he would hand down a ruling on the case tomorrow morning.

Johnson declined to talk to Manager Connie Mack over the long-distance telephone this afternoon. He made no comment on Mack's demands for a special hearing at Detroit tomorrow with Cobb, Umpire Ormsby, Al Simmons, Mack and Johnson assembled to investigate the melee at Philadelphia last Thursday.

But when the wires began to bring him appeals by the score, he finally announced he would give a ruling tomorrow.

When the American league executive banged down his desk at the close of today's business, Cobb and Al Simmons, ranking stars of the Philadelphia Athletics, remained indefinitely suspended because of their row with Umpire Ormsby in Philadelphia last Thursday over Ormsby's ruling on a ball Cobb knocked out of the park despite the demands of Connie Mack that the pair be reinstated.

Ormsby ruled that Cobb's smash, hit close to the foul line, was a foul. Cobb thought it was fair. He protested so vigorously that the crowd became aroused, threw pop bottles and produced a situation that caused the police reserves to be called to escort Ormsby from the park.

Detroit had planned a gala celebration of the triumphal return of Cobb, with Gov. Green, Mayor John W. Smith and other dignitaries in attendance. Every seat has been sold for weeks, assuring a capacity crowd. Cobb's admirers purchased an automobile as one of their presents for him.

Detroit Pounds 5 Hub Hurlers to Win, 17-11

Detroit, Mich., May 9 (By A. P.).—Pounding five pitchers for a total of 22 hits, Detroit took the closing game of the series from the Boston Red Sox today, 17 to 11. Harry Heilmann was the star of an attack that produced at least one Detroit run in each inning except the seventh. Heilman drove out two home runs and two singles in five times at bat. George Smith, one of five Tiger pitchers, also smashed out a home run.

Chisox Beat Yankees On Error in 10th, 2 to 1

Chicago, May 9 (By A. P.).—Wilcy Moore, rookie right-hand pitcher of the New York Yankees, today tossed away a ten-inning game to the Chicago White Sox, 2 to 1, when he threw Kamm's bunt wild to first base, enabling Metzler to score from second. Metzler opened the tenth inning with a drive to center which he stretched into a two-base hit.

The Yankees scored in the fifth on Gehrig's triple and Meusel's sacrifice fly, but Chicago tied the count in the eighth by bunching hits.

Ruether was driven out of the box in the ninth inning, and Moore checked the rally. Tony Lazzeri made his first error of the season today when he fumbled Metzler's grounder in the first inning. Faber held the visitors to seven hits.

ABEL PILOTS WINNER OF $50,000 CLASSIC; SIR HARRY IS SECOND

Whitney's 2 Horses Waylaid Favorite, Says Pegler.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, May 9.—Bostonian and Whiskery, a couple of roommates from Harry Payne Whitney's horse barn, waylaid Scapa Flow, the big horse in the Preakness, as the pack of a dozen went thumping around the muddy mile and somewhat this afternoon, bullied the favorite right out of the horse race and finished almost one-two in the $50,000 2-minute gallop of the Maryland racing season.

Bostonian, a burly black colt, slid up from nowhere at all in the last quarter-mile to take up the lead and carry it through after Whiskery, who feeds out of the same nose bag as Bostonian, had run Scapa Flow spread-legged for more than half a mile on the dimly visible yonder side of the circle.

Sir Harry, the Canadian horse who won the Coffroth handicap last winter, was second, about half a length behind Bostonian, and Whiskery staggered home third.

Scapa Flow, a close-hauled favorite in the speculation chambers down under the yellow grand stand, got away to a tangle-foot start and used up a lot of go in the first quarter-mile or so in order to get into the race at all.

As the horses and jockeys blended into a gay fruit-salad mass of bright colors at the end of the first turn the green grass chemise of Frank Coltiletti, on Scapa Flow, was seen in front for the first time, and from that point the Whitney horses went out to take care of him.

It was something like a race between a lone runner and a relay team and when Whiskery had run down the big, brave animal that was freighting so much of the trusting public's finances in his saddle bags, Bostonian was ready to take up the lead and protect it to the finish for the dear old light blue and burnt-gravy brown that identifies the horse buckets and blankets and tubs in the Whitney barns.

When the race was over all citizens who had bought little buff colored tickets bearing the name of the Whitney stable took them downstairs where a number of lavish gentlemen standing behind wire screened windows

Special to The Washington Post.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., May 9.—Bostonian, the magnificent black son of Broomstick and Yankee Maid, carried the Harry Payne Whitney silks to an impressive victory in the mile and three-sixteenths in the $50,000 Preakness of the Maryland Jockey club at Pimlico this afternoon. Just half a length back of him came the Seagram stable's Sir Harry, winner of the Coffroth handicap, and at the latter's shoulder was Whiskery, a grandson of Broomstick and a stablemate of the winner.

Sir Harry is a grandson of Broomstick, so that it was a marvelous victory for the sons of that old sire over Man o' War when Scapa Flow, one of the latter's best sons, was fifth, with Black Panther fourth. The race was worth $53,100 to the winner, which was admirably ridden by A. Abel, and the manner in which he worked his way up on the outside left no doubt of his superiority over the field.

It was one of the most notable renewals of the famous old race and the three placed horses, closely lapped, fought it out valiantly before the greatest crowd that ever assembled on the old Pimlico course. It was a truly run race and there did not appear to be a real excuse for any one of the dozen starters that went to the post.

There was some delay at the post, for which Justice F. and Crystal Domino were largely to blame, but the start was a good one, although both Scapa Flow and Bostonian were slightly blocked before they got in stride.

Fair Star, Candy Hog and Jopagan were the first ones to show the way, but the others were in such a close bunch that there was little advantage in the actual lead. Before the stand was reached Coltiletti had found ample racing room for Scapa Flow.

He sent Scapa Flow along to take the lead, and Kummer also moved with Whiskery. The Whitney colt was not as alert as the son of Man o' War, and as a result he was carried wide on the first turn while Scapa Flow slipped Bostonian, hustled into a contending position, responded with a rush when placed to punishment, came to the outside of the leaders for the final test and, closing with great courage, wore his opposition down steadily and gained the lead in the last fifty yards. Sir Harry, away slowly, secured clear passage when straightened away on the backstretch, improved his position rapidly and closed with a tremendous rush. Whiskery was forced wide at the first turn, moved into contention with good speed, raced Scapa Flow into submission and held on stubbornly for the final issue.

HYDROMEL WINS IN GALLOP IN FINAL DERBY TEST

West's Hopes In Classic Increase

Prince of Wales Best of Field in Hotel Handicap.

Special to The Washington Post.

LOUISVILLE, May 9.—J. N. Camden's Hydromel, who with Rolled Stocking and Bewithus will carry the principal hopes of the West against the Eastern derby invaders next Saturday, made his final appearance before the classic event in the sixth race at Churchill Downs this afternoon. After the son of Light Brigade—Honey Dew had won this mile event with a stretch ...h which carried him handily past ... Kirkwood and older horses, he was ...onounced real derby timber.

Outside the money was J. C. Milam's ...r. Kirkwood, which had some sup...orters on account of fancy time trials, ...ut the brown Squander progeny was ...ever prominent and ended in sixth ...lace.

As the field of eight came out of the mile chute, Hydromel caused a gasp of dismay as he was badly outfooted for the first half mile, being in seventh position. Behind a pace of 47 2-5, even in the next two furlongs, Hydromel had not appreciably cut down Sixty's lead. As they rounded into the stretch, however, for the final dash to the wire, the big chestnut came with an electric burst of speed, ran over his field and won easily in 1:38.

Jockey W. Garner, on the Camden colt, worked him out the full derby route. Hydromel reeled off one and one-eighth miles in 1:53 2-5 and the full distance in 2:08 2-5. Turfmen were loud in his praise when he came back to the judges' stand breathing easily and looking every inch a great race horse.

He paid only $2.40 for $2 in the mutuels.

In the other feature of the day Prince of Wales romped away from a fair field in the Kentucky Hotel handicap at 6 furlongs, paying 1 to 2 in the speculation.

Rip Rap, the Sage stable's derby candidate, was first of the Eastern horses to appear on the scene, arriving this morning, with Trainer Maxie Hirsch in charge.

...red, jr., derby candidate owned by ...Grant, of Chicago, worked the ...stance this morning, with Jock... ...burger aboard. He galloped the ... 1:40 3-5 and cantered the re...ning distance in 2:11. He is regarded as a sure starter Saturday.

BOSTONIAN OUTRUNS FIELD IN PREAKNESS

through, and when the back stretch was reached the latter had gone into the command.

Once clear of his field Coltiletti took hold of the big colt and he was galloping along so strongly that he was already hailed as the winner. But Kummer was sending Whiskery along on the outside and he was steadily making up ground on the Jeffords' champion. Saxon, a fire flash of early speed, was still going strongly, but evidently givng his best to hold his position, and back of them both, Bostonian and Sir Henry were steadily moving through the field.

At the head of the stretch Whiskery had Scapa Flow beaten and the big son of Man o' War did not battle along for any space of time when the Whitney colt charged on him. In the meantime, Bostonian had moved up on the outside and Sir Harry, saving a bit more ground, for an instant looked the winner.

Whiskery had raced Scapa Flow to defeat, but it had cost an effort, and Bostonian was there to take up the running, and in a savagely fought finish Bostonian was half a length to the good at the end, while Sir Harry had only beaten Whiskery a neck.

Seldom has there been a more thrilling renewal of the Preakness and all three of the placed horses stamped themselves as of champion caliber. The manner in which Scapa Flow stopped under punishment suggested that he may lack courage, but the race may do him good in his derby engagement. Sir Harry is not an eligible for the derby, but both of the Whitney colts, as well as Scapa Flow, will be shipped to Louisville tomorrow.

Freddie Hopkins has arranged to ship the Harry Payne Whitney colts Whiskery and Bostonian to Louisville tomorrow afternoon. The stewards handed out suspensions to two jockeys on Saturday. R. Fisher was given the balance of the meeting for rough riding. Fishmon was also set down for the remainder of the meeting and his case was referred to the Maryland racing commission for further action.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Wind Flower (entry), $10.30, $4.20, $4.90; Gladys Clark, $4.00, $3.30; Sweepesta, $4.90.

Wind Flower, quick to get going, moved into a good lead at once, saved ground the entire trip, began to tire at the final furlong and had to be vigorously urged to stall off Gladys Clark. Latter raced forwardly from the break, slipped through on the inside of the winner in stretch run and was gradually wearing the winner down. Sweepesta, prominent from the start, was hard ridden throughout and held on gamely.

SECOND RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won ridden out. Place easily. Went to post at 3:07. Off at 3:08. Winner, S. Louis' ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—Harry Carroll, $6.80 $4.10; $2.90; Delusive, $4.90, $3.30; Lanoli, $3.30.

Harry Carroll was hustled into the lead going to the first turn, was taken in hand and rated while saving ground, shook off bold attempts from Delusive rounding the far turn and had to be kept under urging to retain his lead to the finish. Delusive gained steadily along the backstretch, drew to the winner with good speed rounding the far turn, but faltered through the final furlong. Lanoli, in nearest attendance of the winner for the first six furlongs, could not keep up when the real issue came.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good and fast. Won easily. Place same. Went to post at 3:43. Off at 3:44. Winner, P. F. Joyce's ch. h. Saratoga Maje raced Fly Book into early submission, saved ground, drew away slightly at the furlong pole and had speed in reserve the last part of the trip to hold Hedge Fence safe. Latter, rated off the pace, gained stoutly, but could not menace the winner the last furlong. Arlesian moved to the winner with good courage rounding the far turn, but faltered badly when the real issue came.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—Penstick, $4.10, $2.70, $2.30; Lounger, $3.50, $2.50; Stirrup Cup, $3.50.

Penstick was sent into a brief lead while racing next the inner rail, began to loaf around the far turn and was passed momentarily, was put to severe punishment and, coming to the outside of Lounger in stretch run, regained command and was going away under pressure. Lounger moved around his opposition with a rush at the turn for home, took command, but could not keep pace when collared. Stirrup Cup made a bold spurt rounding the turn, but was not equal to the task when the real issue came.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won driving. Place easily. Went to post at 5:41. Off at 5:42. Winner, Capital Stable's br. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—Powder, $7.00, $3.80, $2.60; Tillie, $4.50, $2.70; Donges, $2.60.

Powder raced forwardly from the start, moved up smartly and disposed of Donges, gained command and, steadied along for the remainder of the trip, stalled off keen opposition from Tillie and outstayed her in a hard drive. Tillie made a bold attempt rounding the far turn, but began to bear out throughout the stretch run and hung. Donges moved into a long lead entering the back stretch, held on well for a brief period when collared, but could not keep up the last three furlongs.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300. For 3-year-olds and upward; claiming. Start good. Won driving. Place same. Went to post at 6:20. Off at 6:21. Winner, C. L. Alletache, reserved off the early pace, responded readily to urging, wore Medius down gradually and held on tenaciously to the end. Medius sprinted into a long lead after going six furlongs, saved ground throughout, but could not resist the winner's effort. Lewis, placed in a forward position, gained stoutly the last part of the trip and was overtaking the leaders at every stride. Kandult, slow to get going, was never able to get to the leaders.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

—BY BERT E. COLLYER—

PICKLERS, Right out of the old brine barrel come some real sleepers uncovered by your Uncle Bertram. Just hop to 'em getting in line and cash and pray that the price will be satisfactory.

Chief of the melons is LANCER down at Churchill Downs. This one goes in the sixth spasm and all sails have been trimmed. I might also add that I know where the right money has been planted. You have the answer in your lily white duke, and if you don't collect it's because you are solid ivory from the shoulders up.

FLORIDA GOLD is another juicy morsel of this track. Never mind what has gone before. The fact that this good 3-year-old has been dropped into a claiming race is sufficient. Just forget all about PICCADILLY. This one will be lucky to save second money.

From Pimlico comes the good word that GOLDEN VOLT is the good thing of the afternoon. Now, brother, don't require a weather sash to fall on your head to either knock you out or bring you to your senses. Just to show you what I think of this "bird," I intend to visit the favorite cornerstone and have 10 smackers riding right on the old beezer.

Another hot tamale at the Baltimore track is THURON, which will be pitted against some star juveniles. The tougher they come the better the price. THURON will have a good rider in the coop. This youngster is highly regarded by the stable connections and they will be down hook, line and sinker.

Over at Aurora BILL SETH looks like ready money, while the chief of staff wafts the happy info' from Akron that MOUNTAIN CHIEF is going to step high, wide and handsome.

Nuff sed.

Latter, kept well up from the start, saved much ground at first turn and, although finishing gamely, was not good enough. Nettie Sweep, forced very wide entire trip, finished fast.

TECH NINE RALLIES TO DEFEAT BUSINESS, 12 TO 7

Stenogs Lose Contest in Series

May, of Stenogs, Hits Home Run, Triple and 3 Singles.

By ARTHUR A. HEYWOOD.

SOMETHING on the order of an orgy occurred at Eastern High school stadium yesterday when Tech and Business met in their postponed game of the scholastic series, and when the wierd contest came to a close, Tech was on the long end of a 12 to 7 count.

It was a game filled with baseball, good and bad, in addition to some sound hitting on both sides. Ensor, on the mound for Tech, and Marosey pitching for Business, until he was knocked off the hill in the eighth, each twirled brilliantly in spots.

Hitting honors of the day went to Charles May, Business catcher, who crashed out a homer, triple and three singles for a perfect day at bat. Demarest, shortstop for Tech, was credited with three hits. May's performance, however, was marred by two glaring errors he made while catching, before he was shifted to left field in the second. He allowed two passed balls which presented Tech with two runs.

Business, as usual, got away to a flying start in the first inning when May tripled to score Keefer, who had reached first on a scratch hit. May might have scored for Business, but was tagged out at home when Sorrell dropped a pitch and recovered in time to get his man.

Business was helpless in the second, Schofield in right field cutting off what might have been a rally by backing against the fence to take Marosey's drive. In this inning, however, Tech managed to shove across three runs to take the lead, principally because of Business' errors.

Marosey contributed his part by walking two men, hitting one, and making a wild pitch, while May was the other principal offender, giving Tech two runs on passed balls. Business shifted its line-up considerably, and B. Jones caught well the rest of the way.

The third, fourth and fifth innings produced little excitement, except a double play unassisted by Darne, Business' first baseman, and the feat of Marosey in striking out three men in the fourth and two in the fifth.

But Business, having subsisted on slim rations so long that it became irritable, took a flying leap at Ensor in the sixth to combine three sound wallops, one a double, and two errors to score four times. Tech came right back in the seventh, however, to score three times and regain the lead. Marosey's wildness again, two hits and an error turned the trick.

The grand flare-up came in the eighth when Marosey was driven from the mound. Berger singled and Fales, Demarest and Mills followed suit, with a walk sandwiched in between, and it was Sorrell's lusty wallop for a homer that sent Marosey on his way, and before Shreve, who replaced him could subdue Tech, Drissell had doubled. When the runs were added up Tech had scored six times in the inning.

Business made a half-hearted attempt to crawl out from under in its half of the ninth, but B. Jone's double and the home run by May to score two runs was its only consolation.

Taxi Team Winner In Terminal League

The Black and White Taxi nine overwhelmed the Railway Mail Service team, 17 to 4, yesterday in a weird game. Swan and Nicro led the slugfest.

The Taximen and the Mailmen have now split even in their league contests. Pullman, last year's pennant winners, and Southern Railway teams are showing the way to the other nines in the Terminal league, each having won their opening games. American Railway Express and the A. R. E. Tigers, by virtue of poor starts, trail in the league.

VIRGINIA NINE WINS FROM W. & L.

April Makes 5 Hits in 9-8 Game; Generals' Rally Ties Score.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., May 9.—Back from its Northern trip, Virginia's baseball team won from Washington and Lee today, 9 to 8, in a hectic, free-hitting contest, in which five twirlers were used.

With the Cavaliers enjoying a three-run lead, the Generals staged a batting rally in the eighth which netted four runs. With two on bases, Twirler Folliard came with a circuit smash.

Virginia came back in its half of the eighth to score three runs. Atkinson, batting for Colket, got an infield hit and Fayonsky walked. Both tallied on April's double to left field, and the latter counted on Cardwell's single.

April, who got four hits in the Maryland game Saturday, had a perfect day at the bat, getting five hits, including three doubles. His running catch of Rauber's long foul in the fourth proved the fielding feature.

Strayer's Nine Plans Debut During Week

The Strayer's Business College baseball team will open its season this week against a District High school nine, probably Central or St. John's. Strayers plans to keep the team intact and play through a summer schedule.

The team is composed of several experienced players who have starred with high schools here. Capt. David, formerly of Western, and Cappelli, who played with Eastern last year, have shown up well in the practice drills.

The school is also fostering a tennis team and a tentative match has been arranged with Gallaudet for May 25. Marshall, Hepburn, Simpson, Barnes, and Galloday comprise the court squad.

Western Body Ignores Mary Browne's Status

Chicago, May 9 (By A. P.).—The status of Miss Mary K. Browne, famous tennis-golf player, who was recently declared ineligible for amateur tournaments by the United States Golf association, was not brought up at today's meeting of the executive committee of the Women's Western Golf association. The session was private, but the committee members said that no one raised the question of permitting Miss Browne to play in women's Western tournaments, so there was no occasion for a vote.

Miss Browne has announced that she did not expect to play in any of the women's Western tournaments this year. Routine business and the award of three one-day invitation tournaments to Chicago clubs occupied the session.

Congressional Team Leads Fair Golfers

Mrs. R. Lester Rose (Congressional), 2½ points; Mrs. Middleton Beaman (Bannockburn), 3½ points; Mrs. J. L. Seaver (Washington), 6 points. Total, 12 points.

Mrs. L. B. Chapman (Congressional), 5 points; Mrs. C. B. Des Jardins (Bannockburn), 1 point; Mrs. E. F. Burchard (Bannockburn), 3 points. Total, 9 points.

Mrs. J. M. Haynes (Columbia), 1½ points; Mrs. G. T. Cunningham (Bannockburn), 4½ points; Mrs. J. E. Walker (Bannockburn), 0 point. Total, 6 points.

The prize for low gross was won by Mrs. L. B. Chapman with a card of 93 for eighteen holes, with Mrs. R. Lester Rose runner-up with a score of 94.

Capital City Teams In Meeting Tonight

First steps toward organizing the classes in the Capital City league will be taken tonight, when the pewee and insect divisions meet with the league secretary at the Jewish Community Center, Sixteenth and Q streets northwest, at 7:30 o'clock.

At this meeting rules of the league will be explained and applications of entries will be received. It is important that all teams be represented. The election of a league president to succeed Capt. John R. D. Cleland has been deferred until later in the week.

The Sportswoman

THE Washington Recreation league basketball teams will complete the season tonight with a buffet supper and cabaret by the team members, to be held at the Grace Dodge tea house at 7:30 o'clock.

Trophies will be presented to the winning team in each division by the league's president, Mrs. H. R. Scudder. The Eagles, of the Business High night school, captured first place in the senior loop. Strayer's first team won out in the intermediate section and the Basketeers took the junior title.

All clubs in the league will be represented and many local leaders in girls' sports will attend this final gathering of young, enthusiastic sportswomen.

The recreation league is barely two years old and has made rapid strides in the Capital and nearby Maryland towns. Its officials maintain the highest standards of athletics for the fair sex and cooperate in every way with organizations striving for the same ideals.

WHEATLEY WINS AT SCHLAG.

The closest contest in the elementary school schlag ball series yesterday was in the Rosedale division. Wheatley defeated Kenilworth, 8 to 7.

The winners took the lead in the first inning, 3 to 2, but Kenilworth made two runs in the second and held its opponents to 1, tying the score at 4-all. Wheatley forced ahead in the next inning by 2 runs, and kept the margin until the last session, when the girls from Kenilworth added one more.

PLAY SOCCER TIE.

The Marjory Webster Senior and Junior soccer teams played to a scoreless tie on the Monument grounds in the first of the interclass series being conducted by Miss Indie Sinclair, the athletic coach of the school.

Mike McTigue Winner In Tame Ten Rounds

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, May 9.—Old Michael McTigue, who hopes to get the first peg at Jack Delaney and his world's light-heavyweight crown, merely outpointed Pat McCarthy, of Boston, in a ten-round farce tonight in the new garden but added nothing to his prestige. It was a tame bout from start to finish but Michael got the decision because he landed ten of the twelve clean punches that were scored.

AL FOREMAN BEATEN BY KAPLAN

D. C. Boxer Is Badly Punished by Former Champion.

Special to The Washington Post.

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.—Following tonight's entertainment the Arena closed its doors for the season. If the management had elected to wash up and call it a year one week sooner, Al Foreman would have been a fortunate young fistman.

For in this case Al would never have been in there with that dynamic fighting person, Kid Kaplan, in the wind-up, and in consequence would have been saved a neat and complete beating. As it was, Foreman not only suffered a painful beating, but he was lucky to go the distance, and, of course, lost the decision.

That bout was as one-sided as an oil painting. Never taking a step backward, the former feather champion chased the Washington lad all over the ring, and whale him lustily with an effective left hook. Just why Foreman elected to make a running fight of it is hard to understand, for Kaplan can hammer the wadding out of any man who scampers away from him. If the ring had been banked Foreman would probably have done much better.

Al was so busy trying to keep out of the way of Kaplan's left hooks that he seldom let fly that deadly right he has. Once or twice he did let it go, and in the seventh landed his best punch, a right counter, that landed under the Kid's left eye and shook him up heartily.

But Kaplan kept right on coming, although thereafter he kept his chin down, realizing that if he caught another like that and on the button he would probably be swept up. After the bout Foreman's manager claimed that his boy had injured his right hand when he landed his first punch. Perhaps he did. It was evident from the first that Kaplan was in there to score a knockout if he could. As the bell sounded the Kid rushed out of his corner like a tiger and let fly a hook that landed on the side of Al's face and made him blink.

That was the first of a hundred such punches and there were many times when it seemed that Foreman would never make the grade. Then and there he startd going backward and Kaplan kept him running to the bitter end.

Relentlessly the Kid pursued his prey around the ring. Every once in a while Foreman clipped him with a right, but this only served to increase the ferocity of his attack. As early as the second round the Meriden mauler had his victim on queer street, but Al rallied and towerd the end of the round got over a few neat left jabs.

Frisch Is Peer of Hornsby, O'Farrell, of Cards, Declares

St. Louis Manager Would Not Trade His Star for Giants New Second Baseman. Boasts Four Star Pitchers.

NEW YORK, May 9 (By A. P.).—It was only a few years ago that John McGraw asserted he wouldn't trade Frankie Frisch for Rogers Hornsby. John subsequently changed his mind but now Bob O'Farrell, new boss of the Cardinals, comes along to let the boys know that he wouldn't trade Frisch back for Hornsby if the opportunity was offered.

"The Cards lost nothing when they got Frisch for Hornsby," declared O'Farrell, who stepped into Hornsby's shoes as pilot of the world's champions after being voted the National league's most valuable player in 1926.

"Of course I'm not taking a slap at Rogers," O'Farrell went on. "He's probably the greatest batsman in the game, but outside of that he hasn't a thing on Frisch."

O'Farrell figures the Pirates and Giants are the clubs the Cardinals must beat if they are to repeat their 1926 pennant victory. So far the Cards have taken four out of six from the Pirates. They cross Brooklyn bridge tomorrow to meet the Giants for the first time.

"My pitchers? There's no secret about 'em. They're all good men, anyway; in condition and going good. That's enough," O'Farrell went on. "Haines, Rhem, Sherdel and Old Alex—as strong as ever—are the 'Big Four' now, but I have Jimmy Ring or Bob McGraw, the man I just got from Brooklyn, ready to step in and do a regular turn."

The remarkable work of Haines, who has won five games in a row, is largely due to the perfection of his knuckle ball, O'Farrell revealed. The big pitcher has been working on this delivery for the last year or so, but he now has it under control and relies on it whenever he needs to "bear down."

It was this knuckle ball that caused the retirement of Haines in the last game of the 1926 world's series and gave Alexander the chance to stage a dramatic rescue act. The wear and tear of using it so much raised a big blister on Haines' index finger, with the result that he lost control, filled the bases with Yankees and was taken from the box.

Styles in knuckle balls differ, according to O'Farrell. The variety tossed by Haines either breaks away from the plate and down or drops without any warning break. His team mate, Flint Rhem, throws a knuckle ball that wobbles and is difficult to catch, O'Farrell says.

D. C. COLLEGE NINES WILL BE ACTIVE

4 Games Scheduled for Local Teams Tomorrow.

BASEBALL teams of the District College group are carrying only light schedules this week, as a forerunner to Northern trips to be undertaken during the next two weeks.

Four college games are slated for tomorrow, however, and the day will be the heaviest of the season thus far and mark the near final appearances here for Georgetown, Catholic University and Gallaudet College.

George Washington has played but one game, winning over the Kendall Greeners two weeks ago. The Hatchetite nine is the first to represent the school for some years. American University's team, another added starter in college baseball circles, has disbanded. The Methodists confined their play solely to practice games, for a schedule that was never formulated.

The others are still going strong, however, and, as the season wanes, the honors seem about equally divided between Georgetown and Maryland, with the Hilltoppers having a slightly better team.

At the present time, at least, Georgetown has a stronger combination than the Old Liners, due to a much more reliable pitching staff and heavier hitting, although Maryland's fielding has probably been more consistently good. In reckoning Georgetown's superiority regard is also given to the much harder schedule met by Coach Egan's men.

bought them back at general prices. For every $2 invested in these Whitney tickets they refunded $8.00, $3.50 or $4.00 according to whether the ticket read "straight," "place," or "show."

For every strawberry colored ticket bearing the name of Sir Harry, you were offered $6.20 or $4.90 according to whether it read "place" or "show." They say this sort of thing has been going on for some time.

Black Panther was fourth and Scapa Flow wobbled past the white-plate glass casino where the judges scan the track with the binoculars like officers on the bridge of a cruiser, a spent and despondent fifth.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, a man notorious for his positively immoral belief that thirst should be a joy and not an affliction, was among the group on the bridge. Admiral Cary Grayson, the navy physician who doctored Woodrow Wilson through two administrations, was up there too. Mrs. Wilson, the widow of the late President was in a box on the clubhouse veranda, and altogether the crowd was richly seasoned with members of the class known as the better people of Washington, Maryland and New York.

Jopagan, the only Maryland horse in the race, who beat Scapa Flow last week, started out to run for the money when Crystal Domino, the Chicago horse, finally was brought into line after a five minutes of rearing and fretting at the post and the pack was sent away.

Jopagan was a close and dogged second to Saxon all the way to the first turn, and was not shaken out of the struggle until Scapa Flow's mighty lunge brought him temporarily into the lead. Both Saxon and Jopagan fell back though, when the Whitney horses and Sir Harry fought it out for the money.

Harry Payne Whitney collected $53,100 for Bostonian's victory and $2,000 more for Whiskery's finish in third Second money was $5,000. As a further honor, Whitney will be allowed to pay burglary insurance on the Woodlawn vase, a big silver monument offered as the trophy of the race for the term of one year, at the end of which time he will give it back, if he is any gentleman.

SERIES GAME TOPS CARD TODAY

Central and Western Nines to Clash in School Feature.

THREE important events stand out clearly on the prep and high school sports card today and the first one which incidentally will attract the major interest is the scholastic baseball clash at Central stadium between Western and Central, undefeated. The other two big events bring together Devitt and the Georgetown freshmen in baseball and the Eastern High school track team and Georgetown freshmen. Both events are carded for the Hilltop.

Eastern and Business High school baseball teams will journey to Alexandria, Eastern to meet Alexandria High and Business will play Episcopal. Laurel High school, of Baltimore, is slated to play at St. Alban's. The tennis clashes will bring together Central and Western in a side attraction to the baseball game and Emerson will engage Georgetown Prep.

It may be a somewhat different Central High school team that will face Western today. Coach Kimble will have the services of several veteran players who become eligible with the posting of the advisory marks Friday.

Coach Kimble intimated that Colley might replace Shriver at third base and Cross might start either at second in place of Burch or replace Yingling at first. While Hough and Fisher probably will not start they will be available as pinch hitters. Simmons as usual will be at short and Leverton, Ault and Wolfe in the field and Blackistone catching.

While it is undecided whether Central will send Stevens or Duffy to the mound, both lefthanders, Coach Ahearn of Western, is expected to use Schneider, his best bet.

Pacini Leading Field In Alley Sweepstakes

Olive Pacini, Athletic league bowler, took the lead in class A of the classified sweepstakes being conducted by the Washington City Duckpin association this week when he rolled a 646 set for five games on the Convention hall alleys last night. Pacini's score was compiled with a string that included a high game of 165 and a low game of 111. Jack Whalen was runner up, with 608, while Arthur Logan took third honors, with a 607 set.

The class B bowlers were pretty well bunched following the 614 set rolled by Holloran, who incidentally took the lead. Turbs has 587; Van Sant, 572; Deputy, 560, and Ebersole, 557.

Gioffre Twirls Well in 4 to 1 Victory of Freshmen.

THE Catholic University Freshmen, displaying their best form of the season, defeated the Eastern High School team, 4 to 1, yesterday in the Brookland stadium.

Gioffre, on the mound for the Yearlings, turned in a brilliant exhibition and would have scored a shutout but for some wobbly support in the eighth inning.

The bunting attack of the Freshmen proved an effective weapon in the third and fourth innings, when the home team "squeezed" over two runs and was handed another by an Eastern error.

Gioffre held the Eastern batsmen in check except in the sixth and eighth rounds, when the visitors made gestures at scoring.

Walters led the hittting with three hits, while Knorr and Hook, of Eastern, contributed some sparkling fielding.

Entries for School Meet at C. U. Named

Although many more entries were expected than have been received, Catholic university will, however, hold the Eastern interscholastic track meet for Catholic high schools at the Brookland stadium on May 14, in the hopes that the games will set a foundation for larger meets in the future.

St. John's will be the only local schools entered. Other entries have been received from New York, Brooklyn, Trenton, N. J., Baltimore, Cumberland, Md., and Philadelphia.

Events will be run off in the 100, 220, 440 and 880-yard runs, the mile, 220-yard low hurdles, shot put, pole vault, high jump, discus, broad jump, javelin and mile relay.

An interclass meet will precede the interscholastic at 1:30 o'clock, permitting the big event to get under way at 2:30 o'clock.

St. John's Win, 20 to 0, Over Woodward Team

St. John's ran rough-shod over the Woodward school nine yesterday, 10 to 0, in a seven-inning slugfest. Paul Smith, in his first start on the mound for the Cadets, twirled in impressive fashion, allowing the Woodward batters only two hits and striking out eight.

The Saints started their rampage in the first inning and continued the assault upon the Woodward pitchers throughout the game. Bill Rapp, St. John's third baseman, led the attack with a home run, triple, and two singles in five times at bat.

This was the initial game of the season for the Woodward team, and it plainly showed the lack of practice and teamwork.

THURSTON TO PITCH IN CHICAGO TODAY

slow since the Nationals left the Capital.

Horace Lisenbee certainly takes his work seriously and this is one reason why Harris is so sweet on the youngster. In fact, he told the writer some time ago that the Nationals would not need a manager if there were "nine Lisenbees" on the team.

The Memphis rookie, whose record to date is three victories and no defeats, took a long workout under the stands in Sportsman's park after today's scheduled contest was declared off. He is due to show his wares to the Chicagoans in Wednesday's second game of the next series.

Bob Burke was not very ambitious today, a badly upset stomach sending him to Trainer Martin this morning for treatment.

The Harrismen are scheduled to leave here around midnight on a train due at Chicago in time for breakfast.

Goose Goslin is expected to join them there, but it is hardly likely that he will get in the afternoon game.

U. S. TREASURY BONDS LEAD IN WIDE DEMAND

UTILITIES LIST IRREGULAR

New York, May 9 (By the Associated Press).—Stimulated by prospects of continued easy money conditions, which Wall street believed were indicated by Secretary Mellon's action in calling for redemption the balance of the second Liberty loan bonds on November 15, bond prices today displayed a firm undertone. Demand centered largely in high-grade investment issues, with Treasury obligations taking the lead. A gain of nearly half a point in Treasury 3¾s was the outstanding feature.

Railway convertible bonds again attracted attention, sharp gains being scored by Delaware & Hudson 5s and Norfolk & Western 6s. New peaks for the year, or longer, were reached by Chicago & Northwestern 3½s and refunding 5s, Illinois Central refunding 4s and a few other high-grade issues.

Public utilities were irregular. Brooklyn Union Gas 5½ debentures jumped 5 points to a new peak of 186, but later lost half the gain. Third Avenue refunding 4s and Manhattan Railway consolidated 4s also advanced to new 1927 highs, while New York Railway income 6s duplicated their previous low for the year at 26.

Industrials were quiet on the whole. Granby 7s yielded a point on profit-taking.

Only nominal demand was felt in the foreign division. Chilean issues were bought in considerable numbers, but at only fractionally improved prices.

Prompt oversubscription was reported of the $50,000,000 issue of Erie 5s offered this morning.

Public offering will be made tomorrow of $15,000,000 Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Co. 5 per cent gold debentures, priced to yield about 5⅛ per cent. Proceeds will be used to retire the outstanding $16,500,000 issue of 7 per cent preferred stock at 110. The offering syndicate is headed by Hayden, Stone & Co.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, May 9 (By A. P.).—The cotton market was lower today under profit taking and selling for a reaction which appeared to be inspired by better weather reports than anticipated over the week-end and a disposition to scale down estimates of possible flood damage to coming crop estimates. July sold off to 15.57, or 29 points net lower, and closed at 15.65, the general market closing steady at net declines of 21 to 24 points.

The opening was easy at a decline of 8 to 17 points in response to the better weather news than looked for by buyers of late last week and disappointing late cables from Liverpool. Active months soon showed net losses of 20 to 24 points under liquidation. Combined with local and Southern selling, rallies of a few points followed on the prospect for rather unsettled weather in Western and central belt sections, but they met renewed liquidation and the market weakened again during the afternoon on a favorable view of the detailed weather reports for the day and belief that showers or rains would be beneficial in some parts of Texas.

Early advices from Washington regarding the reports of agricultural statisticians in the flooded districts to the Department of Agriculture also seemed to encourage reactionary sentiment, as the figures given on the production of last year in flooded districts of Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas were commented upon as below ideas based on recent private estimates.

May sold off to 15.40 and December to 16.02, net declines of about 28 to 30 points on the general list. A few stop orders were uncovered on this decline, but their execution prices rallied a few points on covering.

Private cables reported hedging with London and Bombay selling in the Liverpool market, but said there was freer buying of light cotton cloths for India and that advices from the Chinese goods trade were more encouraging.

Exports today, 44,354 bales, making 9,914,371 so far this season. Port receipts, 14,469. U. S. port stocks, 1,891,143.

Big Winter Wheat Harvest Is Forecast

(By the Associated Press.)

With good to excellent conditions reported from the principal producing sections, a winter wheat harvest this year of 593,940,000 bushels was forecast yesterday by the Agriculture Department. This would be 33,000,000 bushels less than produced last year, but 21,000,000 bushels more than the average production of the last ten years.

The department placed the condition of the crop on May 1 at 85.6 per cent of a normal, as compared with 84.0 per cent a year ago and 83.7 per cent of the ten-year May 1 average.

CURB MARKET REVIEW.

New York, May 9 (By the Associated Press).—Broad demand for public utility issues, induced by increasing earnings in a steadily expanding industry, overshadowed other transactions in today's curb market. Trading was on a fairly large scale, but price changes in the majority of the list were fractional.

United Gas Improvement registered a new high, at 107⅞, closing for a net gain of 1⅝, and shares of Mohawk Valley and Mohawk Hudson were in active demand.

Oils were reactionary, Humble declining more than a point on the day, while Standard Oil issues generally showed only fractional changes.

Responding to the strength and activity of baking issues on the "big board," similar issues moved upward. General Baking A, United Biscuit "B" and Loose Wiles, "when issued" scored gains of 1 to nearly 3 points.

A few specialties were active, Safeway Stores sold up 7 points, and St. Regis Paper 5.

Procter & Gamble touched a new high at 198 for a net gain of 5 points. A new peak also was reached by Cancitaly Corporation at 117.

Motors were mixed, Auburn advancing a point, while Marmon and Durant closed lower on the day.

ETHAN ALLEN IN RADIO TALK ON WRC TONIGHT

Hero of Coolidges' Home State Will Be Basis of "Great Moments" Story.

READINGS OVER WMAL

This would be a good night for President Coolidge to listen in, because one of the outstanding natives of "The Green Mountain State"—Vermont—will be the basis of the radio narrative known as "The Great Moments in History," to be broadcast through WRC at 7:30 o'clock. Ethan Allen will be remembered for his surprising victory at Fort Ticonderoga, which took place on May 10, 1775, and was the first notable victory of the revolutionary war.

Employing a chain of stations for that purpose, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Charles S. Dewey will be heard from New York through WRC, giving further information regarding the calling in of all outstanding second Liberty loan 4 per cent bonds and second Liberty loan convertible 4¼ per cent bonds.

Attesting to their popularity, three instead of two talks, all of interest to women, will be broadcast at short intervals beginning at 10:30 o'clock this morning by Miss Nancy Carey, director of The Post home efficiency service.

A play-by-play account of the Washington-Chicago baseball game will be broadcast this afternoon by Thornton Fisher. Other features tonight are Waldorf-Astoria orchestra from New York, piano twins from New York, Columbia university French lecture from New York, Ritz male quartet from New York, Hotel Mayflower orchestra and the radio cavalcade.

"Judging from Dahlias," a spring-time talk by Dr. J. B. S. Norton, plant pathologist, University of Maryland, will be the first feature on the WMAL program at 6:45 o'clock tonight, followed by the Inoco hour, directed by Moe Baer. Caleb O'Connor will be heard in selected readings.

George Olsen's orchestra will be heard through WJZ and the blue net at 7 o'clock. Also at the same hour Colin O'More, tenor, formerly star of the San Carlos Opera company, will appear at WRNY during the Edison hour. Popular arias from eight operas known the world over will be sung by the National Grand Opera quartet through WJZ at 8 o'clock.

Lieut. Comdr. S. C. Hooper, U. S. N., will speak on "The Mission and Scope of Naval Radio" at the monthly dinner of the Washington section of the Institute of Radio Engineers. It will be held at Harvey's Thursday night and be preceded by a club dinner.

MEMORIAL WORKERS TO CONTINUE DRIVE TO COMPLETE FUND

$24,000 Is Reported Needed at Luncheon Marking Formal Campaign End.

HUNDREDS OF GIFTS HELD STILL AVAILABLE

$131,000 Now in Hands of Treasurer; $155,000 Is Estimated Cost.

In accord with the wishes of the men and women who for the last week have been canvassing Washington for the funds necessary to build the District war memorial, their campaign, brought to a formal end yesterday afternoon, will be continued quietly until Washington has subscribed the amount needed to assure the memorial's construction. This amount is approximately $24,000, and, according to the views of men and women who spoke at the closing luncheon of the campaign yesterday, it will be forthcoming and the near future will see the actual beginning of construction of a monument in West Potomac park which will commemorate the service and the death of Washingtonians in the world war.

The final report at yesterday's luncheon added $14,856 to the sum secured last week, bringing the campaign total to $71,134.95. With $60,000 raised last year, there is now $131,134.95 in cash or pledges in the hands of John Poole, treasurer of the memorial commission. Estimates show that the memorial proper, without some of the landscape features, amplifying devices and other embellishments later to be added, can be built for $155,000. The balance needed before the contracts are let, therefore, is approximately $24,000, and from sources yet unheard from, this balance will be still further reduced by funds raised during the campaign just closed.

When these figures were placed before the workers yesterday Edward F. Colladay, who has led one of the divisions of men's teams, made the statement that there were still hundreds of Washingtonians who would be willing to subscribe if approached on the memorial project, and that there were scores of others who had made up their minds to subscribe but who as yet have failed to do so. He made the formal motion that the campaign be continued indefinitely, with the campaign organization already in hand, until the deficit is made up. His motion was seconded by Isaac Gans, who has served as a team captain during the drive. But before it could be put to a vote half a dozen workers rose to their feet to urge that the motion be carried. With these were Mrs. T. V. Walker, who represented the woman's auxiliary of the American Legion during the campaign, and who pledged the continued efforts of her organization until the objective of the drive is reached.

Must Be Assured.

The motion was formally put to a vote and carried unanimously, Newbold Noyes, chairman of the campaign, who was presiding, announcing afterward that the organization which has raised the sum so far in hand will be continued in skeleton form and that the campaign will not end until the memorial is assured.

Following this vote Colladay paid a tribute to the leadership shown by Noyes during the campaign, and the workers gave him a rising vote of thanks. In return, Noyes thanked the men and women who have given so much of their time to the campaign and congratulated them on their success in what has admittedly been a difficult task, principally because of the priority given the Red Cross appeal, an appeal which rightly occupied the thoughts of Washingtonians first, he said.

Among the contributions received yesterday were one from William Mitchell, commander of the Vincent B. Costello post, American Legion, for $50; one for $1 from William F. Franklin, adjutant of the Costello post, and one for $10 from Mrs. Mary C. Costello, in honor of whose son the legion post is named.

The fund in memory of Lieut. William A. Sheehan received additional contributions yesterday from Wade H. Ellis, $150; Udora Sheehan, $30; "A Friend," $5; Ellen T. Allen, $5, and a similar amount from another friend.

J. G. Grew Gives $200.

The previously announced $100 from Joseph G. Grew, Undersecretary of State, was corrected yesterday, the amount having been $200.

Yesterday's contributors were announced as follows:

Vitale Held for Grand Jury.

Joseph A. Vitale, alleged to have invaded the beauty parlor of his wife, Mrs. Ruth A. Vitale, at 908 Fourteenth street northwest, on May 6 and attacked her and Harry A. Neligan with a club and a knife, was held for the grand jury yesterday in police court on two charges of assault with a dangerous weapon under bond of $2,000 in each case.

DRIVER HELD IN DEATH OF BOY TRAFFIC GUIDE

Mt. Rainier Man Must Face Grand Jury Action, Coroner Rules.

Benjamin Franklin Smith, 50 years old, of Mount Rainier, Md., was held for grand jury action in the death of George Branston Langford, 13 years old, Pierce schoolboy traffic guard, by the verdict of a coroner's jury yesterday. Injured March 14, by Smith's automobile, the boy died Saturday at Casualty hospital.

Young Langford, who lived at 610 Maryland avenue northeast, had escorted two younger children across Fourteenth street and Maryland avenue northeast, when the car, driven by Smith, crashed with a truck, witnesses say, then swerved and pinned the boy against a lamp-post. Policeman John Sirola, of the Ninth precinct, testified that Smith ran past his traffic signal and the truck had the right of way. He was substantiated by William Beall, Sidney Schosteck and Maurice Mocello, three fellow guides of Langford; Richard Green, colored, driver of the truck; LeRoy Gray, colored, passenger in the truck, and Mrs. Joe Berntsen and C. C. Frye, bystanders.

Dr. Joseph D. Rogers, deputy coroner, who performed the autopsy, testified the boy's death resulted from complications that followed the injuries suffered in the crash. Smith declared that the truck, in passing Patrolman Sirola, obscured his vision, that he was driving carefully and slowly, and the wet streets caused him to skid after the truck ran into him. A few days after the accident he was fined $35 in traffic court for reckless driving. After the verdict was rendered, he was turned over to a United States marshal.

Man, 60, Found Dead, Suicide From Poison

Robert E. Parker, 60 years old, 2619 K street northwest died at his home Thursday from the effects of poison which he swallowed with suicidal intent, a coroner's jury declared following an inquest at the District morgue yesterday.

Parker was found dead in bed. A glass containing the poison was at his side. Police have been unable to determine whether he has any relatives in this country. He came to this country from England several years ago.

Wife Denies Charges Of Orchestra Leader

Mrs. Louise C. Boernstein, wife of Irving N. Boernstein, orchestra leader, who was sued by him for an absolute divorce, denied the charges of misconduct yesterday in her answer filed in equity court through Attorney Joseph Y. Reeves.

Attached to the answer is a cross-bill in which Mrs. Boernstein asks for a limited divorce on the ground of drunkenness and desertion. They were married March 11, 1912. Mrs. Boernstein says that her husband deserted her in June, 1921, whereas her husband says they separated because of her conduct, but she declares that her conduct was not the cause of the separation. Boernstein earns about $1,000 a month, his wife declares. The court is asked to set aside a separation agreement entered into by the parties.

TEST SUITS ARE FILED FOR REFUND OF TAXES

Action Taken on Levy Under Borland Amendment on Rhode Island Avenue.

Two test suits, designed to force the hand of the District government in the matter of refunding taxes improperly assessed more than three years ago under the Borland amendment for the paving of Rhode Island avenue northeast, have been filed in the municipal court by Attorneys John C. Wilkes and Henry A. Schweinhaut.

Ordinarily such claims are outlawed by the statute of limitations as the assessments were made more than three years before the court of appeals declared them illegal. The assessments were made under the famous "front foot rule," regardless of the depth of the property affected. Numerous claims are pending before the commissioners and these claims amount to more than $100,000. They have been considered by a committee consisting of Robert L. Williams, assistant corporation counsel; William P. Richards, assessor of taxes, and M. C. Hazen, District surveyor.

The commissioners have not announced through the committee whether they will refuse payment on the ground that the claims are outlawed by the statute of limitations or settle each claim upon its merits. Hence the filing of the test suits which will force the commissioners to announce their intentions in this matter.

MOTHER IS INDICTED ON KIDNAPING CHARGE

Children, in Custody of Father, Disappear While Going to School.

Mrs. Piney A. Youngblood, former wife of James J. Coursey, was indicted yesterday by the grand jury on a charge of abducting her two children, Bertha, 12 years old, and Shelton, 10. The children disappeared near Stanton square northeast, on February 17, while on their way to school. According to the police, this was the second time the children disappeared from the custody of their father, James J. Coursey. The latter was divorced from the defendant in Florida on January 8, 1921, and was awarded the custody of the children, according to the records. The children are supposed to have been taken away in an automobile.

Joseph F. Green, who has several aliases, was indicted on a charge of false pretenses. He is alleged to have represented himself as a congressman to Ida Knapp, 20 Eighth street northeast, on December 3, 1921, in the lobby of a downtown hotel and afterward procured her indorsement to a worthless check for $100. Louis Hopkins, colored was exonerated by the grand jury of a charge of homicide in connection with the death of George C. Brown. The latter was beaten with the crankhandle of an automobile on April 22 in front of premises at 1235 Seventh street northwest.

Elmer Dodson, taxi driver, and Elizabeth M. Rossingol, who were arrested on complaint of Edward Dougherty, of Baltimore, on April 30, following a ride in Dodson's cab to Virginia, were exonerated by the grand jury. Dougherty complained that Dodson and the woman robbed him of $80 and a watch and then threw him out of the cab on a lonely road in Virginia. The names of other persons indicted or exonerated will be found in the daily legal record of The Post.

PLAN BOARD URGES COUNT OF TRAFFIC TO LIFT CONGESTION

Statistics Would Be Gathered Yearly at Strategic Highway Centers.

OPINION ON ADDITION TO LIBRARY WITHHELD

Wide Bridge Recommended Over Rock Creek Valley in Georgetown.

As a guide to plans for elimination of future traffic congestion in the District, the National Capital park and planning commission yesterday recommended to the District commissioners an annual traffic count at strategic highway centers, District officials to decide on the time period covered by the count.

The commission made no definite recommendation as to time of year the District commissioners should make the count, but suggested it be taken at the same time each year. The count would include one of automobiles, another of pedestrians and a third of street railway traffic.

Statistics obtained would indicate increased or decreased density in traffic on important highways and enable the commissioners to decide easily the trend of traffic movement.

In accord with its plan for future traffic congestion relief, the commission also withheld opinion regarding tentative plans for an addition to the public library building in Mount Vernon square, commissioners desiring to study the arrangement thoroughly to determine whether it would result in increased congestion at this point.

Serious Traffic Problem.

It was explained that a serious traffic problem exists in this vicinity and a number of solutions already have been tried. An addition to the building might interfere with future street changes needed to care for traffic between the Northwest section of the city and Union station.

Discussing the projected M street bridge in Georgetown over Rock Creek valley, the commissioners decided the span should be sufficient to provide a roadway 54 feet wide in the valley, exclusive of sidewalk space on either side, and that the bridge should have a roadway at least 40 feet wide.

A change in the highway plan providing a 90-foot roadway connecting Bladensburg road with South Dakota avenue, between the Pennsylvania railroad tracks and the National Training School for Boys, was approved by the body.

This new highway between Bladensburg road and Anacostia park will start at Bladensburg road as a direct extension of Queen's Chapel road and run north of and parallel to the Pennsylvania railroad tracks as far as Anacostia park. It will be 90 feet wide.
